Economics

Contact: Ida Ferrara

The Business Economics program offered by the Economics unit within the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies integrates aspects of economics and business studies, focusing on the use of economic analysis and statistical methods to deal effectively with management problems in applied business fields. In applying economic theory to business management, students become familiar with the analytical and decision making techniques used in the business world, and with the public and private institutional environments within which businesses operate. Students will gain economic insight into critical business topics such as strategic competition, the internal organization of firms, and international issues facing businesses in the changing global marketplace. Students can pursue a degree in business economics at the BA level or at the BA Specialized Honours level.

Contact: Ida Ferrara

The Economics program offered by the Economics unit within the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies focuses on those aspects of social behaviour, and those institutions, which are involved in the allocation of scarce resources among alternative uses in the pursuit of the satisfaction of human wants. Through a unique teaching approach that blends theory and case studies, students gain in-depth knowledge about how to apply the analytical and quantitative tools of economics to understanding and solving a wide range of individual and social problems about consumption and production in a variety of markets (product, labour, capital etc., both nationally and internationally) that arise because of resource scarcity. Students can pursue a degree in economics at the BA level or at the BA Specialized Honours level.

School of Women's Studies

Atkinson Coordinator: Ruby Newman

The School of Women's Studies offers a consolidated undergraduate program which brings together the women's studies programs from the Faculties of Arts, Atkinson and Glendon. This merged undergraduate program provides students with increased flexibility and access to a greater number and variety of women's studies courses. Courses offered through the School of Women's Studies will count as in-Faculty courses for Atkinson, Arts, and Glendon students, and will be offered during the day and evening on both the Keele campus and the Glendon campus. Please consult the School of Women's Studies mini-calendar for further information, available at the school's main office, 206 Founders College, 416-650-8144 (press 1).

The undergraduate women's studies curriculum is built around four different kinds of courses.

Required Courses

- AK/AS/GL/WMST 2500 6.00 or AK/AS/GL/WMST 2510 9.00: required for all women's studies majors;
- AK/AS/GL/WMST 4500 6.00: required for all women's studies majors in an Honours BA program.

Core Courses

The core courses are offered by the School of Women's Studies and, like the required courses, have the second digit five (5) in the course number, e.g. WMST 2500 6.00. Students are required to select between 12 and 24 credits of core courses depending on their degree program. Core courses cover themes deemed essential to women's studies and will explicitly aim to develop critical reading, writing and oral presentation skills, research skills and more advanced research and theoretical skills as appropriate to the course and year level. The required and core courses will:

- focus primarily on women;
- be taught from feminist perspectives;
- be interdisciplinary;
- address the intersections of race, ethnicity, disability, sexual identity and gender;
- acknowledge the different perspectives on women in a global context;
- explicitly identify the critical skills to be developed in the course.

Non-Core Courses

The School of Women's Studies will offer a small number of non-core courses designed to serve a narrower disciplinary focus than the core courses, meet a particular program need (e.g. independent study or special topics courses), or appeal to non-women's studies majors. These courses will have the second digit 8 in the course number, e.g. WMST 4802 3.00.

Courses Offered by Other Units

Courses offered by other teaching units may be accepted for program credit or cross-listed with the School of Women's Studies. These courses will count towards the major requirements in women's studies. Please consult the School of Women's Studies mini-calendar, available in the school's main office, 206 Founders College, 416-650-8144 (press 1).

There are two points of admission to the Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) degree: 1) direct entry and 2) post degree. Admissions and program requirements are noted below. If further information is required, students should contact the School of Social Work.

The bachelor of social work program prepares students for professional social work. Successful practice experience is an essential requirement in the social work degree program. School of Social Work Regulation on Involuntary Withdrawal

A student may be required to withdraw from a course if:

1. The student fails to meet the requirements of the course, either through unsatisfactory seminar and/or practicum attendance/participation, or through unprofessional behaviour in fulfilling course requirements; or
2. The student's performance is judged to disrupt the functioning of the practicum site and/or jeopardize the well-being of clients of the practicum site, and/or demonstrates unprofessional behaviour at the practicum site.

The decision to require the student to withdraw will be taken by the Director of the School of Social Work on the recommendation of the course director and/or the practicum coordinator, following a meeting with the student.

Students will have access to the usual appeal procedures in such instances.

Certificates

“Undergraduate Certificate” is the term applied to a program of study attesting to a level of competence or skill in a particular area or field. It is distinct from a defined undergraduate degree program, stream, specialization or informal concentration. A certificate recognizes a specific grouping of courses that are cross-disciplinary but with a thematic coherence; form a coherent yet distinctive complement to the major of a degree program, or: lead to the acquisition of specific skills or professional expertise that may meet requirements of outside accrediting bodies.

1. Categories of certificates: Atkinson offers cross-disciplinary, general and professional certificates. For titles and patterns of study, refer below.

2. Admission: Students seeking direct entry to a certificate program must submit written application when applying for admission to the University. Students already enrolled in an undergraduate degree program are also expected to apply for entry to a certificate program, normally prior to completion of 36 credits of their undergraduate degree program. Applications should be obtained and filed with the unit administering the certificate program.

Students who were admitted to a professional certificate offered by the School of Administrative Studies prior to fall/winter 2005-2006 may elect to follow the old certificate regulations or the new certificate regulations whichever is more advantageous. All students admitted from September 2005 must follow new regulations.

3. Minimum standards:

- (i) Cross-disciplinary certificates: Minimum 24 credits, at least 18 of which must be at the 2000 level or above, including six credits at the 3000 or 4000 level.
- (ii) General certificates: As described by program.
- (iii) Professional certificates: Normally 24 credits, 18 credits of which would be at the 3000 level or above. In most cases, at least 12 credits of the disciplinary courses that satisfy certificate requirements must be in addition for those used to satisfy requirements of an undergraduate major being completed concurrently.

Note: To obtain a professional certificate offered by the School of Administrative Studies, at least 18 credits of the ADMS course credits that satisfy certificate requirements must be in addition to those used to satisfy a degree.

Note: Some certificate programs may have specific academic standing requirements.

4. Minimum requirements for multiple certificates: Students may acquire more than one certificate provided that at least 18 credits in each certificate are unique to the specific certificate.

5. General information:

- (i) All academic regulations applying to degree students in degree programs will apply to students in certificates.
- (ii) A student who wishes to change from a certificate to a degree must re-apply to the York University Admissions Office.
- (iii) Students enrolled in a certificate program and who are not concurrently enrolled in a degree program may take only the courses required for the completion of the certificate.

6. Residency requirement: The University residency requirement for undergraduate certificate programs are as follows:

- (i) 18 credits to be completed at York for a certificate requiring up to 36 credits.
- (ii) 50 per cent of the required credits to be completed at York for certificates comprising more than 36 credits.
- (iii) Normally, for undergraduate certificate programs requiring 18 credits or less, all credits are completed at York.

7. Graduating with a certificate: Except where otherwise stated, a minimum cumulative grade point average of 4.00 is required to satisfy certificate requirements. Students must submit an Application to Graduate from a Certificate Program. Applications should be obtained and filed with the unit administering the certificate program. Certificates will not be conferred until candidates have successfully completed an undergraduate degree program if they are simultaneously enrolled in a degree and a certificate program. Exception: students who were admitted to a certificate prior to fall 2005.

The Faculty does not award certificates retroactively.

Ethical issues are becoming increasingly central to almost all areas of professional and public life. As work becomes faster, more technologically and bureaucratically complex, and evermore economically productive, ethical issues increase in difficulty and seriousness. As a result, the demand for people with qualifications in professional ethics is growing in all sectors. Our especially large range of courses in the area of professional ethics concentrates on real situations and case studies. Almost all of these courses are cross-listed with the relevant professional department or discipline. By taking a number of these courses, students encounter many different concrete ethical issues and learn a variety of perspectives and methodologies for dealing with them. Our style of professional ethics recognizes the diversity of values, traditions and points of view that are brought to bear today on actual current ethical problems. Nonetheless, these courses constantly attempt to integrate this situational approach by means of a search for generally applicable methodologies and ways of theorizing such issues. The certificate therefore gives students a wide range of experience and methodologies for understanding institutional practices that deal with ethical issues in the public and private sectors. They develop capacities to flexibly adapt this knowledge to different institutions and unforeseen ethical problems in such areas as education, business, health, media, government, law, social work, politics and personal life. Because the resolution of concrete ethical issues needs a creative response to the particularities of unforeseen situations, practice on cases in a number of different institutions and professions helps one to prepare for dealing with problems in one's own.

The Certificate in Professional Ethics is based in Atkinson's School Arts and Letters. It is a direct entry program that is available to any students admitted to Atkinson or the University.

Harm Reduction - Theory, Policy and Practice

Co-sponsored with the School of Social Work, Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies and Field Development, Faculty of Education, York University

This 24 hour non-credit course is designed to introduce service providers, administrators and policy makers to the basic principles, philosophy and application of harm reduction. Harm reduction is a term that refers to a specific set of approaches and corresponding policies that underlie those approaches to reduce risks for people who use drugs and/or engage in behaviours that put them "at risk". Increasingly harm reduction is deemed to be a realistic, pragmatic, humane and successful approach to addressing drug problems and other self destructive behaviours of individuals and communities. (<http://www.atkinson.yorku.ca/harmreduction/>)

Professional Development Courses/Workshops in Dispute Resolution

This professional development series is designed to assist mediators and other practitioners to develop and refine their skills within specialized areas of practice and management. The series will explore three key areas of specialization: Dispute Resolution in the Workplace; Building a Successful Mediation Practice and Family Mediation.

Building a Successful Mediation Practice

To establish and maintain a successful mediation practice practitioners must have business know-how, marketing skills and administrative expertise. This 39-hour non-credit course will help dispute resolution practitioners develop these skills, design the kind of practice they want, attract a desirable clientele, and lead their business in profitable new directions. (http://www.atkinson.yorku.ca/~dce/Programs/Professional/ProDev_DR/ProDevDRDesc.html)

Advanced Family Mediation Skills Training

This 21-hour non-degree workshop will enable participants to move to a more advanced level when dealing with complex financial and child-related cases in family mediation.

Participants will have the opportunity to practice their skills with a coach/student ratio of 1:5, along with receiving videotaped feedback on their role-play(s). The course utilizes the performance-based training model, in which the role-play becomes the learning forum, rather than an extension of the lecture. There will be demonstrations by the instructor during the workshop. (http://www.atkinson.yorku.ca/~dce/Programs/Professional/ProDev_DR/ProDevDRDesc.html)

Assessing and Screening for Domestic Violence

Research suggests that power and control issues that underlie domestic violence may heighten during separation/divorce proceedings and child custody disputes. Mediators and other professionals who work with families involved in divorce proceedings need to be concerned about domestic violence. This 21-hour non-degree credit workshop will assist mediators and other practitioners to develop theoretical knowledge and practise skills in recognizing domestic violence and determining whether and under what conditions divorce mediation is appropriate.

This workshop is also designed to meet the Domestic Violence Training requirements set by the OAFM and FMC for their members. Flight Dispatcher Program

A flight dispatcher plays a pivotal role in the aviation industry in Canada. As an employee of an airline, the flight dispatcher has overall responsibility for flight planning and air safety. With few and very limited exceptions, aircraft belonging to an airline, carrying passengers and operating from a Canadian airport may not depart without the consent of the flight dispatcher. All flight dispatchers must have passed the generic Transport Canada Flight Dispatcher Examination before being permitted to work in flight dispatch.

This intensive, non-degree credit course was designed to assist flight dispatch candidates to prepare for the Transport Canada Certificate Examination. (<http://www.atkinson.yorku.ca/~dce/Programs/ExamPrep/Flight/Flight1.html>)

General Information

Within the broad mandate of the University, York's Faculty of Education offers innovative pre-service, professional development and graduate programs. The Faculty is distinguished by its commitment to exploring ways to address equity, social justice and environmental issues in all of its programs. The Faculty values collaboration and an interdisciplinary orientation to education within an academic framework of inquiry into the interrelatedness of language and culture, teaching and learning. These values are evidenced in our staffing model and in our programs. York's pre-service, professional development and graduate programs are staffed by full-time tenure stream faculty, faculty seconded full-time from local school boards, and faculty cross-appointed from other programs within the University.

The Faculty of Education at York offers concurrent undergraduate programs for students simultaneously enrolled in other undergraduate Faculties and a full- and part-time consecutive undergraduate program for prospective teachers who have already graduated in another discipline. The Faculty's Deaf and Hard of Hearing Education post-baccalaureate program is the only one of its kind in Ontario. Our unique graduate program focus in language, culture and teaching has resulted in interdisciplinary faculty and student collaboration across several departments within the University. Our research and field development program, offered conjointly with school boards, is based on a teacher-as-researcher model.

Teacher education at York is understood as an intellectual as well as a practical endeavour. Students in the program are exposed to current theory and research in education and education-related fields. As well, students have the opportunity to work extensively in schools and their communities. This balance between theory and practice is made possible, in part, by York's complementary staffing model which brings together faculty working on on-going research and writing projects with faculty who have extensive and current professional expertise across all aspects of compulsory schooling. Together they are able to provide students with a program which is based on current theory, research and classroom practice. Boards of education inside and outside the province highly value York's bachelor of education graduates because of their awareness of social justice issues, their knowledge of current theory and research, and their strong classroom experience.

Teacher candidates entering the Faculty of Education's Concurrent program at York generally do so in the second year of their academic program. They are carefully selected on the basis of academic achievement, oral communication abilities, experience and personal characteristics relevant to the teaching profession. One year is added to their undergraduate studies and they work concurrently to complete the requirements of their bachelor's degree as well as the requirements of their bachelor of education degree. In three of those years, they spend one day a week in school or community placements along with a block practice teaching period at the end of years two and three. Candidates are advised on the selection of an academic sequence which will honour the usual requirements of the University and which will also help them recognize the necessary courses for specialization. Advisers are aware of the University offerings, both in a candidate's area of specialization and in those areas of University teaching which have a bearing on the nature of education in a general way. Concurrent candidates may also pursue the Jewish Teacher Education option, a course of study designed to prepare teachers with qualifications not only for an Ontario Teaching Certificate (OTC) but also for Hebrew language and Jewish studies in the Jewish Boards of Education. As well, concurrent candidates may opt to be involved in the Westview Partnership Initiative. The Faculty also offers a BEd (French) program to prepare teacher candidates to teach French at the elementary level (K-6) with emphasis on French Immersion education in Ontario.

Teacher candidates entering the Faculty of Education's full or part-time Consecutive program at York must have completed a three- or four-year undergraduate degree. They are carefully selected on the basis of academic achievement, oral communication abilities, experience, and personal characteristics relevant to the teaching profession. The full-time Consecutive program runs over an extended academic year. Candidates receive an introduction to the teaching profession and are oriented to campus facilities and to their host schools in the last week of August. The practice teaching and course work of the program continue through to the following June. Candidates normally spend two days a week in schools from early September to early June. As well, nine weeks of block teaching practice are embedded within this time frame. This strong emphasis on practicum is a vital connection in linking theory and practice. The part-time consecutive program is taken over a three-year period. Teacher candidates typically take their courses and practicum in two to three full week days, and complete a one to four week practicum block in May of each academic year.

A host school which is most suitable for York's program is defined, in part, by the presence of a pool of committed mentor teachers, a supportive principal and, in addition, a teacher articulate about the process of education who will fill the role of site coordinator. Our program operates in the schools with the continuing consent of the Board and the staff of the school. Teacher candidates are assigned their placements. They do not choose their own host schools.

The Faculty of Education takes seriously the eradication of discriminatory practices based on race, gender, ethnicity, social class, sexual orientation, and disability. As such, the Faculty has established structures, procedures and practices that are designed to eliminate those barriers.

The Faculty is committed to educating students to work in a pluralistic society. To this end, we recommend that students select academic and educational courses that offer a wide range of experience and knowledge, as well as diverse theoretical and ideological perspectives.

BEd Degree Programs

In the Concurrent and the Consecutive part-time programs, three basic programs are offered to give certification at the primary/junior, junior/intermediate and intermediate/senior levels. The full-time Consecutive program offers primary/junior, primary/junior articulated for graduates in early childhood education, primary/junior and junior/intermediate urban diversity, junior/intermediate, junior/intermediate in fine arts, and intermediate/senior. Successful completion of any one of these programs leads to recommendation following convocation for the basic Ontario Certificate of Qualification with qualifications to teach within the two divisions included in the particular program title.

The divisions of the school system of the province of Ontario are defined as:

- Primary - junior kindergarten to Grade 3
- Junior - Grade 4 to Grade 6
- Intermediate - Grade 7 to Grade 10
- Senior - Grade 11 to Grade 12

Practicum/Seminar Approach

Much of the curriculum for all pre-service programs of the Faculty of Education is linked to practicum experiences. The teacher candidate spends extensive time in field settings or practica that are supported by coursework and school/community partnerships.

In addition to providing direct experience and an opportunity to apply newly acquired skills and knowledge, the practica are a major source of curriculum in the sense that they bring candidates face to face with concrete situations. These situations are related to seminars held at the University. The underlying assumptions of this approach are that teaching can be considered as a form of problem solving and that teacher candidates learn best that which allows them to understand and to master their environment.

Duration of the Academic Year

Students seeking admission to the Faculty of Education should note that the academic year in the Faculty is somewhat longer than is usual in other Faculties. This longer year is owing to the practicum requirements. Consult the Concurrent and Consecutive program sections below with respect to the specific practicum requirements.

Criminal Background Checks

All teacher candidates in the Faculty of Education Consecutive (full- and part-time) and Concurrent programs are required to have completed a satisfactory criminal background check. Further information on criminal background checks can be obtained from the Ontario Education Services Corporation at <http://www.oesc-cseo.org>.

Medical Tests

The University may, at any time, require a teacher candidate to undergo a medical examination and may appoint a duly qualified medical practitioner to conduct the examination.

Access Initiative – Concurrent and Consecutive Programs

The Faculty of Education Access Initiative is designed to recruit and admit individuals who are from groups which confront or who have themselves confronted identifiable barriers to education. Applicants from the following target groups may choose to apply to the Faculty of Education through this initiative:

- First Nations/Aboriginal Peoples;
- people with disabilities;
- racial minorities/people of colour;
- people whose personal education or career have been affected by the refugee experience.

Applicants to the Concurrent Access Initiative are required to have a minimum of 24 credits and be coregistered in another Faculty at York University. Applicants to the Consecutive Access Initiative are required to have completed an acceptable undergraduate degree at an accredited university (as determined by York University). All applicants must meet York Faculty of Education admission requirements.

Information on the Access Initiative may be obtained from Undergraduate Student Services, 128 Winters College, or by calling 416-736-5001.

Expectations of Catholic School Boards

Many of the Catholic school boards in Ontario require that applicants for teaching positions have completed successfully a course in religious education methods. To help candidates meet this requirement, the Faculty of Education, in cooperation with the Catholic Office of Religious Education (CORE) offers an optional (ED/EDUC 3000 0.00*) course in Religious Education. Please consult the timetable and register for this course during the registration period. Priority enrolment in this course is given to ED III candidates (Concurrent and Part-time Consecutive programs only).

The Catholic school boards prefer that all applicants for positions have had some experience in Catholic schools. Candidates wishing some practicum experience in Catholic schools should make their wishes known on the practicum request form. Every effort will be made to provide interested candidates with a Catholic school placement during at least one of their practica. Some Catholic school boards also prefer applicants to have had some university-level course work in the area of religious studies.

Please note that ED/EDUC 3000 0.00 is a requirement for employment with the Toronto Catholic District School Board. Please check if this is a requirement for other Catholic boards where employment is being sought.*

Ontario Certificate Of Qualification

The Ontario Certificate of Registration certifies that the holder is qualified to teach in Ontario elementary and secondary schools. The basic and additional qualifications of the teacher are recorded on a second form, the Certificate of Qualification. The Certificate of Qualification will be updated as the teacher acquires additional qualifications.

The regulations require a candidate to earn basic qualifications in two consecutive divisions during the pre-service teacher education program. To teach in the intermediate division one must have completed courses in one teaching subject, and in the senior division two teaching subjects, selected from an approved list.

Certificates to teach in Ontario schools are issued by the Ontario College of Teachers on the recommendation of the dean of the Faculty of Education. All information in this calendar about regulations with respect to certification is governed by the Ontario College of Teachers.

The Ontario College of Teachers requires that candidates provide an official transcript indicating eligibility to graduate. Transcripts must be requested by the candidate from the Registrar's Office.

New graduates from Ontario Faculties of Education must apply for membership in the Ontario College of Teachers in order to obtain a license to teach in publicly funded schools in Ontario.

Citizenship

Applicants to the Faculty of Education should note that, while there are no citizenship, permanent residency or other requirements for entrance to York University or to the Faculty of Education, the Ontario College of Teachers will grant the Certificate of Registration and the Certificate of Qualification only to individuals who are Canadian citizens, permanent residents or otherwise entitled under Canadian regulations to obtain work as a teacher in Canada.

Evaluation Policy and Procedures

Course Weight

A minimum of 30 credits (five full university courses) is required to complete the BEd pre-service degree. A course which is allocated 6.00 credits (ED/XXXX 6.00) is the equivalent of a standard full-year course. Any course which is allocated 3.00 credits (ED/XXXX 3.00) is the equivalent of a half course. Any course which is allocated 1.50 credits (ED/XXXX 1.50) is the equivalent of a quarter course. Candidates are not allowed to enrol in more than the equivalent of 12 credits (two full university courses) in the Education Concurrent program in any one year.

Grade Requirements

a. Concurrent Candidates

In order to remain coregistered in the Faculty of Education or to graduate, candidates must maintain a superior standard of performance in both their academic Faculty and in the Faculty of Education. Teacher candidates will be ineligible to continue or to graduate if they fall into any one of the categories listed below:

- Candidates who fail to maintain a C+ overall average or a 5.00 grade point average in the Faculty of coregistration will not be considered eligible to proceed in education.
- Candidates will be ineligible to continue in the BEd degree program if they receive less than a grade of C+ in any course taken for education credit.
- Candidates are expected to achieve a minimum of C+ in each course fulfilling the requirements for a teaching subject for junior/intermediate and intermediate/senior. Failure to do so may result in a suspension or involuntary withdrawal from the program or other appropriate recommendation at the discretion of the Faculty adviser and the associate dean (pre-service).
- Candidates are required to complete one practicum seminar during each of the three years of the program. These seminars, which consist of both seminars and placements in a school/community (year one) or in a school/classroom (years two and three) are evaluated on a pass/fail basis. Candidates who fail to achieve a pass in a practicum seminar are ineligible to continue in the program.
- Practicum seminars are corequisite with appropriate courses.

b. Consecutive Candidates

In order to remain registered in the Consecutive program and to graduate, candidates must maintain a superior standard of performance in their course work. Teacher candidates will be ineligible to maintain their registration status or to graduate if they receive less than a grade of C+ in any half or full education course.

- Candidates who fail to achieve a pass in a practicum seminar are ineligible to continue in the program.
- Practica are corequisite with appropriate courses.
- Candidates in the part-time program are required to complete one practicum seminar during each of the three years of the program. These seminars, which consist of both seminars and placements in a school/community (year one) or in a school/classroom (years two and/or three) are evaluated on a pass/fail basis.

Evaluation Policies and Procedures

- All evaluation procedures and criteria will be clearly specified in the course outline and made known to the candidate.
- Information in a candidate's file will be released outside the University only upon the written request of that candidate.
- Candidates will have the opportunity to assess their progress in each practicum/seminar course in consultation with instructors at least once in each term.

It is an important goal of the Faculty of Education that graduates be able to operate as independent problem solvers who have the capacity to evaluate their own performance and to muster evidence of achievements and progress. Thus, while the professional staff of the Faculty bear the ultimate and final responsibility for evaluation, each teacher candidate is also expected to play an important role in self-evaluation.

Grading Scheme

Grade Scales

All undergraduate courses in the Faculty of Education are graded with the common nine-point grading scheme approved by Senate.

Grade	Point Value
A+	9	Exceptional
A	8	Excellent
B+	7	Very Good
B	6	Good
C+	5	Competent
C	4
F	0

Practicum Seminar

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is defined as the presentation of work as one's own which originates from some other, unacknowledged source. In examinations, term papers and other graded assignments, verbatim or almost verbatim presentation of someone else's work without attribution constitutes plagiarism. This is deemed to include the presentation, without acknowledgement, of someone else's argument in the candidate's own work as if it were one's own.

Cheating

Cheating is defined as the giving or receiving or utilizing, or attempt at giving or receiving or utilizing, unauthorized information or assistance during or before an examination; or the presentation of a single work to more than one course without the permission of the instructors involved.

In all cases of suspected breaches of academic honesty, the course director must consult with the candidate. Minor or major penalties may be applied should the instructor believe that grounds exist for official action. The candidate has the right to appeal any allegation of plagiarism or cheating.

If candidates are uncertain whether a course of action might constitute cheating or plagiarism, they should consult the instructor concerned in advance.

Academic Dishonesty

For further information please consult the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty in the University Policies and Regulations section of this calendar.

Withdrawals

Course withdrawals: Candidates may withdraw from any education course without receiving a grade if they do so by the published withdrawal dates. Candidates who withdraw from an education practicum seminar, or from any course in the Consecutive program, however, should note that they will be required to re-apply for admission to the Faculty of Education if they wish to resume their education program. To withdraw from an education course, candidates must report their intent to the Faculty of Education, Undergraduate Student Services, in accordance with the published withdrawal dates. Those who withdraw from a course after these dates are normally deemed to have failed it and receive a grade of F.

Program withdrawals: Candidates who withdraw from the Faculty of Education, and who are registered in the Concurrent program, may transfer their accumulated education credits to their academic Faculty subject to the rules and procedures of that Faculty. Any grades so transferred are then subject to the regulations governing maintenance of standing in their academic Faculty. Candidates must report their intention to withdraw both to the Faculty of Education, Undergraduate Student Services and their academic Faculty.

Faculty Legislation on Involuntary Withdrawal

A candidate may be required to withdraw from a course if:

- the candidate fails to meet the requirements of a course, either through unsatisfactory seminar and/or practicum attendance/participation, or through unprofessional behaviour in fulfilling course requirements; or
- the candidate's performance is judged to disrupt seriously the functioning of the host classroom and/or the well-being of the students in that classroom.

The decision to require the candidate to withdraw will be taken by the associate dean (pre-service) on the recommendation of the course director following a meeting with the candidate.

Candidates will have access to the usual appeal procedures in such instances.

Education Program and/or Subject Changes

Candidates are advised that a change in education program (movement among primary/junior, junior/intermediate and intermediate/senior programs) or in teaching subjects at the junior/intermediate and intermediate/senior levels may only be made with the approval of the associate dean. Considerations which may affect the approval of such a change include the year level completed in the education program, standing of the candidate and the adequacy of academic background for the proposed change, and matters having to do with enrolment limits and availability of the education courses which would be required for the candidate to complete the altered program. Program changes may result in delays in graduation.

Deferred Standing

Deferred standing may be granted with the support of the relevant course director, in cases where final grades cannot be assigned because all course requirements have not been completed. The grounds for granting deferred standing are for rare and unforeseen circumstances.

When granted, deferred standing is an interim measure pending completion of regular or alternative assignments.

The granting of a deferral may result in candidates missing June convocation for degree conferral. Deferred Standing Agreement forms may be obtained at Student Client Services or the Faculty of Education, Undergraduate Student Services, or online at <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca>. Requests must be accompanied by a medical certificate and other written documentation. Deferred Standing Agreement forms should be completed in consultation with the course director prior to the submission of final grades.

Reappraisal

While all grades and evaluation decisions are carefully assessed, a candidate may request a reappraisal of a grade by making a formal request to the associate dean (pre-service) within three weeks of the release of final grade reports. The request must be in writing and should state clearly why the applicant believes that the grade should be re-evaluated. A reappraisal may result in a lower, higher or unchanged grade. Please note that before submitting a formal request for re-evaluation, candidates must first discuss the assigned grade with the course director. If the candidate is unable to reach the course director before the three-week deadline, a letter of intent to appeal the grade can be submitted to the associate dean's office pending contact with the course director.

Petitions Procedure

Students may petition on reasonable grounds and in writing any of the regulations of the Faculty of Education. Enquiries about procedures should be made to the Faculty of Education, Undergraduate Student Services.

University Policies and Procedures

Disruptive and/or Harassing Behaviour By Students In Academic Situations

Students and instructors are expected to maintain a professional relationship characterized by courtesy and mutual respect and to refrain from actions disruptive to such a relationship. Moreover, it is the responsibility of the instructor to maintain an appropriate academic atmosphere in the classroom and the responsibility of the student to cooperate in that endeavour. Further, the instructor is the best person to decide, in the first instance, whether such an atmosphere is present in the class.

Religious Practices and the Pre-Service Practicum

The Faculty of Education at York University is enhanced by serving a diverse population. In accordance with the laws of Ontario and Ministry regulations that recognize and support religious differences, it is essential for our teacher candidates to be able to observe their own religious traditions and practices, both within the Faculty and during school placements. Course directors, administrators, site coordinators and mentor teachers should be sensitive to individual needs and discuss with their teacher candidates how these needs can best be accommodated within the practicum. Teacher candidates are encouraged to initiate discussion about their religious traditions, obligations and practices early in the school year so that necessary arrangements can be made. Course directors will support candidates by making this policy known to host schools and teacher candidates early in the school year.

Sexual Harassment, York University

York is both an institution of learning and a workplace. As such, this University does not condone sexual harassment or any other exploitation of power. In fact, the University views sexual harassment to be a serious offence and it will impose disciplinary measures in the case of such an offence. This is in keeping with the Ontario Human Rights Code (1981) which affirms the right of individuals to study and work in environments free from sexual harassment. York University seeks to prevent its students and employees from being sexually harassed.

In consultation with principals or relevant school board administrators, school board policies may be invoked if sexual harassment occurs in field placements.

Concurrent BEd Programs

The Faculty of Education offers a concurrent, coregistered BEd degree and a concurrent, coregistered BEd (French) degree. This means that teacher candidates pursuing BEd studies are also working towards the completion of a BA, BES, BHS, BSc or BFA degree. The academic bachelor program, normally requiring three years for completion, will require four years when taken concurrently with the education degree. Similarly, a program normally requiring four years for completion could require five years.

Students must have a minimum C+ overall average or a 5.00 grade point average in their academic Faculty to be eligible for admission to and to maintain coregistration in any one of the three basic programs. Students wishing to graduate with a three-year bachelor program degree from their academic Faculty are eligible to enrol in the primary/junior or junior/intermediate programs only.

In order to coregister, students must be admitted to each Faculty separately. Only those students who are admitted to an undergraduate degree program at York are eligible to be admitted to the Faculty of Education. While coregistered, the combined study program of each candidate is subject to the approval of the two Faculties. The BEd degree is awarded only in conjunction with an academic degree as described above.

Successful graduates receive both a BA degree (or BES or BHS or BSc or BFA degree) and a BEd degree, as well as a recommendation for the Ontario Certificate of Qualification.

Note: The Concurrent program is a three-year program with a practicum to be completed in each year.

Standards and Procedures for Admission to the Concurrent BEd Program

To apply to the Faculty of Education, a student must:

- have completed by April 30th a minimum of 24 credits (four full university courses) of a first year of undergraduate studies or the equivalent,

or

- have a minimum of 36 credits (six full university courses) left to complete their academic degree.

Applicants must have a minimum 5.00 (C+) overall average and be admitted to and continuing in an undergraduate program in one of the Faculties of Arts, Atkinson, Environmental Studies, Fine Arts, Health, Science and Engineering or Glendon.

Applicants normally complete both degrees (e.g. BA and BEd) within four years of coregistering, and both degrees must be conferred at the same convocation.

Applicants must attend both education classes and fulfill practicum requirements during the daytime throughout the academic year. A limited number of sections of some courses are offered in the evening.

Applicants must complete at least 12 credits (two full university courses) towards their academic degree in each calendar year (i.e. September to August) to comply with the concurrency requirements of the Faculty of Education.

Successful candidates are normally selected on the basis of education-related experience, references, university grade point averages and individual interviews.

Note: An application will not be regarded as complete until all documents and materials have been received by the Faculty of Education. It is the responsibility of applicants to ensure that their file is complete.

Application forms for Concurrent programs are available in mid-December for admission to the Faculty of Education for the following academic year. Application forms can be downloaded from the Faculty of Education Web site at <http://www.edu.yorku.ca/advising/>. For information contact

Concurrent BEd Program Practicum

The first year field placement explores schools and their communities. Candidates spend 50 hours in this field placement during their first year in the program. The second and third year practica occur in schools and classrooms. This long-term association with a school's program allows the candidate to observe the development of the curriculum and pupils over the course of the school year and to acquire an understanding of the school and its community. Over the three-year period of the program, every attempt is made to familiarize candidates with different boards in the area, pupils of different age levels, a range of school offerings, and a variety of social groups of pupils. (For further details on the Concurrent program practicum, please see the Faculty of Education Web site at <http://www.edu.yorku.ca/advising/>.)

Concurrent BEd (French) Program

Students entering the Faculty of Education's Concurrent BEd (French) program generally do so in the second year of their academic program.

Considerable emphasis in the program is placed on ensuring excellent French language proficiency and deep understanding of francophone cultures. To satisfy the francophone cultural component of the program, teacher candidates participate in a one-year study program in a francophone context during year 3 of a 4 year program or year 4 of a 5 year program on a stop-out from the Faculty of Education, or enrol in two full course equivalents (12 credits) in francophone culture as part of the bachelor's degree requirements. A significant proportion of the practicum is carried out in Ontario French Immersion schools. Candidates also have experiences in English language elementary settings.

Note: The Concurrent BEd (French) program is currently offered at Glendon College at the primary/junior level only.

All students are required to apply to the Faculty of Education and will be selected as per the requirements listed below:

- Must have completed by April 30th a minimum of four (4) full courses (24 credits) of a first year of undergraduate studies or the equivalent.
- Have a minimum C+ overall average in an undergraduate program at York University or the equivalent.

or

- Have a minimum of six (6) full courses (36 credits) left to complete their academic degree.
- Have a minimum C+ overall average in an undergraduate program at York University or the equivalent.

Applicants who do not present one of the following must successfully complete a written and oral French placement test:

- Four full years of study in French at the secondary school level.
- One full year of study in French in an accredited university degree program.
- Two full years of study in French in an accredited college diploma program.

Note: We do not count time spent in FSL courses; letters written by applicants, or senior-level high-school French course(s) as proof of French language proficiency.

The above requirements are general guidelines only. We reserve the right to require a successfully completed language proficiency test.

Applicants must have a minimum 5.00 (C+) overall average and be admitted to and continuing in an undergraduate program in one of the Faculties of Glendon, Arts, Atkinson, Environmental Studies, Fine Arts, Health, or Science and Engineering.

Applicants normally complete both degrees (e.g. BA and BEd) within four years of coregistering, and both degrees must be conferred at the same convocation.

Applicants must attend both education classes and fulfill practicum requirements during the daytime throughout the academic year. A limited number of sections of some courses are offered in the evening.

Applicants must complete at least 12 credits (two full university courses) towards their academic degree in each calendar year (i.e. September to August) to comply with the concurrency requirements of the Faculty of Education.

Successful candidates are normally selected on the basis of education-related experience, references, university grade point averages and individual interviews conducted in both English and French.

Note: An application will not be regarded as complete until all documents and materials have been received by the Faculty of Education. It is the responsibility of applicants to ensure that their file is complete.

Application forms for Concurrent programs are available in mid-December for admission to the Faculty of Education for the following academic year. Application forms can be downloaded from the Faculty of Education Web site at <http://www.edu.yorku.ca/advising/>. For information contact Undergraduate Student Services, Faculty of Education, 128 Winters College, York University, 416-736-5001.

Please note that Faculties of Arts, Atkinson, Environmental Studies, Fine Arts, Health, and Science and Engineering students take their BEd (French) education courses at the Glendon campus.

Concurrent BEd (French) Program Practicum

Practicum seminars in each of the three years are designed to cover basic issues of observation, inquiry, reflection, school structures, portfolios, lesson planning, curriculum design, classroom management, and assessment. Each seminar is supported by university coursework and a relevant placement.

Placements in Year 1 of the BEd (French) program consist of a set of experiences in francophone community-based and/or French Immersion school-based sites (not individual classrooms). Teacher candidates complete a 50-hour placement.

In Year 2, the opening week block, one day per week in the fall term and two weeks of a four-week final block take place in an English school/classroom. A Winter placement takes place in a French Immersion setting in the same panel (i.e. primary or junior). In Year 3, teacher candidates are placed in school settings in which a variety of French Immersion classroom experiences are offered. The emphasis of the placement is on the panel not addressed in Year 2. This placement consists of an opening week block, one day per week, and a four-week culminating block.

Program in Jewish Teacher Education - Concurrent

Candidates in the Faculty of Education's Concurrent program may pursue the Jewish Teacher Education option, a course of study designed to prepare teachers of Hebrew language arts and Jewish studies under guidelines established by the Faculty in consultation with the Board of Jewish Education of Greater Toronto.

During the course of the candidate's professional training, appropriate practicum placements in Jewish day schools enable candidates to develop teaching skills in Jewish studies and general studies leading to certification by the Toronto Board of Jewish Education as well as the preparation necessary to be recommended for certification by the Ontario College of Teachers.

Jewish Teacher Education Program

Teacher candidates enrolled in this program should be sure to include:

AS/HEB 3210 3.00 or AS/HEB 3211 3.00
AS/HEB 3220 3.00 or AS/HEB 3221 3.00
AS/HEB 3230 3.00 or AS/HEB 3231 3.00

These courses are offered on a rotating basis over a three-year cycle.

ED I students are asked to make an appointment for an informal Hebrew language assessment to determine the section in which to enrol: Department of Languages, Literatures and Linguistics, 416-736-2100 ext. 55016.

Teacher candidates in Jewish Teacher Education usually major in religious studies in the Faculty of Arts. Even those students who are not majoring in religious studies are expected to take a coherent program of Hebrew language and courses in Jewish studies. All students, regardless of major, are expected to qualify for the Advanced Certificate in Hebrew and Jewish Studies (six approved courses with a grade of C+ or higher in each; for details see the Jewish Studies Web site: http://www.yorku.ca/cjs/certH_JS.htm).

Teacher candidates enrolled in the Jewish Teacher Education program should carefully prepare their academic programs each year in consultation with a Faculty of Education advisor and/or the program's coordinator in order to be sure that they meet the academic requirements of their chosen programs in the Faculty of Education and the Faculty of Arts, including the Advanced Certificate in Hebrew and Jewish Studies.

Faculty of Education Concurrency Requirements

While coregistered in the Faculty of Education, a candidate's combined academic and professional program must meet the following requirements:

1. Candidates may not enrol in courses having a combined weight of more than the equivalent of 12 credits (two full university courses) in the Faculty of Education in any one academic session.
2. Candidates should consult with their adviser or designate about any academic courses which they propose to add or drop, as changes in academic courses may make one ineligible to remain in a program or to qualify for certification. Normally both degrees must be completed within four years of coregistering.
3. Concurrent with their education course work, candidates shall normally be enrolled in the equivalent of at least 12 credits (two full university courses) in their academic degree program during the calendar year.
4. Candidates must complete a practicum seminar in their final year of undergraduate study.

Coregistration in the Faculty of Education makes heavy demands on one's time and energy. Candidates are, therefore, advised to register in no more than a total of 30 credits (five full university courses) in the Faculty of Education and their coregistered Faculty during any one academic session. In unusual circumstances, and with the full advance knowledge of one's adviser, a candidate may register in a maximum of 36 credits (six full university courses), combined academic and education course load in any one academic session.

Primary/Junior Program

The primary/junior program is open to prospective teachers who wish to teach Grades JK to 6.

Teacher candidates should ensure that they complete at least 30 credits (five full university courses) with a 6.00 (B) average in their major for salary categorization.

Since the primary/junior teacher must be a generalist, it is strongly recommended that candidates in the primary/junior program take as part of their coregistered program:

- six credits in science
- six credits in fine arts
- six credits in history or geography
- six credits in English or humanities
- six credits in mathematics
- six credits in kinesiology and health science

Junior/Intermediate Program

The junior/intermediate program qualifies candidates to teach in Grades 4 to 10. By current College of Teachers' regulations, all candidates must prepare themselves to teach one subject at the intermediate level as well as to teach at the generalist level all subjects in the junior/intermediate divisions. Candidates may choose their intermediate division subject from the following list:

dance	history
dramatic arts	mathematics
English	music – instrumental
French as a second language	religious education
geography	science – general health and physical education	visual arts

When selecting their teaching subject, candidates should note the academic requirements for each subject and the prerequisites for particular curriculum and instruction courses.

For the junior/intermediate program a minimum of 18 credits (three full university courses) in a subject must be taken in order to register in the teaching subject curriculum and instruction course. A candidate requires a minimum of 24 credits (four full university courses) in the teaching subject in order to graduate.

Intermediate/Senior Program

The intermediate/senior program qualifies candidates to teach in Grades 7 to 12. It may be taken only in conjunction with a four year degree program with a minimum C+ overall average or a 5.00 grade point average and over a period of three or four years of coregistration. By Ontario College of Teachers' regulations, all candidates in the intermediate/senior program must prepare themselves to teach two subjects at the intermediate/senior levels. Candidates may choose their intermediate/senior division subjects from the following list:

business studies – accounting*	international languages (German, Italian, Spanish)
business studies – general*	law*
business studies – information and communication tech*	mathematics computer studies	music – instrumental dance	philosophy
dramatic arts	politics*
economics*	religious education
English	science – biology
family studies*	science – chemistry
French as a second language	science – general geography	science – physics health and physical education	social sciences – general
history	visual arts

*Intermediate/senior applicants cannot select two business studies as teachable subjects, nor can they select combinations of law, politics and/or economics for first and second teachable subjects, or combinations of social sciences – general and family studies for first and second teachable subjects.

Formerly individual and society.

Some of the above subjects (e.g. business studies) depending on numbers may only be available through independent study courses. Teacher candidates should discuss the possibility and appropriateness of such courses with their advisers by February first of the education year one.

When selecting their two teaching subjects, candidates should note the academic requirements for each subject and the prerequisites for curriculum and instruction courses.

For the intermediate/senior program a minimum of 24 credits (four full university courses) in the subject area must be taken in order to register in the teaching subject curriculum and instruction course. A candidate requires a minimum of 36 credits (six full university courses) in one teaching subject area and 24 credits (four full university courses) in the other area to graduate.

It is highly recommended by the Qualifications Evaluation Council of Ontario (QECCO) and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation (OSSTF) that teacher candidates complete 54 credits (nine full university courses) in a teaching subject to qualify for the highest pay rate as a teacher.

Other Subjects

Other teaching subjects, including Latin and modern languages such as German, Japanese, and Portuguese, may be arranged on an independent study basis. It should be noted that each independent study course requires the approval of the curriculum committee (with regard to academic aspects) and the associate dean (pre-service) with regard to financial and programmatic aspects. Such approval should not be assumed and should be sought during the spring advising period and prior to course enrolment.

Stop-Out Year*

Candidates in the Concurrent program may be eligible to take a stop-out year; that is, a year in which the candidate enrolls in courses in the academic degree, but does not enrol in any education courses.

The stop-out year permits candidates to progress toward completion of the academic degree, while not progressing further toward the education degree. This may be appropriate to permit a candidate a period of concentrated study in the discipline, to extend one's teaching subject academic background prior to an intermediate or senior division practicum seminar, or simply to balance the progress in the two degrees to ensure that concurrency regulations will be fulfilled and both degrees will be completed in the same year.

Stop-out years are normally taken between the education I and education II years but may also be taken between the education II and education III years. Candidates are not eligible to do more than one stop-out year during the course of their BEd program. Regulations governing concurrency must be adhered to by candidates exercising the stop-out option. Stop-out forms are available from the Education Office of Student Programs and online at <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca>.

Please note that stop-out years are not mandatory and should only be used where necessary to ensure that concurrency is maintained and that both degrees are completed in the same year.*

Consecutive BEd Program

The full-time Consecutive BEd program runs over an extended academic year. Candidates receive an introduction to the teaching profession and are oriented to campus facilities and to their host schools in the last week of August. The practice teaching and course work of the full-time program continue through to the following May. The part-time Consecutive BEd program runs over a three year period.

Successful graduates of the full- and part-time programs receive a BEd degree as well as a recommendation for the Ontario Certificate of Qualification.

Consecutive Program Practicum – Full-time

Teacher candidates in the Consecutive program typically have two practicum placements in the primary/junior and junior/intermediate divisions and three at the intermediate/senior division. Candidates spend the opening week of school in their placement as a means of orientation to teaching and to the mentor classroom. Depending on the program, candidates spend one or two days a week in the classroom, or alternating weeks in and out of the classroom. The first placement extends from September through to mid-December and the second from January through to the end of May in the primary/junior and junior/intermediate divisions. In addition, all teacher candidates have two three to four week blocks of intensive practicum experience during the year culminating in a final four week block in May. Intermediate/senior candidates have a two to three week observation block in an elementary school in the winter term. Every attempt is made to familiarize candidates with different boards in the area, pupils of different age levels, a range of school offerings, and a variety of social groups of pupils. (For further details on the Consecutive program practicum, please see the Faculty of Education Web site at <http://www.edu.yorku.ca>.

Consecutive Program Practicum – Part-time (3-Year Program)

The first year field placement explores schools and their communities. Candidates spend 50 hours in this field placement during their first year in the program. The second and third year practica occur in schools and classrooms. This long-term association with a school's program allows the candidate to observe the development of the curriculum and pupils over the course of the school year and to acquire an understanding of the school and its community. Over the three-year period of the program, every attempt is made to familiarize candidates with different boards in the area, pupils of different age levels, a range of school offerings, and a variety of social groups of pupils. (For further details on the Consecutive program part-time practicum, please see the Faculty of Education Web site at <http://www.edu.yorku.ca>.)

Computer and circulation staff help students with their computing and resource needs. For further information, please go to <http://www.edu.yorku.ca/erc/>.

Faculty of Education Students' Association

All undergraduate students registered in the Faculty, including stop-out students, are members of the Faculty of Education Students' Association (FESA). The FESA Council is the official student government of the Faculty, and seeks to represent student opinion and interest within the Faculty and University as a whole. FESA representatives sit on several Faculty committees, on the York Federation of Students, and on the University Senate. Serving pre-service teacher candidates from concurrent and consecutive programs, FESA strives to cultivate a sense of community among over 1600 students, across two campuses and 11 off-campus sites. Among other initiatives, FESA sponsors professional development workshops, social activities, book fairs and an annual conference. FESA also produces a newspaper, and Faculty of Education merchandise. The FESA Office is located in N833A Ross (416-736-2100 ext. 88779).

Teacher Preparation Program in the Education of Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students

The York University Faculty of Education teacher preparation program in the Education of Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students prepares teachers to work in a variety of educational programs and across the full range of communication/modality options. The program provides the broadest possible base for candidates to learn about the field, and to make decisions about future areas of specialization.

The program requires full-time study for one academic year, as well as a two-week summer orientation session. In addition, a limited number of applicants are accepted each year to a three-year, part-time program.

Program course work deals with areas pertinent to deaf and hard of hearing education. These areas include: introduction to working with deaf and hard of hearing students; language and literacy development; oral communication; deaf and hard of hearing studies; bilingual/bicultural education; American Sign Language; audiology; speech; and principles of auditory/verbal learning. Candidates also participate in two practicum placements in two different settings over a two month period.

Candidates are considered for admission on the basis of education-related experience, academic achievement, communication abilities and personal characteristics relevant to teaching in the field. Requirements include:

- an undergraduate degree;
- membership in the Ontario College of Teachers or eligibility for membership in the case of out-of-province applicants (usually a bachelor of education (BEd) degree or its equivalent);
- BEd with minimum 6.00 (B) average*;
- two courses in American Sign Language.

Candidates with lesser qualifications may be considered.*

When the program is successfully completed, candidates receive a York Diploma in the Education of Deaf and Hard of Hearing Students. Graduates of the program who hold membership in the Ontario College of Teachers are recommended to the college for Part I and II "Additional Qualification in Deaf Education". Part III (Specialist) is awarded by the college after successful completion of two years of teaching, including one year with deaf and hard of hearing students.

Currently, for eligible Ontario candidates, no tuition fees are charged for the program. Applications are normally due in February for full-time applicants and March for part-time applicants.

For further information, please call the Deaf and Hard of Hearing program Office at 416-736-5971 or TTY 416-736-5972.

Bachelor in Environmental Studies (BES) Program Vision Statement and Learning Objectives

Vision Statement

The BES program provides a well-rounded and interdisciplinary education in various fields relating to natural, built and social environments. The program is designed to equip students with the knowledge, critical understanding and capacity to deal effectively yet sensitively with complex environmental and social challenges arising at the local, regional, national and/or global scale.

The BES program introduces students to the relationships between the exploitation of the natural world and justice issues related to class exploitation, racism, homophobia and gender inequity. Aware of the growing interdependencies of human and natural life worlds in a globalized environment, the Faculty of Environmental Studies (FES) believes that non-Western and Indigenous perspectives are essential to a fruitful discussion of all environmental issues. To that end, faculty members strive to include a broad range of perspectives in their course offerings.

In this light, the BES program is committed to preparing students to take action on critical environmental issues. Students are encouraged to explore alternatives, strategies and action related to social and environmental change. Our specific commitments include:

- interdisciplinary expertise to critically understand and address environmental problems;
- opportunities to develop both specific skills and in-depth learning;
- a wide range of courses covering the humanities, social sciences and environmental science;
- an outlook that includes local and global, historical and contemporary, and philosophical and applied questions;
- an emphasis on bringing theoretical and practical matters together in the classroom;
- the knowledge and skills needed for graduate studies and environmental careers (e.g. community arts, environmental education, urban design and planning, climate change policy, human/gender rights, green business, international development policy, environmental conservation and management).

Learning Objectives

- to provide a well-rounded and interdisciplinary education in various fields relating to natural, built, organizational and social environments;
- to be exposed to a wide range of perspectives from the humanities, social sciences and environmental science, including issues relating to environmental ethics, class, racialization, Indigeneity, sexual orientation and gender;
- to develop both specific skills and in-depth learning, and acquire analytical and critical skills;
- to develop an outlook that includes local and global, historical and contemporary, and philosophical and applied questions; and
- to acquire the knowledge and skills needed for environmental careers and graduate studies.

BES Program Structure

The Faculty of Environmental Studies (FES) offers both the BES Specialized Honours program (120 credits) and the BES program (90 credits). Environmental studies at FES is a combination of core courses and four distinct academic and professional areas of concentration:

- environment and culture: philosophy, arts, technology and education;
- urban and regional environments: analysis, planning and design;
- environmental politics: development, globalization and justice; and
- environmental management: policy, resources and conservation.

A coherent set of core courses, area of concentration courses and elective courses provides a well-rounded education in various fields relating to natural, built, organizational and social environments. Faculty members come from a wide range of backgrounds including political science, ecology, planning, philosophy, sociology, geography, economics, education, architecture and anthropology. All share a commitment to exploring the complex questions and solutions of the human and environmental challenges facing the world.

In the first two years of the program, students take required courses that introduce them to the wide range of environmental studies while building critical academic and practical knowledge, including research, writing, analytical and communication skills. During the latter half of the first year, students start thinking about areas of concentration within the BES program they are interested in. In the second year, students choose at least two foundation courses that are associated with the areas of concentration in which they wish to pursue in more detail in subsequent years in the BES program. A specific set of courses is associated with each area of concentration. The course selections within a given area of concentration are designed to give structure and focus to a student's program. The course selection process is supported through the completion of a program checklist that is completed on the basis of individual preferences and consultation with the BES program adviser.

BES Program Areas of Concentration

The BES program's four areas of concentration reflect the Faculty's broad understanding of environmental studies. Their coherence is established with scholarly, professional, and pragmatic considerations. Students use these areas of concentration to help define their own path through the program.

Environment and Culture: Philosophy, Arts, Technology and Education

This area focuses on the conceptual, historical and cultural roots of environmental issues, and on environmental arts, education, policy and cultural organizations as crucial sites of environmental action. A focus in this area leads students to develop both a strong theoretical grasp of complex ecological-environmental relations, and critical and creative skills important in transforming these relations.

Sample topics include:

- environmental ethics and philosophy
- environmental and sustainability education
- environment, media and communication
- human and other animal relations
- science, technology and the environment
- environmental literatures
- community arts

Academic Advising and the BES Program Checklist

It is critical that students enrolled in BES programs meet with the program adviser to ensure that all degree requirements are met through a completed BES program checklist form. The advising meeting will guide second-, third- and fourth-year course selections and allow students to discuss future objectives, and ensure that the courses selected keep important options open for each student.

The BES program checklist is extremely important; it ensures that all students meet the requirements of their declared area of concentration. Each student is required to submit to the program adviser a completed BES program checklist by the end of April. An incomplete or improper submission of a BES program checklist form may result in a delay in registration and may prohibit enrolment in desired and/or required courses.

Students considering the course-based option (CBO) for their program of study are not required to enrol in: ES/ENVS 3011 3.00 Introduction to Senior Honours Work or ES/ENVS 4000 6.00 Senior Honours Work Seminar. However, students must select alternative courses in their area of concentration to replace the requirements. Those who have already completed ES/ENVS 3011 3.00 are under no obligation to complete ES/ENVS 4000 6.00 and can still opt for the CBO. Students pursuing the CBO must submit the appropriate petitions form available from the Office of Student Academic Services, Room 137 HNES.

Please note that those considering taking ES/ENVS 4000 6.00 (i.e. the thesis option) should be prepared to devote a considerable amount of time and attention to their research, analysis and write-up in a relatively unstructured format that some may find very challenging, labour-intensive and time-consuming. Only those who understand this and are committed to such a process should consider the thesis option.

Advising appointments can be made through the main reception line at 416-736-5252 or in person, Room 109 HNES. Students who fail to follow the above will be blocked from enrolment and registration for fall/winter sessions, unless they have an advising appointment or hand in a completed BES program checklist.

Degree Requirements

Honours BES Degree Course Requirements (120 credits)

Students must pass courses worth a minimum of 120 credits (equivalent to 20 full-year courses) in order to graduate with the Specialized Honours BES degree. At least 60 credits and a maximum of 90 credits shall be environmental studies courses. An overall grade point average of at least 5.00 must be maintained.

Students choose their courses in the Honours BES program according to the following requirements:

Honours Double Major, Honours Major/Minor, Concurrent Education Program

In addition to taking courses in the BES program, students have the opportunity to decide to specialize in a specific subject or combination of subjects. The area or primary concentration is known as the major. An area of secondary concentration (if any) is known as the minor. In such cases, an application must be made using the application form available through the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>). This request is subject to approval by the undergraduate program director and the other academic unit involved. Each program sets the details of the requirements for each double major or minor program with options available in the Faculties of Arts, Atkinson, Fine Arts, Health and Science and Engineering. BES students should consult the York University Undergraduate Calendar or the York University Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca>) for specific program requirements.

General Requirements

Regardless of the type of combination degree that is sought, Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor, all students will have a "home" Faculty; students enrolled in the Faculty of Environmental Studies will receive a BES degree upon successful completion of their program; students in the Faculty of Arts and the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies will receive a BA; students in the Faculty of Fine Arts will receive a BFA or BA; students in the Faculty of Health will receive a BA or BSc and students in the Faculty of Science and Engineering will receive a BSc.

All students in these programs must maintain Honours standing; for Faculties of Arts, Atkinson, Fine Arts, Health or Science and Engineering that will mean a cumulative grade point average of 5.00 (C+) over all courses including those in environmental studies; for Faculty of Environmental Studies students that will mean a cumulative grade point average of 5.00 (C+) over all courses including those in the Faculties of Arts, Atkinson, Fine Arts, Health or Science and Engineering. Students must meet the degree and program requirements of their home Faculty.

Degree Double Major Requirements in Environmental Studies

Students whose home Faculty is Arts, Atkinson or Health who want to pursue a major in environmental studies are required to complete seven full courses (42 credits) in environmental studies:

- ES/ENVS 1000 6.00

- two full-courses (12 credits) in the "foundations" series at the 2000 level (2100, 2200, 2300 or 2400)
- ES/ENVS 2009 3.00 (formerly ES/ENVS 3009 3.00)

- ES/ENVS 3010 3.00
- nine credits at the 3000 level
- 12 credits at the 4000 level

Note: Faculty of Arts students in the linked interdisciplinary Science and Society program are required to complete six full courses (36 credits). Urban studies students who have declared environmental studies as their double major before September 2002 are required to complete 36 credits in environmental studies. Effective September 2002, students who declare environmental studies as a double major with urban studies are required to satisfy the 42 credits requirement listed above.

For further information, please refer to the Faculty of Arts section.

Degree Minor Requirements in Environmental Studies

Students whose home Faculty is Arts, Atkinson, Fine Arts, Health or Science and Engineering, who want to pursue a minor in environmental studies, are required to complete five full courses (30 credits) in environmental studies:

- ES/ENVS 1000 6.00
- two full-courses (12 credits) in the "foundations" series at the 2000 level (2100, 2200, 2300 or 2400)
- six credits at the 3000 level or higher
- six credits at the 4000 level

Students should be aware that in order to complete the requirements of the Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor programs it may be necessary to complete more than 120 credits.

Second Major/Minor Options for BES StudentsFaculty of Arts

Students in the BES program may apply to pursue an Honours Double Major program or an Honours Major/Minor program in any discipline in the Faculty of Arts, along with their major in environmental studies. Faculty of Education Concurrent Education Program

The Faculty of Education at York University offers the BEd degree in both a consecutive program (i.e. requiring a one-year period of study after obtaining a bachelor's degree), and a concurrent program, where students who are enrolled in the BES program may apply to coregister in the Faculty of Education.

BES students may apply to enter the concurrent program after completing one or two years in the BES program. Candidates admitted to the Concurrent Education program would add a minimum of one year to their undergraduate studies. Successful candidates then work to complete their BES program in addition to completing their education studies for a bachelor of education degree.

Admission requirements for the Concurrent Education program:

- You must have a minimum of 24 credits (four full courses) of the first year of undergraduate studies or the equivalent, or have a minimum of 36 credits (six full courses) left to complete your academic degree.
- You must have a minimum C+ overall average or Honours standing, and be admitted to and continuing in an undergraduate program (in this case, Environmental Studies).
- Selection is based on grade point average, related experience (as a classroom volunteer, coach, mentor, tutor etc.), a personal statement, an interview, and two letters of reference.

Successful coregistrants are usually selected on the basis of education-related experience, references, university grade point averages and individual interviews. Applications should be directed to the Faculty of Education. The application deadline is in early March of each year.

For further information, please visit the Faculty of Education Web site at: <http://www.edu.yorku.ca/academicprograms/>.

BES Certificate Programs

While working towards the completion of their BES degree, students may opt to pursue a certificate in addition to their degree program. Students can choose from one of three areas: geographic information systems and remote sensing, community arts practice, or refugee and migration studies. In order to do so, students are required to complete a number of required and elective courses, in addition to completing other degree requirements. Contact the FES Office of Student and Academic Services, room 137 Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies Building, for more information on applying to these certificate programs.

Minimum Requirements for Multiple Certificates

Students may acquire more than one certificate during the course of their studies provided that at least 18 credits in each certificate program are unique to the specific certificate.

Residency Requirements

The University residency requirement for undergraduate certificate programs is 18 credits for certificate programs requiring up to 36 credits, and 50 per cent of the required credits for certificates comprising more than 36 credits. Normally, for undergraduate certificate programs requiring 18 credits or less, all credits are completed at York.

Certificate in Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and Remote Sensing

York University degree candidates and non-degree students may earn a Certificate in GIS and Remote Sensing. GIS and Remote Sensing encompasses the art, science and technology involved in collecting and managing geographically-referenced information.

Certificate in Community Arts Practice (CAP)

Students enrolled as majors in the Faculty of Environmental Studies or in the Faculty of Fine Arts may choose to enrol in the Cross-Disciplinary Certificate in Community Arts Practice. Students from other Faculties may choose to enrol in the program through one of the co-sponsoring Faculties. BES Joint Programs

Joint programs offer students the opportunity to receive a combined university degree and a college diploma from either Seneca College or Sir Sandford Fleming College, and a certificate from Humber College in what would otherwise take seven years. The York-Humber program may be completed in four years, while the York-Seneca and York-Sir Sandford Fleming programs are five years in duration. These accelerated programs can begin either at the respective college or at York University (with the exception of the York-Humber joint program), and are then completed at the partner institution. Students enrolled in joint programs must fulfill the joint program requirements of both institutions.

Students who are enrolled in FES are required to complete a minimum of 90 credits within the first three years of the joint program with a minimum 5.00 (C+) grade point average, including core, Faculty, area of concentration and general education requirements. They are also required to submit an application to the joint program at the respective college in October of their third year of study.

With the exception of the York-Humber joint program, students who begin their diploma at the college should apply to the joint program in Faculty of Environmental Studies through the normal York admission process in the final year of their diploma. Acceptance is contingent upon students successfully completing the diploma with a minimum 3.00 grade point average at the college. Successful applicants will be awarded 60 block credits toward their BES program. Students who choose to opt out of the joint program at York and attend another program, or do not meet the cumulative grade point average required for Honours standing, will have their advanced standing re-evaluated.

Note: Students enrolled in the 90-credit BES degree program are not eligible to apply to any joint program directly, although they may apply to the respective colleges separately after having completed the 90-credit BES program.

The various grades that may be awarded in satisfying the requirement of a BES course or assignment are outlined in the Undergraduate Handbook, available at the Office of Student and Academic Services in 137 Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies Building.

BES Term Work, Tests and Examinations

Term work: Term work includes reports, assignments, essays, tests, and other written and oral work assigned in a course, with the exception of final examinations, as outlined in the approved course syllabus. Course directors set the deadlines for submission of term work. All term work must be submitted by the last day of classes of the term in which the course ends. Term work submitted after the last day of classes of the term in which the course ends will not be accepted for grading. Students will be penalized 5 per cent of the value of the assignment per day that their assignment is late. Exceptions to the lateness policy for valid reasons such as illness, compassionate grounds etc. will be entertained by the course director only when supported by written documentation (e.g. a doctor's letter).

Examinations: Examinations may be held in any BES course in such form and manner as decided by the course director and as described in the approved course syllabus. Examinations are an essential part of the learning and evaluation process. They must be conducted under fair conditions which allow students to analyse, synthesize, and demonstrate what they have learned. Disruptions or attempts to obtain an unfair advantage are offences against due academic processes and carry severe penalties.

End of term restrictions: The total value of any test(s) or examination(s) given during the last two weeks of classes in a term must carry a combined weighting of no more than 20 per cent of the final mark for the course. Note: Exceptions are made for some third- and fourth-year courses, such as seminars that often have one or two major assignments due at the end of the term.

Scheduling of tests: Except where testing is conducted during individual appointments which accommodate a student's schedule (for example, individually scheduled make-up tests), tests or examinations given during the term must be held within the hours regularly scheduled for the course in question.

Students' rights of refusal: Students who are asked to write tests or examinations in contravention of the preceding two regulations may refuse to do so without academic penalty. They also have the right to raise the matter with the undergraduate program director.

General Regulations for Tests and Examinations

Identification: Students who are being tested or examined are required to present their YU-card and/or an acceptable form of photographic identification when asked to do so by an instructor or invigilator. Acceptable forms of photographic identification include a valid driver's license with photograph attached, a valid passport or other certificate of citizenship with photograph attached.

Formally Scheduled Examinations

Final examination period: There is a final examination period at the end of each term, as published on the Current Students Web site.

Examination schedules: The dates, times and places of formally scheduled examinations are published each term on the Current Student's Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca>, click on Current Students). Examinations may last two or three hours. Students are responsible for making themselves aware of the appropriate examination details.

Missed examinations: A student who misses an examination must contact the Office of Student and Academic Services or the Registrar's Office within 48 hours of the examination. A student who wishes to write a make-up examination must petition for deferred standing in the course.

Rewriting of examinations: There shall be no rewriting of a final examination to improve a mark.

Assessment of Students in BES Courses

The course director shall assess students enrolled in each BES course in light of the requirements set at the beginning of the course as articulated in the course syllabus. These assessments shall be based on a combination of tests or formal examination(s), participation in classes, term work submitted, and other evidence as determined by the course director.

Marking scheme:

- Announcement in class: The means of determining the final grade in a course shall be provided to students by the course director. Such information must include the types of assignments, essays, examinations, and other components, which make up the grade, their relative weight(s), and any other procedures, which enter into the determination of the final grade.
- Subsequent changes: In exceptional circumstances, a previously announced marking scheme for a course may be changed, but only with the consent of all students and the approval of the undergraduate program director. The course director must distribute the new marking scheme in written form to the students.
- Feedback during course: Instructors are obliged to provide a mechanism by which students can be apprised of their progress in a course and that the grading scheme (i.e. kinds and weights or assignments, essays, exams etc.) be announced, and be available in writing, within the first two weeks of class, and that, under normal circumstances, graded feedback worth at least 15 per cent of the final grade for fall, winter or summer term, and 30 per cent for "full year" courses offered in the fall/winter term be received by students in all courses prior to the final withdrawal date from a course without receiving a grade, with the following exceptions:
 - graduate or upper-level undergraduate courses where course work typically, or at the instructor's discretion, consists of a single piece of work and/or is based predominantly (or solely) on student presentations (e.g. honours theses or graduate research papers not due by the drop date etc.);
 - practicum courses;
 - ungraded courses;
 - courses in Faculties where the drop date occurs within the first three weeks of classes;
 - courses which run on a compressed schedule (a course which accomplishes its academic credits of work at a rate of more than one credit hour per two calendar weeks).

Note: Under unusual and/or unforeseeable circumstances which disrupt the academic norm, instructors are expected to provide grading schemes and academic feedback in the spirit of these regulations, as soon as possible.

Alternate Grading Method

Pass/Fail

Students in the Faculty of Environmental Studies can request a pass/fail option only after completing 24 credits. Courses taken under the pass/fail option will be annotated on their transcript as "Pass" or "Fail." Neither of these grades will be calculated into their grade point average. The following rules apply to the pass/fail option:

- Only students who have good academic standing may choose this option (i.e. above 4.00 (C) or 5.00 (C+) grade point average, depending on degree program);

- Students are required to have completed 24 credits before requesting this option;
- Courses taken under this option may not be used to satisfy major, minor, general education or certificate requirements or 1000-level science courses;
- Students in the Honours BES program can take a maximum of 12 credits on the pass/fail option;
- Students in the 90-credit BES program may take a maximum of six credits on the pass/fail option;
- Students who intend to take a course on the pass/fail option must request to do so within the first two weeks of classes in the term in which the course is being offered;
- Students are required to fill out an application form - available at Student Client Services or online at the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca>). The student will return the completed form with the course director's approval to Student Client Services;
- Students who select the pass/fail grading option can switch back to a graded option without academic penalties until the last day to drop the course.

Repeated Passed or Failed Courses

Students may repeat either a passed or failed course once for academic degree or certificate credit, only if the student has failed to achieve sufficient standing to proceed in a core or prerequisite course in a degree or certificate program and if no alternative remedies are provided (e.g. alternative qualifying examination). Students should note that course availability and space considerations may preclude the possibility of repeating a course in the session they choose.

A course can be credited only once towards satisfaction of degree or certificate academic credit requirements. When a student is allowed to repeat a course for academic degree or certificate credit, the second grade will be the grade of record and the only grade calculated in the students' grade point average (major, cumulative, sessional and overall). The grade for the repeated course will remain the grade of record, regardless of the number of times that the course is repeated; the first instance of the course being taken will appear on the student's transcript with the designation "NCR" – "No Credit Retained".

A student must be declared eligible to proceed in a degree or certificate program in order to be eligible to repeat a course. Restrictions regarding repeating a passed or failed course also apply to cross-listed courses and course credit exclusions.

Students who repeated a passed course prior to Fall 2004 may submit a petition to their home Faculty.

Grade Reappraisals

Reappraisal of Final BES Course Grades

Students may, with sufficient academic grounds, request that a final grade in a course be reappraised (which may mean the review of specific pieces of tangible work). Non-academic grounds are not relevant for grade reappraisals; in such cases, students are advised to petition to their home Faculty. Students are normally expected to first contact the course director to discuss the grade received and to request that their tangible work be reviewed. Tangible work may include written, graphic, digitized, modelled, video recording or audio recording formats, but not oral work.

Students need to be aware that a request for a grade reappraisal may result in the original grade being raised, lowered or confirmed.

In the event that students are still not satisfied with the final grade OR the course director is not available to review the work, they may submit in writing a formal request for a grade reappraisal to the department or unit in which the course is offered*. The Senate approved deadline for submitting grade reappraisals is within three weeks of the release of final grade reports in any term. Exercising discretion about minor delays in meeting the deadline which result from slow mail delivery or extraordinary circumstances is reasonable.

For courses offered by Osgoode Hall Law School, Schulich School of Business, and the Faculty of Education the requests for reappraisal are submitted to the office of the relevant associate dean.

If the condition of sufficient academic grounds has been met, the relevant department committee, department Chair, associate dean or graduate/undergraduate program director will be responsible for ensuring that the work is reappraised by an appropriate faculty member, ensuring anonymity of both the student and the reappraiser, and for communicating the result of the reappraisal (including the reappraiser's comments) and the route of appeal to both the student and the course director. The reappraiser will be given the nature of the assignment and the rationale for the original grade. It is expected that every effort will be made to render the decision within 30 days of the reviewer having received the work.

Date by Which to Request a Grade Reappraisal

Requests for grade reappraisals must be submitted by the scheduled date for the term in which a course is completed and the grade released.

Winter term – June 15th

Summer term – September 30th

Fall term – February 15th

In all cases, a minimum of 21 days from the date of the release of grades will be allowed. Whenever the grade reappraisal reflects a grade change it will be annotated on the student's transcript.

Further Appeal for Reappraisal of a Final BES Course Grade

If the student is not satisfied with a reappraised final course grade, the procedure shall be as follows:

- the course director and the student shall discuss the matter with the undergraduate program director, who may or may not arrange another reappraisal;
- if the matter remains unresolved, the student may appeal the grade by petition on the appropriate form provided by the Office of Student and Academic Services to the BES program and Admissions Subcommittee, clearly stating the grounds for appeal;
- the decision of the BES program and Admissions Subcommittee shall be final, and may be appealed to the FES Appeals Committee only on grounds of procedural irregularity.

Reappraisal of Grades Other Than Final Course Grades

If a student is not satisfied with any grade — other than a final course grade — received from an instructor or teaching assistant, the student is expected to discuss the matter (and at such time may request a reappraisal) with the person from whom the student received the grade, normally within two weeks. A reappraisal may result in a lower, higher, or unchanged grade. If the student is not satisfied with the result of the reappraisal, the instructor or teaching assistant (where appropriate) shall discuss the matter with the course director. The course director shall decide whether or not to reappraise the student's work, and his/her decision is final for all grades other than final course grades.

Deferred Standing

In some cases, students may be eligible for deferred standing (an extension) to write a test or final examination or to complete an assignment after the Faculty's deadline for submission of term work. Senate policy states that students must request deferred standing through the department responsible for the course within one week following a missed examination or the last day to submit course work.

Students are responsible for ensuring that full documentation (medical or other) is provided in support of a petition for deferred standing. Application forms are available at Student Client Services or online at the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca>), then click on My Student Record, then My Grades and Transcript.

Aegrotat Standing

In cases where a student cannot be expected to complete the work for a course, the phrase "aegrotat standing" (from the Latin for "she/he is ill") is substituted for a grade on the transcript. Aegrotat standing is seldom granted, and only in exceptional circumstances where deferred standing is inappropriate. For more information, please contact your course director.

Academic Penalties

Students whose academic record does not meet Faculty standards are subject to the academic penalties of academic warning, required withdrawal, debarment warning, debarment and academic probation.

Academic Warning

Students whose cumulative grade point average falls below 4.00 (C) at the end of any session, or who enter the Faculty with a grade point average equivalent to less than 4.00 (C) on the York University undergraduate grading scheme, receive an academic warning. Students who receive an academic warning must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 (C) within the next 24 credits taken, or must earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in the session in which the 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative average reaches 4.00 (C), or be required to withdraw.

Required Withdrawal

Students whose academic record show marked weaknesses may be required to withdraw from their studies for one year, during which time they are encouraged to identify and remedy any problems which may have contributed to their failure to perform up to their potential, and to reflect on their reasons for pursuing a university education. The following regulations apply to required withdrawals:

Grade Point Average Below 3.00 (D+)

Students whose cumulative grade point average on at least 24 credits is below 3.00 must withdraw for 12 months.

Grade Point Average Below 4.00 (C) and Greater than 3.00 (D+)

Students who have received an academic warning for a cumulative grade point average below 4.00 (C) must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 (C) within their next 24 credits taken or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in the session in which the 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative average reaches 4.00 (C); otherwise, they must withdraw for 12 months. Should the student's cumulative grade point average fall below 3.00 (D+) at any time after completion of 24 credits, they will be required to withdraw.

Petition to Continue Without Interruption

Students who have been required to withdraw may submit a petition to the Faculty of Environmental Studies Petitions (BES program and Admissions) Committee requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. For further information, contact the undergraduate program administrative and records assistant in the Office of Student and Academic Services, 137 Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies Building.

Reactivation After Required Withdrawal

Students who have been required to withdraw may apply for reactivation (to continue their studies) after the requisite period of absence by submitting a form obtainable from Student Client Services or online at the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>). Students who return to their studies after such a required withdrawal (as well as those who have been allowed to continue their studies by virtue of a petition to the FES Petitions Committee) will receive a debarment warning.

Debarment Warning

Students who have been required to withdraw from the Faculty of Environmental Studies or from another Faculty at York or elsewhere receive will a debarment warning upon returning or continuing their studies in the Faculty of Environmental Studies. Students on a debarment warning must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 (C) within the next 24 credits taken or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in the session in which the 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until their cumulative average reaches 4.00 (C), and must then maintain this average. Students who do not fulfill these conditions will be debarred from the University. Students whose cumulative grade point average falls below 3.00 (D+) at any time while on a debarment warning will be debarred.

Debarment

Students who have already been required to withdraw because of their unsatisfactory academic record and whose record does not show improvement will be debarred from the University. Debarment, the minimum period for which is normally two years, means that a student is no longer a student at York University.

Petition to Continue Without Interruption

Students who have been debarred may submit a petition to the Faculty of Environmental Studies Petitions Committee requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. For further information, contact the undergraduate program administrative and records assistant in the Office of Student and Academic Services, 137 Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies Building.

Reapplying After Debarment

Students who have been debarred and who wish to resume their studies must apply for admission through the Admissions Office and must provide persuasive evidence that they are ready and able to complete a degree program.

Academic Probation

Students who have been debarred and who subsequently resume their studies in the Faculty of Environmental Studies—whether by petitioning to continue without interruption or by reapplying for admission—will receive an academic probation. The conditions for continuing on an academic probation are the same as those for a debarment warning.

Breach of Academic Honesty

Conduct that violates the ethical or legal standards of the University community is a serious matter. In particular, any breach of academic honesty is a most serious offence to both the University community and the academic enterprise. Therefore, all faculty members are required to treat any breach of academic honesty, no matter how small the breach may appear, as a most serious matter demanding most thorough investigation. The rules embodied in the University Senate Policy on Academic Honesty and the Procedures Governing Breach of Academic Honesty apply to all BES students and are described in the University Policies section of this calendar.

In the Faculty of Environmental Studies it is a serious offence against academic honesty, among other things, to cheat, to impersonate, to plagiarize or misappropriate the work of others, to practice improper research procedures, to be dishonest in publication, to aid and abet academic misconduct, or to undertake any other action that runs counter to academic honesty. In addition, some forms of breach of academic honesty might constitute offences under the Criminal Code of Canada. While the pressures of school may be such that a student may feel pressured to breach academic honesty, students must completely resist such pressures. Students who are unsure of what may constitute a breach of academic honesty should consult with the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty (in the University Policies and Regulations section of this calendar), or with the Faculty of Environmental Studies Office of Student and Academic Services.

Academic Standing

Academic standing depends on several factors, including the number of courses a student has passed, the grade point average achieved during a particular session (sessional grade point average) and the overall grade point average (cumulative grade point average).

BES Honours Degree

Qualifying for Honours: Students with no Previous Postsecondary Education

Students who are admitted to the Faculty of Environmental Studies with no prior experience at a postsecondary educational institution (such as a university or college) are automatically enrolled in an Honours program.

Transfer Students

Students who are admitted to the Faculty of Environmental Studies with prior experience at a postsecondary educational institution are enrolled in an Honours program if their prior cumulative grade point average (including failed courses) is at least the equivalent of 5.00 (C+) on the York scale. (Note: Courses taken at other postsecondary institutions are not calculated as part of the student's grade point average at York, nor do they appear on the York University transcript.)

Continuing and Revisions to Progression Requirements: Honours Standing

To continue in an Honours program, students must maintain a minimum cumulative grade point average (CGPA) of at least 5.00 (C+). Students whose cumulative grade point averages fall below 5.00 (C+) during the course of their studies may proceed in an Honours program, on academic warning, provided that they meet the year level progression requirements as set out below.

Year Level	Credit Range	CGPA
1	0-23	4.00
2	24-53	4.25
4	84-120	5.00

Students must successfully complete (pass) at least 120 credits, meet Faculty and program requirements, and achieve a CGPA of 5.00 (C+) for all courses taken to satisfy their program in order to graduate with an Honours degree. Students who are permitted to continue in an Honours program on warning will be required to attend an advising appointment with their adviser.

Ineligibility to Continue in Honours

Students who do not meet the conditions outlined above may continue their studies only in the BES 90 credit degree program.

Graduating in Honours

To graduate from an Honours program, students must successfully complete (pass) at least 120 credits which meet the Faculty of Environmental Studies' program requirements. The cumulative grade point average for all courses taken must be at least 5.00 (C+).

Courses taken Beyond the Normal Maximum

Students in an Honours BES program who successfully complete more than 120 credits and whose cumulative grade point average is at least 5.00 (C+) will have all credits counted towards their Honours BES and their cumulative grade point average.

Opting to Graduate in the BES Program (90 credit)

Students registered in the 120-credit Honours program may opt to graduate with a 90-credit degree if they fulfill those program requirements. Students who wish to take advantage of this option should complete the relevant form at the Office of Student Academic Services, 137 Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies Building, by early December for graduation the following spring, or by mid-August for graduation the following fall (refer to the 90 credit program requirements).

Students registered in an Honours BES program whose cumulative grade point average after completion of 90 credits falls below 5.00 (C+), but remains 4.00 (C) or above, may request to graduate with a 90-credit BES degree if they fulfill the degree requirements, or may continue in the program until the requirements for the 90-credit degree are fulfilled. They may not continue in an Honours program and they may not take extra courses in a subsequent session in an effort to raise their cumulative grade point average to re-enter the Honours program.

Re-entering Honours

Students who are ineligible to continue in the Honours program because their cumulative grade point average has fallen below the minimum requirement as outlined above may re-enter the BES Honours program only if they raise their cumulative grade point average to 5.00 (C+) or above by the time they have successfully completed their 90th credit.

BES Degree

Students must successfully complete (pass) courses for at least 90 credits which meet the bachelor of environmental studies program requirements. The cumulative grade point average for all courses taken must be at least 4.00 (C).

Courses taken Beyond the Normal Maximum—in Order to Raise Cumulative Grade Point Average

Students in the BES program who have passed 90 credits in accordance with the Faculty of Environmental Studies program requirements, but whose cumulative grade point average is below 4.00 (C), may attempt to raise their average to 4.00 (C) by taking up to 12 additional credits, to a maximum of 102 credits. These courses must be above the 1000 level and a minimum of six credits must be taken in FES; regulations on equivalent and excluded courses apply.

Courses taken Beyond the Normal Maximum

Students in the BES program who successfully complete more than 90 credits and whose cumulative grade point average is at least 4.00 (C) and less than 5.00 (C+) will have all credits counted towards their BES degree and their cumulative grade point average.

Transferring to Honours

Students in the BES program who become eligible for Honours will automatically be transferred to the Honours BES degree program. Students who have graduated from the Faculty of Environmental Studies with a BES degree and whose record makes them eligible for an Honours BES may apply to the Faculty to pursue the Honours degree.

Academic Standing Requirements for Visiting Students

Individuals who wish to enrol in undergraduate credit courses, but who do not intend to complete a degree or a certificate may be admitted to York as a Visiting Student (see the Admissions section of this calendar for more information). There are three categories of visiting students:

- a) those who hold an undergraduate degree (three-year bachelor's degree minimum) from an accredited university/university-level institution;
- b) those who do not hold an undergraduate degree but wish to enrol in York courses to fulfill the academic, upgrading or professional development requirements of a professional designation;
- c) those who are currently attending another recognized university and wish to take York courses on a letter of permission issued by their home institution.

Grade Point Average (GPA) Requirement

Students in categories a) and b) whose overall cumulative grade point average (OCGPA) falls below 4.00 (C) based on a minimum of 24 credits will not be allowed to enrol in any subsequent session as visiting students. Students who are not permitted to re-enrol must apply for re-admission through the Admissions Office.

Note: Repeated course legislation does not apply to visiting students but only to academic degrees and certificates. Therefore, all courses attempted or taken will count in the OCGPA.

Credit Limits

Students in category b) who have maintained an OCGPA of 4.00 (C) or higher throughout their studies and who have completed 30 credits will not be allowed to enrol in subsequent sessions and must either reactivate to proceed as visiting students or may choose to apply for admission to a degree or certificate program. This pause allows students in category (b) an opportunity to reconsider options to apply to degree studies given the transfer credit implications.

Academic Advising and Student Responsibility

The information contained in this calendar and other publications is designed to be self-explanatory. The Faculty recognizes, however, there may be specific questions about regulations which are not answered here. Those questions should be addressed to one of the following sources of information given below.

Student Client Services (The Registrar's Office)

The Registrar's Office administers most of the academic regulations contained in the Faculty of Fine Arts section (416-872-YORK (9675); <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca>). This office provides a wide range of administrative services to students, staff and faculty members, including:

- performing general registrarial functions relating to enrolment and record-keeping;
- applying the Faculty's rules on academic standing, including eligibility to graduate;
- reporting final grades to students;
- producing official university transcripts;
- advising students about petitions and receiving petitions for exemptions from academic regulations.

Student and Academic Services

Student service/guidance personnel, prospective and current students and other interested persons wishing further information about the Faculty, the University and its programs or who wish to arrange a visit to the campus may contact the Student and Academic Services office, 2nd floor, Joan and Martin Goldfarb Centre for Fine Arts, at 416-736-5135. This office also coordinates academic and peer advising programs for new students and provides information and advice to undergraduates and faculty concerning admission, degree programs and their requirements, academic regulations and procedures, petitions and convocation.

Department Offices

Enquiries regarding auditions and evaluations, course offerings and faculty should be addressed to the various department offices. Office locations and telephone numbers are listed in the departmental sections of this calendar.

Advising

The Faculty of Fine Arts considers academic advising an important responsibility. The Student and Academic Services area in the Faculty of Fine Arts provides assistance and support to students in the following areas:

- interpretation and application of the Faculty's academic regulations;
- degree management;
- academic planning.

The above functions may vary in their significance to students at different times of the academic year and at different points in a student's academic career. Non-academic advising and counselling is offered by Career Services, the Counselling and Development Centre, and the Office of Student Affairs.

Advising students is a shared responsibility of the Student and Academic Services office, the FASAM (Fine Arts Student Advising and Mentoring) Centre, and the departments of the Faculty.

The FASAM Centre is a resource centre which offers peer mentoring and a wide range of resource and referral information from knowledgeable upper-year students.

Students are invited to drop in to the centre during its office hours, weekdays from 9am to 4:30pm, for assistance with academic queries, referrals to the appropriate contacts on campus, resource information on services at York and the wider community, post graduate studies etc. The centre holds reference materials and resources for researching quick answers on the Internet, academic-related forms and pamphlets, news on workshops and events, tutor contacts, study tips, job opportunities and much, much more.

The FASAM Centre is also the home of the FASAM Mentor Program. Trained upper-year student mentors are matched with first-year students whose interests and experience most closely match their needs. Mentors will provide support and encouragement to first year students throughout the academic year. In addition to the office hours, the FASAM Centre offers e-advising through fasam@yorku.ca. Students should contact department offices throughout the year for advice and information related to their academic career including academic performance, degree programs and requirements.

Student Responsibilities

Every effort is made to ensure that students in the Faculty of Fine Arts have access to accurate information and individual advice and guidance. Within this context, and within the framework of Faculty and program regulations, students are responsible for making their own choices regarding courses and programs. Students should take special care to:

- ensure the courses they choose meet all the requirements for graduation;
- ensure the courses they choose meet prerequisites and are not exclusions or equivalents of other courses already taken;
- ensure the times of the courses they choose do not conflict;
- ensure the accuracy of their registration records, including all changes;
- note and observe deadlines and procedures, especially deadlines for adding and dropping courses;
- ensure full documentation is provided in support of petitions and other requests for special consideration;
- keep themselves informed about their academic progress, including their performance in individual courses. It is incumbent on faculty members to make available to their students assessments of their work and, if requested, to discuss students' progress with them.

Letters of Permission

Letters of permission allow Faculty of Fine Arts students to receive credit at York for courses taken at other universities. In order to receive credit for such courses, a letter of permission must be obtained prior to enrolling. Application forms for letters of permission are available at Student Client Services or on the Current Students Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca>, click on Current Students.

Courses which students propose to take on a letter of permission must be acceptable to the Faculty of Fine Arts teaching unit best able to judge their academic merit. The Faculty is under no obligation to accept courses taken without its permission.

Students must be in good academic standing to be eligible for a letter of permission; students under academic warning or debarment warning are not eligible.

In order to receive credit for courses taken on a letter of permission, students must arrange for the host institution to submit an official transcript to the Registrar's Office, Student Services Centre. Credit is granted when an approved course is completed with a minimum equivalent grade of C+ (65 per cent) in major courses or C (60 per cent) in non-major courses. Grades earned in courses taken at other postsecondary institutions are not part of the student's York transcript and are not incorporated into the student's grade point averages in the Faculty of Fine Arts.

Should a student leave York University to pursue study at another postsecondary institution without a letter of permission, upon return to York, a new application to York is required and all previous transfer credit will be reassessed.

Undergraduate Degree Programs

The Faculty of Fine Arts believes in an interdisciplinary education integrated with pre-professional and professional work in the arts. The curriculum is designed to acquaint students with contemporary knowledge in the humanities, the social sciences and the natural sciences, as well as in the fine arts. In all programs, students pursue both theory and practice in the arts, in one or more fields, according to their artistic and scholarly needs and abilities.

The Faculty of Fine Arts offers four undergraduate degrees: the BA, the Honours BA, the Honours BFA, and, in partnership with Sheridan Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning, the Honours BDes. In general, students who concentrate in fine arts history, theory and/or criticism graduate with either a BA or BA Honours degree, and students concentrating in studio, performance and/or production work graduate with a BFA Honours or BDes Honours degree. Upon admission to the Faculty, students select a degree program which may be changed during subsequent registration periods with the approval of the related department.

Specialized Honours Program

The Specialized Honours program is designed for students who wish to concentrate in a particular discipline within a university context and obtain an intensive experience in that discipline. Specialized Honours programs are available in dance, design, film, music, theatre and visual arts.

General Honours Program

The General Honours program in Fine Arts Cultural Studies is multidisciplinary, with an emphasis on the study of cultural, critical and historical issues. Students combine studies in the Fine Arts Cultural Studies program with studies in one or more of the other fine arts departments.

BA Program

The BA in fine arts with majors in dance, film, fine arts cultural studies, music, theatre, and visual arts is designed to provide students with a further range of options, including preparation for a number of professional careers such as: creative arts therapy, arts administration, arts journalism, arts marketing, cultural tourism, community arts and cultural management.

Honours Double Major Program

The Honours Double Major program allows students to combine a major in dance, film, fine arts cultural studies, music, theatre or visual arts with a second major offered through the Faculty of Arts. Fine arts students in the Honours Double Major program must satisfy the basic degree requirements of the Faculty of Fine Arts and graduate with either a BA Honours or BFA Honours degree from the Faculty of Fine Arts. Some Honours Double Major combinations may require more than 120 credits.

Honours Major/Minor Program

The Honours Major/Minor program is designed for students who wish to combine a primary concentration in dance, film, fine arts cultural studies, music, theatre or visual arts with a secondary concentration in the Faculty of Arts, the Faculty of Environmental Studies, the Faculty of Fine Arts, or the Faculty of Science and Engineering. Fine arts students in the Honours Major/Minor program must satisfy the basic degree requirements of the Faculty of Fine Arts and graduate with either a BA Honours or BFA Honours degree from the Faculty of Fine Arts. Some Honours Major/Minor combinations may require more than 120 credits.

Honours Double Major Interdisciplinary BA Program

Fine arts cultural studies or film (cinema and media studies) majors may pursue an Honours Double Major Interdisciplinary BA with a major in communication studies in the Faculty of Arts. Students complete the requirements for the second major within the context of their degree requirements. Please see the Programs of Study section in the Faculty of Arts portion of this calendar for details.

Coregistration in the Faculty of Education

Students registered in the Faculty of Fine Arts may apply for admission to the Concurrent program of the Faculty of Education. Coregistered students work towards the separate degree requirements of both Faculties concurrently and if successful are awarded two degrees: the BA or the Honours BA or the Honours BFA from the Faculty of Fine Arts, and the BEd from the Faculty of Education.

A Faculty of Fine Arts Honours degree which normally takes four years to complete, will take five years when pursued concurrently with the bachelor of education degree. For those students interested in teaching at the primary, junior and intermediate levels, a BA degree and a BEd could be completed in four years. For further information, please consult the Faculty of Education section of this calendar.

Graduate Studies in Fine Arts

York University's Faculty of Graduate Studies offers several programs in fine arts including the master of design, and the MA degree in art history, dance, historical, critical, historical and theoretical studies in film, theatre studies, ethnomusicology and musicology. Programs leading to the MFA degree include film, theatre, and visual arts. It is also possible to obtain the MA or MFA in combination with an MBA degree. A PhD program in Ethnomusicology and Musicology is also available.

Applicants should be aware that application deadlines and admission requirements vary from program to program. For further information, please consult the Faculty of Graduate Studies calendar.

Admission

Please refer to the Admission section of this calendar for general information on admission requirements and procedures.

Applicant Evaluation Procedures

In addition to the regular requirements for admission to the University, the Faculty of Fine Arts requires an evaluation of an applicant's suitability for many of its programs. The requirements for each department are detailed below. In order to be evaluated, a candidate must have applied for admission to the Faculty of Fine Arts.

For details on the process leading to an appointment for an evaluation interview/audition and for further information regarding the evaluation procedures, refer to the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site: <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/>. Invitations to attend an evaluation interview/audition may be contingent on an applicant's previous or current year's grade point average. For general information concerning the Faculty of Fine Arts, contact Student and Academic Services, second floor, Joan and Martin Goldfarb Centre for Fine Arts, 416-736-5135.

Applicants who reside outside the Greater Toronto Area should contact the department to enquire about alternate arrangements for the audition/evaluation. Several departments hold auditions in selected major cities across Canada, appointments and details for which can be obtained by contacting the department offices.

Program in Fine Arts Cultural Studies

Admission to the Honours BA in fine arts cultural studies is based on academic grades. No supplemental application is required. For further information, please visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/> or contact the Fine Arts Cultural Studies program office, (GCFA 322), at 416-736-5822 (facs@yorku.ca).

Department of Dance

Admission to the BFA in dance is based on your academic history as well as on the successful completion of a supplemental departmental audition. The audition consists of a short class in modern dance, ballet and improvisation taught by dance faculty followed by a personal interview. If distance precludes an on-campus evaluation, please contact the department to make alternative arrangements. Admission to the BA in dance is based on academic grades; no supplemental evaluation is required.

For further information visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/> or contact the Department of Dance, (ACE 301), at 416-736-5137 (dance@yorku.ca).

Department of Design

The final selection of qualified candidates is based on the ranking of three criteria: overall academic results, a questionnaire and a portfolio. Questionnaires will be provided to all applicants to the program. Selected candidates invited to an interview must bring a portfolio of creative work, with detailed documentation. Specific requirements will be forwarded to the selected candidates. The interviews will focus upon the applicants' understanding of communications design and their conceptual, visual and communications abilities. For further information, please visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/> or contact the Department of Design, (TEL 4008), at 416-736-5885 (ysdn@yorku.ca).

Department of Film

Applicants must download the BFA supplementary application package, complete and return it to the Department of Film. Completion of the supplemental application package will aid us in making the best match between applicants and our program. Selected candidates will then be asked to attend a personal interview. For a supplementary application package and/or further information, please contact the Department of Film, (CFT 221), at 416-736-5149 (flmvideo@yorku.ca). An early application is strongly recommended. For further information, please visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/>.

Admission to the BA in cinema and media studies is based on grades alone. No supplemental evaluation is required.

Department of Music

Music applicants must satisfy the program's supplemental evaluation. All applicants will automatically be sent an evaluation package once the department is advised of your application by the Ontario Universities' Application Centre. The department's supplemental evaluation package requires applicants to complete the application questionnaire; submit a 500-word essay describing your musical background and the contributions further training will enable you to make to music and society; complete the Listening Exercises defined in the package; complete the Theory Test included in the package.

Applicants have the option of auditioning "in person" or mailing in a recorded submission. Those who wish to attend the "in person" audition should contact the Department of Music, (ACE 371), at 416-736-5186 to arrange an audition time.

If you are mailing in your evaluation, please record and submit two contrasting pieces or styles to show the range of your musical skills and interests. Any recording format will be acceptable: i.e. tape cassette, CD, mini disc, DAT, VHS or MP3 files. We do not require a professionally produced recording. A good basic audio-cassette recording using a traditional "boom-box" will suffice as long as we can hear your performance clearly.

Although proficiency on more than one instrument is not required, if you wish to show aptitude on a secondary instrument, one additional piece on the second instrument will suffice. We also invite you to submit scores and/or recordings of arrangements or compositions that you have created and essays on music that you have written.

If you have formal training, you are invited to provide copies of any documentation showing the level of theory/performance/history completed, i.e. RCM grades etc.

For further information, please contact the Department of Music, 416-736-5242 (musicprg@yorku.ca) or visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/>.

Department of Theatre

All applicants will automatically be mailed an evaluation package. Invitations to evaluations will be based on your academic record to date. Applicants are evaluated on the basis of the following:

- A questionnaire focusing on their background in theatre. This is not a theatrical skills assessment, but rather an opportunity for applicants to express themselves and exhibit their interest in theatre.
- A public oral presentation of no more than three minutes. This presentation could take many forms: for instance, a monologue from a play; or a talk about a production recently seen, directed or designed; or information about a play written by the applicant, or a reading from it giving the background to the work. The Department of Theatre needs to ascertain how applicants present themselves in public, how they perform, or how they speak about some aspect of theatre. All applicants — no matter what their area of prime interest — must be prepared to make this public presentation. Therefore, this should be planned in advance.
- A brief personal interview. Normally the questionnaire/presentation/interview process will take place during a half-day visit to the Keele campus or in another location closer to the applicant's home town. If there are significant reasons that an applicant cannot attend a personal interview/evaluation, the applicant should discuss with the department other evaluation methods, such as video auditions, portfolio or written submissions and/or telephone interviews.

Successful applicants will be expected to complete a medical questionnaire prior to beginning classes.

If further information is required, please contact the Department of Theatre, (CFT 318), at 416-736-5172 (theatre@yorku.ca) or visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/>.

Department of Visual Arts

All BFA applicants will automatically be sent an evaluation package. This provides applicants with an opportunity to outline related background and interests. Selected studio applicants will be invited to show a portfolio of six pieces including a sketchbook, idea-book or journal. Applicants are encouraged to show variety in their work; no fewer than two different media should be represented. There will also be a personal interview with one of the department's instructors. Art history applicants are not required to submit a portfolio but have the option of a personal interview.

Admission to the BA in art history is based on grades alone. No supplemental evaluation is required.

For information about the departmental evaluation process please visit the Faculty of Fine Arts Web site: <http://www.yorku.ca/finearts/> or contact the Department of Visual Arts, (GCFA 235), at 416-650-8191 (visarts@yorku.ca).

Second Degree Candidates

Students who hold a degree from an accredited institution may apply to the Faculty of Fine Arts to obtain a second undergraduate degree in a different discipline. Students who hold a BA degree (not an Honours degree) from another accredited institution may apply to the Faculty of Fine Arts to obtain an Honours degree in the same discipline. In all cases, second degree candidates are required to:

- complete a minimum of 30 additional credits at York University in accordance with the Faculty of Fine Arts residency requirement (courses taken as part of the first degree cannot be used to satisfy this requirement);
- fulfill all the requirements of the new major and minor programs; general education and elective requirements are waived.

The in-Faculty requirement should be regarded as the minimum number of additional courses; depending on the program selected and the amount of credit awarded for previous studies, the actual number of courses required for a second degree may well exceed that number.

No student will be permitted to pursue a second Honours degree in the same discipline.

Degree Reclassification

A student who has completed a York University BA degree (90 credit program) in the Faculty of Fine Arts may continue, after graduation, in a BA Honours program in the same subject area or in a BA Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor program including the same subject area, provided the cumulative and major grade point average are those required for the Honours program. A student who wishes to pursue a BFA Honours in the same field of study, may continue in the second degree, subject to the approval of the Faculty of Fine Arts, by submitting a change of degree form to the Registrar's Office. Please note that students who are approved by the Faculty to proceed, would normally receive 90 credits towards the BFA Honours in the same subject area.

A student who wishes to pursue a second BFA Honours or BA Honours in a different field of study must apply to the Admissions Office for admission as a second degree candidate. The deadline to apply for fall admission is June 1.

General Regulations

The academic regulations of the Faculty of Fine Arts have been carefully prepared to outline for students the specific demands and expectations of a fine arts degree program. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with the rules and regulations of the Faculty and the University, and to abide by them. All students are subject to changes in regulations and requirements made after their first registration unless, in the opinion of the Faculty Council, undue hardship is involved.

Advising and Enrolment

Students newly admitted to the Faculty of Fine Arts will attend both an advising enrolment and fine arts orientation session at Student and Academic Services. Continuing students are encouraged to seek advising from their major departments prior to the summer and fall/winter enrolment periods. Students wishing to drop major courses during the term should check with an adviser first, as special permission may be required.

Maximum Course Load

Full-time students are those registered in 24 or more credits during the fall/winter academic session. 36 credits are allowed during the fall/winter session and 15 credits in the summer session for students majoring in dance, film, fine arts cultural studies, music, theatre and visual arts.

Auditing

Students who wish to attend (audit) a course in the Faculty of Fine Arts on a non-credit basis must obtain written permission from the course instructor and the department Chair. For further information on courses available and course fees, please contact the fine arts department offering the course.

Residence Requirement

While allowing students to take a certain number of courses at other universities and in other Faculties of York University, in order to meet the residence requirement, the Faculty of Fine Arts requires that students complete a portion of their courses as follows:

- A minimum of 30 credits must be taken at York University.

Furthermore:

- No fewer than half of the credits required for the fine arts major must be taken in the Faculty of Fine Arts (i.e. courses with the prefix FA), including at least 12 credits at the 3000 or 4000 level, subject to any further prescriptions of the major department.

For students completing a minor in the Faculty of Fine Arts, no fewer than half of the credits required for the minor must be in-Faculty courses, i.e. courses with the prefix FA.

Academic Withdrawal

Before withdrawing from the University, students are encouraged to request an interview with the associate dean. In order to avoid receiving failing grades students must drop their courses by the published deadline.

Reactivation

Students who have been absent from the University for one or more academic sessions may apply to the Registrar's Office for reactivation, provided that they left their fine arts degree program in good standing and have not attended another postsecondary institution without a letter of permission. Information concerning reactivation can be obtained from the Current Students Web site. Students who were ineligible to continue in the Faculty of Fine Arts at the time of their leaving must apply for re-admission.

Petitions

Petitions for Exemptions from the Regulations

The purpose of academic regulations is to allow students to develop their interests and talents to the fullest in ways consistent with the philosophy and standards of the Faculty. In establishing academic regulations, the Faculty also recognizes that instances will arise where it makes sense, in the context of a student's academic career, to petition or request a waiver of an academic regulation or deadline.

Committee on Administrative Affairs

Academic petitions from fine arts students for exceptions to all Faculty regulations, including petitions to continue their studies without interruption from students who have been required to withdraw or are debarred, are adjudicated by the Fine Arts Committee on Administrative Affairs during the fall/winter academic session. During the summer months, petitions are heard by summer authority as designated by Faculty Council.

Note on Grade Reappraisals

Requests for the reappraisal of final grades are not petitions in the formal sense. Such requests should be directed to the teaching unit offering the course in question.

Right to Petition

Students in the Faculty of Fine Arts have the right to petition on reasonable grounds for special consideration. It should be noted, however, that a petition is a request for the waiver of a regulation; it cannot be used to create legislation (e.g. a degree program) that does not exist. Normally, petitions will not be considered by the Committee on Administrative Affairs more than one year beyond the date of the release of grades for the session to which the petition relates.

Petitions Procedure

Students shall petition all matters to their home Faculty with the exception of grade reappraisals, which are considered by the department/Faculty offering the course. Petitions are held in the strictest confidence. The committee considers the petition itself, any supporting documents (from professors or medical practitioners) and other relevant information contained in the student's record. Students and/or their representatives may appear before a committee only at the discretion or invitation of the committee. Appeals to decisions rendered on petitions are heard by the committee solely on the grounds of either new evidence or evidence of procedural irregularity. Appeals should be directed to the Adviser, Academic Services and Petitions, in Student and Academic Services, Fine Arts.

Initiating a Petition

To initiate a petition, a student must complete an undergraduate academic petition package. Petition packages are available from Student Client Services, 416-872-YORK (9675) or online at the Current Students Web site.

Petitions relating to a student's enrolment status or academic standing must be submitted within 30 days of the release of grade reports for the session. Such petitions may be considered for a period of up to one year if they are based on special circumstances.

Advice on petitioning is available from Student and Academic Services, Fine Arts, second floor, Joan and Martin Goldfarb Centre for Fine Arts, 416-736-5135. Petitions should be brought or mailed to the appropriate committee in care of the Registrar's Office, Bennett Centre for Student Services.

Grading and Academic Standards

Refer to section on Grades and Grading Schemes within the Academic Information section of this calendar for general information.

Alternative Grading Option (Pass/Fail)

Students in good standing may, after successfully completing 24 credits, enrol in up to 12 credits on an ungraded (pass/fail) basis. Courses taken on an ungraded basis may not be used to satisfy major, minor, general education or certificate requirements. Courses taken on an ungraded basis are recorded as P (pass) or F (fail), and neither grade is included in the calculation of grade point averages.

To designate a course as ungraded, a student must complete an application form available at Student Client Services, and submit it to that office before the end of the second week of classes in the course.

It is possible to revert to the regular grading scheme after choosing the alternative grading option. The Registrar's Office must be notified of this decision no later than the last day to withdraw from the course without academic penalty.

Grading Policy

- a. Within the first two classes, a written course outline must be provided to each student. Such an outline should announce the means of determining the final grade in a course. Such information must include the kinds of assignments, essays, examinations and other components which make up the grade; their relative weights; and any other procedures which enter into the determination of the final grade.
- b. In exceptional circumstances, a previously announced marking scheme for a course may be changed; the new marking scheme must also be distributed in written form. Any changes to a previously announced marking scheme must have the consent of all students registered in the course, such consent to be signified by their signatures.
- c. Feedback during course: Instructors are obligated to provide a mechanism by which students can be apprised of their progress in a course; in particular, students must be able to make an informed decision on whether to withdraw from a course. This will normally mean that students will receive graded feedback on work worth at least 15 per cent of the course grade before the deadline to withdraw from that course.

d. No examination or test worth more than 20 per cent of the course grade may be scheduled during the last two weeks of class time, but must be scheduled during the formal exam period.

e. Grades submitted by an instructor are subject to review by the teaching unit in which the course is offered, and by the Faculty of Fine Arts Committee on Administrative Affairs.

Grade Reappraisals

Students may, with sufficient academic grounds, request that a final grade in a course be reappraised. Further information may be obtained from the Student and Academic Services Office, Faculty of Fine Arts or from the unit offering the course. Students applying to have a grade reappraised in a Faculty of Fine Arts course should note the following:

- a. Deadlines: Requests for reappraisal must be filed within three weeks of the release of grade reports for the term.
- b. Reassessable work: Students may question the overall course grade or the marking of the specific pieces of work. For reassessment of specific projects or assignments, tangible evidence of the original submitted work must be provided. Written, graphic, modelled, video recording or audio recording are acceptable formats for reassessment.
- c. Possible grade changes: When a student asks for a reappraisal of a grade or assignment, an original grade may be raised, lowered or confirmed.
- d. Faculty appeal procedures: The decision of the department may be appealed to the Faculty of Fine Arts Committee on Administrative Affairs (CAA) only on grounds of procedural irregularity or new evidence. Appeals to CAA must be submitted to Student and Academic Services, Faculty of Fine Arts.

Deferred Standing

Deferred standing may be recorded and in effect in the following cases:

- a. If a student has missed an examination, or has not completed the course work due to sickness or other misfortune, it is the student's responsibility to make arrangements with the instructor to complete the course and to file a deferred standing agreement with the department by the specified deadline.
- b. If the nature of the academic exercise precludes the completion of certain course requirements before the grading deadlines, it is the instructor's responsibility to provide a written rationale to the Committee on Administrative Affairs.

Aegrotat Standing

In cases where deferred standing is not possible, students may be granted aegrotat standing (AEG) on the grounds of sickness, accident or family misfortune. Aegrotat standing excuses students from completing the remaining and required work for a course or courses although course credit is granted. The notation AEG is recorded on the transcript in place of a final grade. Aegrotat standing is normally dependent upon the student's having completed 75 per cent of the required course work at a minimum C+ level. Requests for aegrotat standing will not be considered before the final date for withdrawal from a course.

Petitions for aegrotat standing must be submitted to the Registrar's Office with documentation substantiating the misfortune and written support from the instructor(s). The petition will then be considered by the Faculty Committee on Administrative Affairs.

Aegrotat standing is seldom granted and will not be granted for more than one academic session prior to the completion of a degree.

Academic Standing

Academic standing depends on several factors including the number of courses a student has completed, the overall grade point average, the sessional grade point average and the major grade point average.

Grade reports include notice of academic standing and eligibility to proceed in Honours or BA programs.

Note: Advancement into second-year and upper-year studio/performance course in some programs may be determined by the designated departmental committee.

Grade Point Average Calculations

There are three different grade point averages (GPAs) calculated for Faculty of Fine Arts students:

- Overall grade point average: Includes all courses (passed and failed) that the student has completed at York.
- Sessional grade point average: Includes all courses (passed and failed) that the student has completed in the current session at York.
- Major grade point average: Includes all courses (passed and failed) which count towards the major that the student has completed at York.

All courses taken at York, including failures, are included in grade point average calculations. Courses completed outside York University are not included in grade point averages at York.

Honours BA, Honours BFA and Honours BDes

The following minimum grade point averages are required to graduate with an Honours degree in the Faculty of Fine Arts:

- An overall grade point average of 5.00 (C+).
- A major grade point average of 5.00 (C+).
- To graduate, students must also have successfully completed (passed) at least 120 credits which meet the Faculty of Fine Arts and program requirements.

Admission to an Honours BA, Honours BFA and Honours BDes

Students with no previous postsecondary education: Students who enter the Faculty of Fine Arts with no prior experience at a postsecondary educational institution (such as university and college) are automatically admitted to an Honours program.

Transfer students: Students who enter with prior experience at a postsecondary educational institution are admitted to an Honours program if their prior overall grade point average (including failed courses) is at least the equivalent of 5.00 (C+) on the York scale.

Transferring from an Honours BA, Honours BFA to a BA Program

Ineligibility to continue in Honours: Students whose overall and/or major GPA falls below the progression requirements, may continue their studies only in a BA degree program. Please see the eligibility to maintain Honours status chart below. Honours BA students will automatically be placed in the BA program. Honours BFA students must fill out a change of degree form if they wish to continue their studies.

Re-entering Honours: Students who have been transferred to the BA program because of a GPA which falls below the requirements to maintain Honours status, may re-enter Honours if they raise their overall and major grade point averages to the requirements or above as specified in each year level, by the session in which they have successfully completed their 90th credit. Students who have not reached 5.00 (C+) in the session in which they successfully complete their 90th credit may request to graduate with a BA degree if they fulfill the BA degree requirements, or may continue in a BA program until those requirements are fulfilled. Students in this situation may petition for an Honours waiver.

Year 1	Fewer than 24 credits	5.00	4
Year 2	24 to 53 credits	5.00	4.25
Year 3	54 to 83 credits	5.00	4.8
Year 4	84	5.00	5.00

Honours Bachelor of Design

Please note that the Honours progression requirements do not apply to the York-Sheridan Joint Bachelor of Design degree program. This program is exempted from the Honours progression requirements stated above. Students in this program must maintain both an overall and major GPA of 5.00 in each year of study throughout their program. Students who fall below the 5.00 (C+) in either their overall and/or major GPA will be required to transfer into another degree program and/or petition for an Honours waiver.

BA Degree

Graduating with a BA

The following minimum grade point averages are required to graduate with a BA in the Faculty of Fine Arts:

- An overall grade point average of 4.00 (C).
- A major grade point average of 4.00 (C).
- To graduate, students must also have successfully completed (passed) at least 90 credits which meet the Faculty of Fine Arts and program requirements.

Opting to graduate in a BA program: Students who are eligible for Honours may opt to graduate in a BA program in the session in which they have completed their final course(s). This should be indicated on the application to graduate form.

Admission to a BA

Transfer students: Students who enter with prior experience at a postsecondary educational institution are admitted to a BA program if their prior overall grade point average (including failed courses) is at least the equivalent of 4.00 (C) on the York scale.

Transferring/Re-applying to Honours

Continuing students: Students in a BA program whose overall and major GPAs are at least 5.00 (C+) are automatically transferred to a BA Honours program. Students who wish to transfer from the Honours BA to the Honours BFA must apply on a change of degree form and fulfill any evaluation or audition requirements.

Graduating students: Students who have completed a York University BA degree (90 credit program) in the Faculty of Fine Arts may continue, after graduation, in a BA Honours program in the same subject area or in a BA Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor program including the same subject area, provided the cumulative and major grade point average are those required for the Honours program. A student who wishes to pursue a BFA Honours in the same field of study, may continue in the second degree, subject to the approval of the Faculty of Fine Arts, by submitting a change of degree form to the Registrar's Office. Please note that students who are approved by the Faculty to proceed, would normally receive 90 credits towards the BFA Honours in the same subject area.

A student who wishes to pursue a second BFA Honours or BA Honours in a different field of study must apply to the Admissions Office for admission as a second degree candidate. The deadline to apply for fall admission is June 1.

Courses taken Beyond the Normal Maximum – in Order to Raise Cumulative and/or Major Grade Point Average

Students in a BA program who have passed 90 credits in accordance with Faculty and program requirements, but whose overall and/or major grade point average is below 4.00 (C) may attempt to raise their average to 4.00 (C) by taking up to 12 additional credits, to a maximum of 102 credits. These courses must be above the 1000 level and must be taken at York; regulations on equivalent and excluded courses apply.

- Students who have taken 18 or more credits in a given session who have achieved a sessional overall grade point average of 7.50 or higher.

Academic Standing Requirements for Visiting Students

Individuals who wish to enrol in undergraduate credit courses, but who do not intend to complete a degree or a certificate may be admitted to York as a Visiting Student (see the Admissions section of this calendar for more information). (Please note: In addition to the regular requirements for admission to the University, the Faculty of Fine Arts requires an evaluation of an applicant's suitability for many of its programs). There are three categories of visiting students:

- those who hold an undergraduate degree (three-year bachelor's degree minimum) from an accredited university/university-level institution;
- those who do not hold an undergraduate degree but wish to enrol in York courses to fulfill the academic, upgrading or professional development requirements of a professional designation;
- those who are currently attending another recognized university and wish to take York courses on a letter of permission issued by their home institution.

Grade Point Average (GPA) Requirement

Students in categories a) and b) whose overall cumulative grade point average (OCGPA) falls below 4.00 on at least 24 credits attempted will not be allowed to enrol in any subsequent session as visiting students. Students who are not permitted to re-enrol must apply for re-admission through the Admissions Office.

Note: Repeated course legislation does not apply to visiting students but only to academic degrees and certificates. Therefore, all courses attempted or taken will count in the OCGPA.

Credit Limits

Students in category b) who have maintained an OCGPA of 4.00 or higher throughout their studies and who have completed 30 credits will not be allowed to enrol in subsequent sessions and must either reactivate to proceed as visiting students or may choose to apply for admission to a degree or certificate program. This pause allows students in category (b) an opportunity to reconsider options to apply to degree studies given the transfer credit implications.

Academic Penalties

Students whose academic record does not meet Faculty or program standards are subject to the academic penalties of academic warning, major warning, required withdrawal, debarment warning, debarment and academic probation.

Academic Warning

Students whose overall grade point average falls below 4.00 (C) at the end of any session, or who enter the Faculty with a grade point average equivalent to less than 4.00 (C) on the Faculty of Fine Arts scale, receive an academic warning. Students on academic warning must earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in each session until the overall grade point average reaches 4.00 (C). Students who do not meet these conditions will be required to withdraw.

Major Warning

Students whose major grade point average falls below 4.00 (C) at the end of any session receive a major warning. Students on major warning must earn a sessional major grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in each session until the major average reaches 4.00 (C). Students who do not meet these conditions will be required to withdraw.

Required Withdrawal

Students whose academic record shows marked weakness may be required to withdraw from their studies for one year, during which they are encouraged to identify and remedy any problems which may have contributed materially to their failure to perform up to their potential, and to reflect on their reasons for pursuing a university education. The following regulations apply to required withdrawals:

Overall grade point average below 4.00 (C): Students who have received an academic warning for an overall grade point average below 4.00 (C) and who do not meet the conditions outlined in the academic warning section must withdraw for 12 months.

Major grade point average below 4.00 (C): Students who have received a major warning for a major grade point average below 4.00 (C) and who do not meet the conditions outlined in the major warning section must withdraw for 12 months.

Grade point average below 3.00 (D+): Students whose overall and/or major grade point averages have dropped below 3.00 (D+) must withdraw for 12 months.

Petition to continue without interruption: Students who have been required to withdraw may submit a petition to the Faculty of Fine Arts Committee on Administrative Affairs requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. For further information see the Petitions section.

Reactivation after required withdrawal: Students who have been required to withdraw must apply for reactivation after the requisite period of absence by submitting a reactivation form to Student Client Services (form is available on the Web at <http://www.yorku.ca>, then click Current Students). Students who return to their studies after such a required withdrawal (as well as those who have been allowed to continue their studies by virtue of a petition to the Committee on Administrative Affairs) receive a debarment warning.

Debarment Warning

Students who have been required to withdraw from the Faculty of Fine Arts or from another Faculty at York or another postsecondary institution, receive a debarment warning upon continuing their studies in the Faculty. Students on debarment warning, upon continuing their studies in the Faculty, must earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in each subsequent session until the overall and/or major average reaches 4.00 (C), and must then maintain this average. Students who do not fulfill these conditions will be debarred from the University. Students whose cumulative average fall below 3.00 (D+) while on debarment warning will be debarred.

Debarment

Students who have already been required to withdraw because of their unsatisfactory academic record and whose record does not show improvement are debarred from the University. Debarment, the minimum period for which is normally two years, means that the student is no longer a student at York University.

Petition to continue without interruption: Students who have been debarred may submit a petition to the Faculty of Fine Arts Committee on Administrative Affairs requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. For further information see the Petitions section.

Re-applying after debarment: Students who have been debarred and who wish to resume their studies must apply for admission through the Admissions Office and must provide persuasive evidence that they are ready and able to complete a degree program.

Debarment warning remains in effect: Students who have been debarred and who subsequently resume their studies in the Faculty of Fine Arts, whether by petition to continue without interruption or by reapplying for admission, receive an academic probation.

Scholarships, Awards and Bursaries

Full-time and part-time students in the Faculty of Fine Arts are eligible for a variety of in-course scholarships and bursaries awarded by the Faculty. Some are available to all Faculty of Fine Arts students regardless of major; others are department-specific. Fine arts awards are offered in fall and spring of the academic year. A special notice will be posted or otherwise communicated to students in the departments to solicit applications for the relevant awards, outlining eligibility and selection criteria and the application deadline. Nominations and applications are handled by the student's major department, which provides the necessary application forms. Awards with financial need criteria require completion of a bursary application in addition to the award application.

The Faculty of Fine Arts Committee on Awards adjudicates applications and approves nominations. Departments post the names of recipients of all awards after the nominations have been duly confirmed.

In addition to department and Faculty-based awards, fine arts students are eligible for some other scholarships and bursaries that are offered University-wide. Please refer to the Financial Services, Scholarships, Bursaries, Awards and Prizes section of this calendar for additional information about scholarships, awards and bursaries available at York University.

Policy on Academic Honesty

Definitions

Student work: Fine arts student work covered by rules regarding academic honesty includes papers, research, tests, examinations and all forms of studio and production work as practised within the Faculty.

Breaches of academic honesty: Please consult the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty for a discussion of academic honesty and definitions of breach of academic honesty. Among other issues, the senate policy discusses offences such as cheating; submission of one piece of work in satisfaction of two assignments without prior informed consent; impersonation; plagiarism and other misappropriation of the work of another; abuse of confidentiality; falsification or forgery of documents; obstruction of the academic activities of another; aiding or abetting academic misconduct; failure to divulge previous attendance at another postsecondary educational institution on an admissions application etc. In particular, students taking courses in the Faculty of Fine Arts should be mindful of the dangers of misappropriation and misrepresentation which are breaches of academic honesty.

Misappropriation of another's work: In the creation and presentation of all studio and performance work, and all other artistic and technical works, students who use the work of others must clearly state the extent and nature of the appropriation to their instructor. Failure to do so shall constitute a breach of academic honesty.

Misrepresentation of collaborative projects: Failure to give appropriate credit to collaborators, or the listing of others as collaborators who have not contributed to the work, shall constitute a breach of academic honesty.

Procedures

- The Senate Policy on Academic Honesty governs the procedure of the Faculty in cases of alleged breaches of academic honesty.
- Any faculty member suspecting that a student has engaged in a breach of academic honesty shall notify the associate dean, or designate, who shall in turn assist the faculty member in following the procedures provided in the senate policy.
- The associate dean of the Faculty shall be the Faculty person responsible for the carriage of all cases of breaches of academic honesty.
- The Committee on Administrative Affairs shall be the body responsible for hearing cases of breaches of academic honesty and imposing penalties.

Procedural Guidelines

- If an instructor believes an offence has occurred, the student should be sent a notice in writing from the assistant director, Academic Affairs that an offence is suspected, and that the instructor or course director wishes to meet with the student. The student will be informed that a representative may accompany her/him and that the meeting will be on the record. A deadline for responding of no less than seven calendar days will be imposed. The student will also be informed that the course in question may not be dropped (as per Senate Policy, E 4). Further procedures as defined in the Senate Policy, item D 3, a and b will apply.
- If the instructor or course director decides to pursue the matter, the following material will be sent to the associate dean's office:
 - the contested piece of work, (if possible);
 - the evidence supporting the alleged offence;
 - the record of the meeting;
 - the course syllabus and relevant assignment sheets;
 - any handout on academic offences;
 - record of student's performance in the course to date;
 - student's written admission of guilt and joint recommendation of instructor and student as to penalty, if applicable;
 - any other relevant materials.

If the student chooses not to attend the aforementioned meeting, this material will be sent after the time limit for arranging that meeting has expired.

- The associate dean will present the case to the Committee on Administrative Affairs, which is the relevant committee empowered to hear such cases and to impose penalties. All further procedures as defined in the senate policy will be followed.

Penalties

When a student has been found to have committed a breach of academic honesty, without limiting the ultimate discretion of the Faculty committee to impose any or all of the penalties set out in the senate policy as may be warranted in the circumstances, the committee may impose any or all of the following penalties:

- a failure in the course;

- b. failure in the course and a notation of breach of academic honesty on the transcript;
- c. suspension.
- d. expulsion with transcript notation

For students admitted to the Faculty of Fine Arts with a minimum of 54 transfer credits, FA/FACS 1900 6.00 is optional.

* Note 2: Fine arts credits outside the major are not required in the Honours Double Major program. They are required in the Honours Major/Minor program; students with a fine arts minor will automatically satisfy the requirement.

Major and Minor Courses

The specific course requirements for fine arts major and minor programs are outlined in the section following. A department may set further prescriptions, such as the requirement of a major thesis or production to be completed in conjunction with final courses.

Double Major and Major/Minor Programs

BA Honours or BFA Honours students in the Faculty of Fine Arts may pursue a second Honours Major in the Faculty of Arts, in any program or department offering a 42 or 48 credit Honours Major. Students may not pursue two major programs within the Faculty of Fine Arts. Students complete the program requirements for the second major within the context of their fine arts degree requirements. Please see the Programs of Study section in the Faculty of Arts portion of this calendar for details. Some Honours Double Major combinations may require more than 120 credits.

BA Honours and BFA Honours students in the Faculty of Fine Arts may pursue an Honours Minor in the Faculty of Arts, the Faculty of Environmental Studies, the Faculty of Fine Arts or the Faculty of Science and Engineering. Program requirements for specific Honours Minors in the Faculties of Arts, Fine Arts and Science and Engineering are listed in the Programs of Study sections of the appropriate Faculty portions of this calendar. For the minor in environmental studies, fine arts students must complete 30 credits in environmental studies, including six credits at the 1000 level and six credits at the 4000 level, and normally including three credits in the foundations series at the 2000 level.

Note: Faculty of Arts Honours degree students may pursue a second major or a minor in the Faculty of Fine Arts. Students in the Faculty of Environmental Studies or the Faculty of Science and Engineering may also pursue an Honours Minor in the Faculty of Fine Arts. The requirements of specific minor programs are outlined in the Programs of Study sections.

Regarding the university and educational goals, this certificate provides an approach to dance education that is multidisciplinary, and the courses are open to majors from other departments and Faculties, such as the School of Kinesiology and Health Science.

For students to be accepted into the dance science certificate, they must first complete the core courses (Human Anatomy and Dance Kinesiology) and have attained a minimum of B+ in Dance Kinesiology, with an overall grade point average in the dance major of 6.00.

Students must successfully complete a minimum of 27 credits as follows:

Summary of Coursework for the Dance Science Certificate

1000/2000 level: nine credits; both courses required

Anatomy: six credits

2320 Dance Kinesiology: three credits

3000/4000 level: a minimum of 18 credits (12 of these credits cannot also be used as credits towards the major degree requirements of the BA or BFA degrees)

Glendon College

Glendon is York's bilingual liberal arts Faculty. It is the only institution in southern Ontario where university programs are offered in both French and English. Glendon offers an ideal environment for pursuing undergraduate studies. Situated in a park-like setting, bordering the glen of the Don River Valley, the Glendon campus is an oasis of peace and beauty. With a small, close-knit community and an excellent student/teacher ratio Glendon students are extremely well-supported in the classroom and outside of their studies.

Glendon is dedicated to the proposition that an undergraduate liberal arts education is more relevant today than ever before. Upon graduation, students must be prepared to evolve in society and understand its workings in order to get involved and contribute in a constructive and positive manner. A good liberal arts curriculum imparts basic skills of study, thought and expression, and stimulates individual curiosity and exploration, both of the inner personality and of the external environment. Glendon is proud of its quality programs that prepare students for interesting careers in fields as diverse as business, commerce, finance, public administration, diplomacy, education, communications and translation. Glendon offers 21 programs leading to a bachelor's degree, as well as master's degrees in translation, études françaises and public and international affairs. A unique bachelor of education program for French teachers is offered at Glendon through the Faculty of Education. Prerequisite courses are offered for the BBA, MBA and LLB programs.

Glendon students may take university-level courses in both of Canada's official languages within the integrated bilingual programs. Students do not have to be bilingual to be admitted to Glendon. All students will study in both languages in order to meet the bilingual requirement for graduation. Students can choose second language courses based upon their level of proficiency and their linguistic goals. Anglophones and francophones from Canada and other parts of the world find what they are looking for at Glendon: a solid, liberal arts education and a thorough knowledge of Canadian French and English language and culture.

With its small size and ideal location in the heart of Toronto, Glendon, operating within the ambit of a big University, can offer students the best of both worlds. The size and cohesiveness of the campus mean that students have direct and ready access to professors, fellow students and administrators. In a college of about 2,000 students, relations can be more personal and Glendon students also have the opportunity to study abroad in their third year of an Honours program, at French-Canadian universities or universities around the world, thanks to exchange programs. Glendon has negotiated formal exchange agreements with l'Université libre de Bruxelles in Belgium, l'Université de Rouen in France, l'Université de Montréal in Québec, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona and all French Canadian universities outside Québec. Glendon students may also participate in the York University exchange program, which include agreements with more than 34 countries such as Mexico, Sweden, Israel, Japan and Hong Kong.

At Glendon, students may study part time or full time, primarily during the day. Students who are interested in education may coregister with the Faculty of Education to complete concurrent degrees in liberal arts and education. Glendon has also negotiated an agreement with the Faculty of Education of the University of Ottawa and students from the centre-south-west region may now be registered at the University of Ottawa and attend their consecutive BEd program on the Glendon campus.

Student life at Glendon is full of extracurricular activities organized by and for students on campus. These include such events as Theatre Glendon productions, the winter carnival, the musical ensemble, poetry nights etc. Students come from all parts of the world to benefit from Glendon's academic excellence, reputation and bilingual culture, and in turn offer us the cultural richness and different viewpoints of more than 100 countries.

Regulations for the Bachelor of Arts Degree

Introductory note: In these regulations the term academic session refers to the period from the beginning of instruction in September until the end of the annual examinations in the spring; academic year refers to the period from September 1 to August 31; year of study refers to the division of degree studies according to the number of courses already satisfactorily completed.

1. All candidates for the BA degree are subject to changes in regulations and requirements made after their first registration unless, in the opinion of the Faculty Council, undue hardship is involved. All inquiries about regulations and requirements shall be addressed to the Office of Student Programs.

Bilingual Program

Bilingual Requirement

2. i) All students admitted to a bachelor of arts degree program at Glendon must satisfy the bilingual requirement.
- ii) All students must take a language placement assessment to determine their appropriate level of French and/or English.
- iii) In order to satisfy the bilingual requirement, students must successfully complete at least six credits in each official language (French and English) at Glendon from the following two categories:
 - a) Courses at the second-year level and above in French as a second language and/or in English as a second language;
 - b) Courses in any discipline which are designated as satisfying the bilingual requirement. A student who wants to satisfy the bilingual requirement with courses other than FRLS and ENSL must submit to the Office of Student Programs a statement signed by the course instructor stating that they completed all of the required course work, tests and exams in the language of instruction of the course.

- iv) The following courses are not eligible for the bilingual requirement:
- GL/FRLS 0400 6.00
 - All FRLS 1000-level courses
 - All ENSL 1000-level courses
 - All SP courses
 - GL/HUMA 2500 6.00
 - GL/HUMA 3200 6.00
 - GL/HUMA 3400 6.00
 - All courses taught in two languages or in any language other than English and French.

Certificate of Bilingualism – French and English

To receive the Certificate of Bilingualism, students must successfully complete at least 18 credits in their second language with a minimum grade of C in each course. These courses must be at the second-year level and above in French as a second language or any courses at any level in another discipline of the college which are designated as satisfying the bilingual requirements.

Certificate of Bilingual Excellence

3. i) A Certificate of Bilingual Excellence is awarded to graduating students who successfully pass the Glendon examination of bilingual excellence.

ii) Course requirements:

To sit for this exam, students must fulfill the following requirements:

a) English-speaking students must have obtained or be reasonably certain of obtaining a minimum grade of B in 18 credits taken in French. Courses which are acceptable are: GL/FRLS 2240 6.00, GL/FRLS 3240 3.00, GL/FRLS 3241 3.00; French literature courses at any level, and any courses at any level from another discipline of the college which are designated as satisfying the bilingual requirements.

b) The following courses in translation are also acceptable:

- GL/TRAN 2210 3.00
- GL/TRAN 2220 3.00
- GL/TRAN 2250 3.00
- GL/TRAN 3210 3.00
- GL/TRAN 3220 3.00
- GL/TRAN 3270 3.00
- GL/TRAN 4210 3.00
- GL/TRAN 4225 3.00
- GL/TRAN 4230 3.00

iii) Examination procedures:

a) Information about registering for this exam is available from the Office of Student Programs. The Glendon examination of bilingual excellence is held once a year in the winter term. To become candidates, students must be in their final year and must submit an application by the annually announced deadline.

b) Eligible candidates take a written and an oral examination which assess their comprehension and expression proficiency in both languages.

c) Candidates who pass both the written and oral sections of the examination are awarded a Certificate of Bilingual Excellence in addition to the bachelor of arts degree.

New Regulation

For students who have transferred to Glendon from another university or who are enrolled in another Faculty of York University, courses credited which meet the above criteria will be considered acceptable for the purpose of sitting for the Glendon examination of bilingual excellence, or to qualify for the Certificate of Bilingualism, if they graduate from Glendon.

Language Credit

4. i) A language credit, equal to six credits, will be awarded on application to English-speaking students who obtain a minimum grade of C in 12 credits taken entirely in French.

ii) Courses designated as language training courses will not count in satisfaction of the course requirements. Courses given partly in one language and partly in the other will not be counted. Where a course has the main lectures in French with the option of a seminar in English afforded, the course is excluded if students take the English seminar. All written work submitted in connection with the course must be done in the language of the course, with the exception of non-take-home examinations.

iii) Courses taken in the Department of French by English-speaking students doing a major in French will not be counted for purposes of the award of a language credit. In this context major means the 36 credits in the department required for a bachelor of arts degree, the 60 credits in the department prescribed for Specialized Honours, both the 42 credit and the 24 credit component in Combined Honours, the 42 credit component in General Honours and Honours Double Major.

iv) If students complete, with the appropriate standing, only six of the 12 credits required, they will be eligible to receive one-half of a language credit.

v) Though a language credit will be equivalent to six credits and will enable students who obtain such a credit to graduate with 84 credits instead of 90 credits for a bachelor of arts degree and 114 credits instead of 120 credits for an Honours degree, it will allow students to be exempted only from a free elective. They will still have to do the number of courses in their major prescribed for a bachelor of arts program or for any Honours program and they will also have to satisfy the general education requirements.

vi) The language credit will not be shown on students' cumulative records and it will not be counted in the academic average they are required to maintain. It will be shown only on the final transcript when students graduate. Until graduation, the official record of students who have earned a language credit will show an apparent deficiency of one course. Students who wish to earn a language credit should pay careful attention to this procedure because it means that the language credit will count towards degree requirements only if students graduate from Glendon. If students transfer to another Faculty of York University or to another university, their language credit will not be shown on their transcript and therefore will not count in any way towards the degree program to which they transfer.

vii) English-speaking students who intend to earn a language credit should, in most cases, take a normal course load in their first two years, including the required French language training course in each of those years. If they are Honours students they should normally plan to take a course in French in third year and another in fourth year. This would give them the option of taking a 27 credit load in each of the two upper years, or a 24 credit load in one of the two years and a 30 credit load in the other, depending on their estimate of the point at which their course load needs to be lightened to enable them to devote the necessary extra time to the courses they are taking in French. Bachelor of arts degree students should aim at earning only one half of a language credit by taking a course in French in their third year, unless they are proficient enough in French to have been exempted from first year language training or to be able to carry 12 credits in French in their third year.

viii) Some graduate schools do not recognize the language credit as equivalent to a course. Students contemplating enrolling at a graduate school who wish to take courses in French are therefore strongly advised not to seek a language credit.

Note: Students in the Translation program are not eligible to receive the language credit. However, anglophone students who complete TRAD II in a francophone university may receive a credit or a half-credit at the discretion of the director of the school depending on the number of courses completed and the grades obtained.

Study in a Francophone University

5. Students in the Honours degree program, with an adequate knowledge of French, may receive credit towards a Glendon degree for a year's study in a francophone university in Canada or abroad. Enquiries should be addressed to the Subcommittee on Study in a Francophone University (SSFU), c/o the Office of Student Programs. Students re-entering Glendon after such a year of study, approved by the SSFU, need not make formal re-application, but should inform the Office of Student Programs of their intention to return and arrange to have transcripts forwarded to that office as early as possible.

English as a Second Language

6. All students admitted to the college whose mother tongue is a language other than English are required to take an English language placement test before registering. Continuing students who are non-native speakers of English should meet with the director of English as a second language or the English as a second language adviser before choosing their courses.

General Education Requirement

7. Every student in the college shall complete the equivalent of at least six credits in each of three of the four general education divisions: humanities, modes of reasoning, natural science, social science. For detailed information about these divisions, see the description under multidisciplinary studies.

BA Degree With Honours

Specialized Honours Program

8. i) Specialized studies for the Honours BA degree may be taken in business economics, Canadian studies, drama studies, economics, English, études françaises, history, information technology, international studies, mathematics, multidisciplinary studies, philosophy, political science, psychology, sociology, translation and women's studies. Students who wish to obtain a Specialized Honours BA shall become a candidate for the degree in one of these areas.

ii) A detailed description for the Specialized Honours program in each discipline can be found at the beginning of the schedule of courses offered in that discipline.

Combined Honours Program

iii) Candidates for an Honours BA degree may, with the approval of the departments concerned, divide their studies between two of the disciplines offered in the college. They will then become candidates for Combined Honours, and take at least 60 credits in the two areas concerned. Information concerning the courses required or recommended for different combinations can be found at the beginning of the schedule of courses offered in the disciplines of their choice.

General Honours Program

iv) Studies in this program typically require the same calibre of work as required for Combined or Specialized Honours and will entail at least 36 credits in one area of study. For a specific description of course requirements for General Honours in each discipline, students should consult the program description found at the beginning of the schedule of courses offered in the various disciplines.

Honours Double Major Program

v) Studies in this program typically require the same calibre of work as required for Combined or Specialized Honours, and will entail at least 36 credits in each area of study. For a specific description of course requirements for Honours Double Major, students should consult the program description found at the beginning of the schedule of courses offered in the various disciplines.

BA Honours Degree Requirements

9. i) For graduation with an Honours degree students must have the equivalent of 120 credits and must have obtained the requisite cumulative average in the major and overall. Honours students are eligible to enrol in a year according to the number of credits they have obtained (see below):

Year	Credits
Year 1	Fewer than 24 credits
Year 2	Fewer than 54 credits
Year 3	Fewer than 84 credits
Year 4	At least 84 credits

ii) Subject to the selection criteria of the major department(s), students will be registered in the Honours program who, upon completion of each academic session, have a cumulative average as follows:

Year	Cumulative major average	Cumulative overall average
1	-	4.00
3	4.50	4.80
4	5.00	5.00

Students who have taken 84 credits, and who wish to proceed in an Honours program must have a cumulative grade point average of 5.00 in their major and 5.00 overall.

iii) Students whose averages do not meet these requirements at the end of an academic session may be given special permission by their Honours departments to continue as Honours students. Otherwise such students will be reclassified as bachelor of arts degree students. No student, however, may graduate with an Honours degree if the student's cumulative overall and major averages do not meet the fourth year requirements.

iv) Authorization of advising documents: All second-, third- and fourth-year candidates shall arrange their study plan before the registration period with the department in which they intend to take their Honours subject.

v) Candidates who fail to meet the cumulative overall or major averages for an Honours program will be allowed to continue in bachelor of arts degree studies or to qualify for the bachelor of arts degree provided that their standing is sufficient to warrant this; or they may petition to have their session counted as a failure and excluded from their cumulative overall average. They will then be placed on academic probation (see Regulation 32).

vi) Candidates who successfully completed the third year of Honours degree studies, and who have fulfilled the requirements for the bachelor of arts degree or who expect to have done so on completion of the current session, may be awarded the bachelor of arts degree by applying to the Office of Student Programs not later than January 31.

vii) Candidates who have been permitted to take the bachelor of arts degree in accordance with Regulation 9 (vi) may apply for re-admission to fourth-year Honours studies in the Honours subject(s) previously carried in third year and, if re-admitted, will have their BA degree reclassified with Honours upon successful completion of their fourth-year program.

BA Degree, Bachelor Program

10. The BA degree requires completion of 90 credits and normally consists of three years of satisfactory study. Programs leading to a BA degree are offered in Canadian studies, computer science, drama studies, economics, English, études françaises, Hispanic studies, history, information technology, mathematics, mathematics for commerce, multidisciplinary studies, philosophy, political science, psychology, sociology and women's studies. The detailed description for the bachelor program in each discipline can be found at the beginning of the schedule of courses offered in that discipline.

Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirements

11. i) For graduation with a bachelor of arts degree students must have 90 credits and must have obtained the requisite cumulative average in the major and overall. Bachelor of arts degree students are eligible to enrol in a year according to the number of credits they have obtained (see below):

Year	Credits
Year 1	Fewer than 24 credits
Year 2	Fewer than 54 credits
Year 3	At least 54 credits

ii) Students enrolled in a bachelor of arts degree program must maintain a cumulative average as follows:

iii) A major in the bachelor program shall consist of 30 or more credits in the discipline chosen. (For specific requirements in each discipline, candidates should consult the schedule of courses offered in that discipline.)

iv) Authorization of advising documents: All second- and third-year candidates shall arrange their advising documents before the registration period with the department in which they intend to take their major subject.

v) Transfer from the bachelor to the Honours program: Students in the third year of a bachelor of arts degree program who have achieved Honours standing will be permitted to transfer to the Honours program. Students who have graduated in the bachelor of arts degree program may apply for admission to fourth year of an Honours program and, if re-admitted will be eligible to have their degree reclassified with Honours if their cumulative overall and major averages meet the fourth-year requirements.

vi) Students who fail to meet graduation requirements for the bachelor of arts degree or Honours degree may take up to 12 additional credits above the 2000 level, selected with the approval of the major department, for the purpose of raising their cumulative grade point average to the level required for graduation.

Number of Courses Required for a Second or Subsequent BA Degree

12. Students who have completed an undergraduate degree or equivalent at an accredited postsecondary institution, and who wish to earn a BA through Glendon in a different subject may be admitted to the BA program on the following conditions:

- i) they must have achieved a cumulative grade point average of 5.00 on all previous courses for admission to an Honours program or a cumulative grade point average of 4.00 on all previous courses for admission to a bachelor program;
- ii) they must satisfy the following in-Faculty requirements (courses taken in fulfillment of the first degree may not be used to meet this requirement): a minimum of 30 new credits at York, including at least 50 per cent of the credits required in their major and minor within the Faculty of Glendon;
- iii) they must also satisfy all the requirements in the major/minor subject(s);
- iv) the in-Faculty requirements must be regarded as the minimum number of additional courses; if the department does not award credit towards the major/minor for courses taken in fulfillment of the previous degree, the required number of courses may well exceed that number;
- v) all other applicable requirements of the University must be fulfilled.

Changes in Program

13. Students may change their degree program or major or Honours subject, providing they have the required standing and approval of the department(s) concerned, by notifying the Office of Student Programs no later than October 30.

Number of Courses Required for a First BA Degree

14. No student may receive a BA degree through Glendon unless the student has completed at least 30 credits of the program within York, including at least 50 per cent of the credits required in their major and minor within the Faculty of Glendon.

Transfer Credit

15. i) Students who, prior to entering Glendon, have attended an accredited postsecondary institution must arrange to have an official transcript of their records mailed directly to the Admissions Office at York University. Students who have successfully completed courses with a grade of C/60 per cent at another accredited postsecondary institution may be considered for transfer credits. (Applicants presenting credentials from a CAAT may be eligible for advanced standing if they complete two full years of study with an average of 3.00.)

ii) Students transferring to Glendon with a bachelor of arts degree from another accredited postsecondary institution and wishing to obtain a York Honours degree through Glendon must complete a program which meets the following conditions: completion of a minimum of 30 new credits at York, including at least 50 per cent of the credits required in their major and minor within the Faculty of Glendon. In addition to the above, students must also satisfy any further requirements of the major/minor department(s).

iii) Glendon students pursuing a York degree must seek a letter of permission (LOP) in advance from the Office of Student Programs for courses to be taken outside of York. Should a student leave York University to pursue studies at another postsecondary institution without a letter of permission, upon return to York, a new application to York is required and all previous transfer credit will be reassessed.

iv) Courses taken at an accredited postsecondary institution other than York may be credited as courses taken and passed, provided that a grade of C/60 per cent or better is obtained. Actual grades will not be included in the cumulative averages. Transcripts should be submitted to the Office of Student Programs.

v) Credit for courses taken at other York Faculties is granted on the same basis as for courses taken at Glendon.

Interfaculty Transfer

Note: Students seeking information about inter-Faculty transfer should contact the Office of Student Programs of the Faculty to which they wish to transfer.

Class Hours

16. Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for three hours per week.

Course Numbering System

17. i) Glendon courses are denoted by the Faculty prefix GL. The year of study in which a course is normally offered is indicated by the first digit (1, 2,3,4). (0 is used as a first digit for language-training introductory courses only.)

ii) Full courses are indicated by 6.00 following the course number. Half courses, offered in the fall or in the winter term, are distinguished by 3.00 following the course number.

Cross-Listed Courses

18. i) A course which is cross-listed in more than one department or division usually has the second digit 6 or 9 and is described only under the department or division by which the course is given.

ii) A general education course cross-listed as a departmental course may be used to satisfy both the general education and the departmental requirements.

- iii) A course cross-listed in two or more departments may be used to satisfy the requirement of one department only.

Exemption from Curricular Requirements

19. Students may fulfill curriculum requirements with passed courses for which they did not receive credit and which were excluded from their cumulative total of courses. A grade of D in a second language or unilingual course taken at Glendon, or C in any other course or in any course taken elsewhere than at Glendon, will be acceptable.

Enrolment in Courses

20. i) Full-time students register in 24 to 36 credits each term and have grades recorded for a total of 24 to 36 credits during an academic session.

ii) Students who are on probation may not take more than 30 credits during a session. Waiver of this regulation can only be granted under extenuating circumstances by petition.

iii) Part-time students will take no more than 21 credits in one academic session.

iv) Enrolment is permitted in full and half courses within the deadlines published in the enrolment guide. Enrolments at later dates will be made only with the written permission of all course directors and Chairs of the departments involved. Withdrawals are permitted as outlined in Regulation 21.

v) At the time of registration, all students, except those in first year, must register in a major discipline or disciplines.

vi) Students wishing to take courses more than one year above or below their year must secure approval of the department or division offering the course.

vii) First year students may be admitted to second-year courses where indicated in the calendar. To be admitted to other second-year courses, first year students must secure approval of the department or division offering the course.

viii) These regulations are subject to the provision that a course may be closed by departments and divisions when its enrolment ceiling is reached.

ix) All students who are permitted to register in courses offered in a year below their own year should take note that the standards employed in assigning and assessing their work in these courses will be such as are generally appropriate for courses in their own year.

x) 1) (a) Students are allowed to retake a failed course once for academic degree or certificate credit. Students are allowed to retake a passed course once for academic degree or certificate credit, only if the student has failed to achieve sufficient standing to proceed in a core or prerequisite course in a degree or certificate program and if no alternative remedies are provided (e.g. alternative qualifying exam). Students should note that course availability and space considerations may preclude the possibility of repeating a course in the session they choose.

(b) When a student is allowed to repeat a course for academic degree or certificate credit, the second grade will be the grade of record and the only grade calculated in the student's grade point average (major, cumulative, sessional and overall). A course can be credited only once towards satisfaction of degree or certificate academic credit requirements.

(c) The record of both the first and second time the course was taken will appear on the student's transcript, with the first course designated as 'No Credit Retained'.

(d) The restrictions regarding repeating a passed or failed course also apply to cross-listed courses and course credit exclusions.

2) The above items do not apply to graduate degree or diploma programs, the BEd degree programs of the Faculty of Education, or the LLB degree program of Osgoode Hall Law School.

3) The above noted legislation is effective September 2002.

xi) Courses which are offered on an ungraded pass/fail basis only and where the fail grade is to count as zero in the grade point average, will be designated as credit/no credit courses.

Withdrawal from Courses

21. Students may withdraw from a course before the deadline to receive a grade. The dates are published in the enrolment guide.

Withdrawal from Glendon

22. i) Students may withdraw from the college before the deadlines outlined in Regulation 21 without incurring any academic penalty.

ii) If a student withdraws after the deadlines without approval of the petitions committee, grades will be entered on the student's official record. The student will be placed on academic probation and will be required to apply for re-admission if the student wishes to resume studies at Glendon in some subsequent session.

iii) First-year students or students on probation who obtain an average of less than 3.00 in two or more courses at the end of the first term will be required to discuss their situation with a Faculty adviser and may be advised to withdraw from the college.

iv) Under some circumstances the college may require students to withdraw involuntarily.

Auditing Students

23. i) Full-time students of York University may audit a course without an additional tuition fee. Other auditors must pay the regular fee for each full or half course.

ii) No academic credit will be granted to students who audit a course. Before attending classes, auditors must obtain permission of the instructor and notify the Office of Student Programs.

Standing

24. Students shall obtain a standard of work in their courses of instruction satisfactory to the departments or divisions concerned, and they shall attend examinations, unless prevented by illness or by some other special circumstance.

Grading System

25. i) All courses at Glendon are graded on the following system:

Letter	Point Value	Percentage Grade	Definition
A+	9	90-100	Exceptional
A	8	80-89	Excellent
B+	7	75-79	Very Good
B	6	70-74	Good
C+	5	65-69	Competent
C	4	60-64	Fairly Competent
D+	3	55-59	Passing
D	2	50-54	Barely Passing
E	1	40-49	Marginally Failing
F	0	0-39	Failing

P	Ungraded	Pass
F	Ungraded	Fail

ii) Pass/Fail Alternative Grading Option

Students may take a limited number of courses for full degree credit on an ungraded (pass/fail alternative grading option) basis. Courses taken on this basis are listed on the transcript as P for pass or as F for fail. Neither of these two grades is calculated into the student's grade point averages.

The following regulations apply to courses to be taken on an ungraded (pass/fail alternative grading option) basis:

Academic standing: Only students who are in good standing, (i.e. not on temporary probation, academic warning or debarment warning) are allowed to take such courses.

Prerequisite: Students may apply to take such courses only after they have successfully completed 24 credits.

Elective courses only: Courses taken on an ungraded (pass/fail alternative grading option) basis cannot be used to satisfy major, minor, general education, certificate requirements or 1000-level science courses.

Maximum number of ungraded courses:

a) Honours program: Students registered in an Honours program are allowed to take up to 12 credits on an ungraded (pass/fail alternative grading option) basis.

b) Bachelor program: Students registered in a bachelor program are allowed to take up to six credits on an ungraded (pass/fail alternative grading option) basis.

Deadline: Students who wish to designate a course as ungraded must do so within the first two weeks of the term in which the course begins; they must first obtain the signature of the course director on the form available for this purpose from the Office of Student Programs. The completed form should then be returned to the Office of Student Programs by the deadline date.

Changing from ungraded to graded: With the permission of the course director, students may change the designation of a course from ungraded to graded until the last day to withdraw from that course without academic penalty. Formal notification of such a change must be received by the Office of Student Programs by the deadline date.

Definitions of Standing

26. The following definitions will apply.

Exceptional: Thorough knowledge of concepts and/or techniques and exceptional skill or great originality in the use of those concepts, techniques in satisfying the requirements of an assignment or course.

Excellent: Thorough knowledge of concepts and/or techniques together with a high degree of skill and/or some elements of originality in satisfying the requirements of an assignment or course.

Very Good: Thorough knowledge of concepts and/or techniques together with a fairly high degree of skill in the use of those concepts, techniques in satisfying the requirements of an assignment or course.

Good: Good level of knowledge of concepts and/or techniques together with considerable skill in using them to satisfy the requirements of an assignment or course.

Competent: Acceptable level of knowledge of concepts and/or techniques together with considerable skill in using them to satisfy requirements of an assignment or course.

Fairly Competent: Acceptable level of knowledge of concepts and/or techniques together with some skill in using them to satisfy the requirements of an assignment or course.

Passing: Slightly better than minimal knowledge of required concepts and/or techniques together with some ability to use them in satisfying the requirements of an assignment or course.

Barely Passing: Minimum knowledge of concepts and/or techniques needed to satisfy the requirements of an assignment or course.

Cumulative overall average: The sum of the point value of all courses taken (including those failed) divided by the number of courses. For purposes of computing averages, half courses receive half the weight of a full course.

Cumulative major average: The sum of the point value of all courses taken in the major (including those failed) divided by the number of courses. Major indicates the area of concentration which students must select in one of four programs: (a) Specialized Honours, (b) Combined Honours, (c) General Honours, (d) bachelor.

Credit: is given for all York University courses in which a D or better is achieved.

First Class Standing: Awarded on graduation to students with a cumulative overall average of at least 7.50. All students with a cumulative overall average of 7.50 are eligible for inclusion in the Dean's Honour Roll.

First Term Progress Reports

27. Course directors are required to report to the Office of Student Programs the names of any students who are obtaining less than 3.00 (D+) in the following categories:

- a) Students on probation (Reg. 32 (viii))
- b) First year students (See also Reg. 22 (iii))

Submission of Term Work

28. Term work in half courses given in the first term shall be submitted by the end of the December examination period. Term work in all other courses shall be submitted by the Friday of the first week of the annual examination period unless an earlier date has been set by the instructor in consultation with the students. Where there is no final examination in a course, no students may be required to submit their last piece of term work before the first day of the examination period.

Examinations

29. i) Final examinations are held during December for half courses offered in the first term and in April or May for half courses offered in the second term and for full courses. Examinations for students who have successfully petitioned for deferment on the grounds of illness or misfortune will be scheduled by instructors and will take place before the middle of March (in fall term courses) and before the middle of July (in winter term and full courses). Deferred assignments must be handed in no later than the middle of March (for fall term courses) and the middle of July (for winter term and full courses). Petitions for deferred standing must be initiated by the student not later than five working days after the end of examination period for the appropriate term. Faculty legislation specifies that no test or examination worth more than 20 per cent of the final grade will be given in the final two weeks of classes in a term with the exception of classes which regularly meet Friday evenings or the weekend (Saturday and Sunday at any time). Tests or examinations scheduled during the term must be held within the hours regularly scheduled for that course; such tests or examinations may be held in other hours only if no students' obligations are infringed upon. Students have the right to refuse, without penalty, an exam held in contravention of this regulation.

ii) Departments and divisions may waive final examinations by substituting a variety of written and oral tests in courses that do not require the evaluation of a final examination.

iii) All written work, including examinations, may be done in English or French at the candidate's option, except in cases where the use of the language constitutes an integral and essential part of the course concerned. Students will be duly notified of any restrictions concerning the use of either language.

iv) Students should report any conflicts, i.e. two or more examinations scheduled for the same time, without delay to the Office of Student Programs.

Final Grades

30. All final grades are calculated on the basis of a specific weighting scale set by the department or division concerned and may or may not include a final examination (written or oral). Students will be notified by their instructors shortly after the commencement of classes of the weighting scale and grading system assigned to each course.

Reappraisal of Final Grades

31. i) Examination scripts and class records of students are carefully assessed, especially in marginal cases, and there is little likelihood of the original standing being changed on appeal. However, a written request for reappraisal may be made to the Chair of the department or division in which the course is offered within three weeks of the release of the final grades in any term. Applicants must state clearly in the petition the reasons why they believe that their work in the course deserves a higher rating.

ii) Reappraisals are dealt with by the Chair of the department, or course director, in consultation with members of the staff. The student and the Office of Student Programs will be notified in writing of the results within three weeks of the appeal.

Academic Probation

32. i) The academic records of all students are reviewed at the end of each year of study.

ii) Students are placed on probation when they: a) are admitted with a marginal academic record; b) fail to obtain the required cumulative overall average for their year level.

iii) They are removed from probation when they obtain the required cumulative overall average for their year level.

iv) They may proceed on probation in the bachelor program if they maintain a 4.40 average on the courses taken while on probation, even if their cumulative average is below the minimum to be removed from probation.

v) Similarly, they may proceed on probation in the Honours program if they maintain a 6.00 average on the courses taken while on probation.

vi) They are debarred from further registration if they do not satisfy (iii) or (iv) above.

vii) Students who fail to obtain the cumulative average for their year and whose average for the current year is below 3.00, will have failed the year, and will receive no credit for courses taken in that year. The grades will appear on their record but will not enter into the calculation of their cumulative averages. If they wish to continue their studies at Glendon, they must apply for re-admission, and, if accepted, will be placed on academic probation.

viii) Students who are not debarred may petition by the closing date for registration of the next academic session in which they register to have their last year (or equivalent) counted as a failed year. The students would be placed on probation.

ix) Students on probation may not take more than 30 credits in an academic session.

x) Students on probation who do not attain at the end of the first term a cumulative average of more than 3.00 (D+) are required to discuss the situation with their adviser.

Debarment

33. i) Students on probation will be debarred from the University if they fail to satisfy (iii) or (iv) of Regulation 32.

ii) Students who have been debarred, whether at York or another university, may be re-admitted in some subsequent session only if they give convincing evidence that they can profit from university work. Application for re-admission will not be entertained in less than two years from date of debarment.

Special Provisions for Illness and Misfortune

34. Students who suffer unforeseeable hardship during an academic session, which makes it impossible to complete assigned work in the allotted time, may receive special consideration. The recognized categories of hardship are:

- illness
- personal misfortune
- unforeseeable economic hardship
- academic misfortune (unforeseeable inability to obtain necessary research materials or a confirmed error on the part of the institution).

Students may petition through the Office of Student Programs, if they have appropriate evidence, for:

i) Withdrawal from any number of courses without penalty. Normally petitions for late withdrawal from a course will only be considered if they are submitted within three weeks of the release of final grades in any term. Such petitions may be considered for a period of up to one year if they are based on special circumstances.

ii) Deferred standing in one or more courses, for work expected to be in progress during the period of hardship.

iii) Aegrotat standing in one or more courses. Aegrotat standing shall not be granted in more than one year of study and will seldom be granted in any but the final year.

There are deadlines for all petitions. Check with the Office of Student Programs.

Breach of Academic Honesty

35. i) Definitions

Consult the definitions contained in the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty, in the University Policy and Regulations section of this calendar. For further clarification, contact the Office of Student Programs, C102 York Hall.

ii) Procedures

See also detailed description of Senate procedures.

Note: Once the process outlined in Sections B and D has begun, a student accused of academic dishonesty may not drop or be deregistered from the course in question until a final decision is reached. Requests for transcripts made during the process will be treated in accordance with the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty. A student who is suspended and is otherwise eligible to graduate may not apply to graduate until a suspension expires or is lifted.

A. If, in the instructor's informed view, the case may be dealt with informally by the instructor and the student involved, the two parties agree on the adopted measure. In any event, a document is signed by the instructor and the student, stating the measure adopted to remedy the situation and the reasons that motivated the measure. The document is then sent to the Office of Student Programs. This record is strictly confidential and can be cited only in the case of determining penalty in the event of a subsequent offence(s) of a breach of academic honesty.

B. Cases in which the course director/instructor decides to proceed with an allegation of plagiarism, cheating or other form of academic dishonesty,

Step 1

He/she shall provide the Chair with a written summary of the circumstances and all evidence, i.e.:

- in cases involving cheating in an exam, the confiscated material;
- in cases involving plagiarism, the work in question, all sources/books from which student has allegedly copied.

Step 2

Once Step B.1. has begun, the student involved may not drop or be deregistered from the course in question until a final decision is reached.

Step 3

The Chair of the department will arrange to meet with the student and the course director/instructor in the presence of the associate principal, student services (or delegate) - as a neutral third party, and will for this purpose notify the student programs director who will inform the student, by registered letter, with at least seven calendar days notice, with a copy to the student's file:

- a) of the date, time and place of the meeting;
- b) of the reason for such a meeting;
- c) that the student may be accompanied by a representative at the meeting.

Step 4

At the meeting with the student, the course director/instructor shall:

- a) outline the alleged offence to the student;
- b) ask student to respond to the allegation.

Step 5

a. No Breach

If following the above meeting, the Chair and course director/instructor are satisfied that there has been no breach of academic honesty, the Chair notifies the student of the decision in writing. All evidence submitted will then be destroyed and no record will be kept in the student's academic file.

or

b. Breach

If following the above meeting, the Chair and course director/instructor are of the belief that there has been a breach of academic honesty, the Chair asks the student if she/he will plead guilty or not guilty to the offence.

Step 6

Plea

a. Guilty Plea

If student pleads guilty to a breach of academic honesty:

- the Chair prepares a document to be signed by the student and the course director/instructor, in the presence of the associate principal, enrolment and student affairs (or delegate), outlining the nature of the offence, the penalty agreed upon by the student and the instructor (not to exceed failure on the assignment or in the test or exam) and the student's admission to the charge. (If the instructor seeks a more severe penalty, then a hearing before the Committee on Academic Standards, Teaching and Learning (CASTL) must be held, as indicated in 7 below.)

Note:

The following penalties may be imposed singularly or in combination (but only a, b and c may be the subject of a joint recommendation):

- oral or written disciplinary warning or reprimand;
- a make-up assignment or examination;
- lower grade or failure on the assignments or examination;
- failure in the course;
- suspension from the University for a definite period;
- notation on transcript;
- withholding or rescinding a York degree, diploma or certificate.

A permanent record of the offence will be placed in the student's academic file, but this record is strictly confidential and can be cited only in the case of determining penalty in the event of a subsequent offence(s) of a breach of academic honesty.

- The Chair sends a copy of the signed document and the documents indicated in B.1. above to:
 - CASTL for review, and;
 - the Office of Student Programs (OSP) for student's academic file. (Note: This record is for internal academic purposes only.)

In the absence of endorsement of the signed document, CASTL will call a hearing.

b. Not Guilty Plea - preparation for hearing

If student pleads not guilty to the alleged offence, or if the course director/instructor seeks a penalty which exceeds failure in assignment/test/exam, or if CASTL does not approve the joint recommendation as to penalty, then a hearing will be scheduled. The course director/instructor submits to the secretary of CASTL, a report outlining:

- the alleged offence and relevant circumstances
- the meeting with the student and its outcome
- all documents relating to the case.

The secretary of CASTL will then arrange a hearing that will take place before CASTL. The student will be notified of the hearing by registered letter and will be given at least 21 calendar days' notice of the hearing with copies to the Chair of the department, the course director/instructor, the principal and all members of CASTL. The student will also be sent a written copy of the charge, a copy of the procedures to be followed and copies of all materials submitted by the faculty member and be informed that he/she may be accompanied by a representative and may call witnesses. The student may submit a written response.

Hearing

A hearing shall take place before CASTL to consider the charges. At that hearing the principal (or designate) shall act as presenter. The hearing shall be conducted according to the procedures mandated by the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty.

Step 8

If the student is found guilty, CASTL shall proceed to consider submissions as to the appropriate penalty.

Step 9

The secretary of CASTL shall inform the student by registered mail of the committee's decision, and, in the case of a guilty verdict, of appeal procedures; a copy will also be sent to the department concerned and to the Office of Student Programs.

A permanent record of the offence will be placed in the student's academic file. This record is for internal academic purposes only.

Step 10

Appeal Procedures

The decision of the committee may be appealed to the Senate Appeals Committee on grounds of either new evidence (i.e. evidence which could not be presented at the Faculty level) or on procedural irregularity in the Faculty's consideration of the case.

Part-time Studies

Part-time studies are particularly convenient for students who wish to combine University work with employment or personal commitments. They also provide a stepping stone to full-time studies for students who have been away from formal education for a few years and wish to try out University before committing themselves to a full-time program.

One of the advantages of Glendon's part-time day studies program is the availability of some block-scheduled courses, classes which meet one day a week, cutting down on commuting time and allowing for ease in scheduling other commitments around University work.

About a third of Glendon students are pursuing their degrees on a part-time basis, taking from six to 21 credits per session. They enjoy the same privileges and freedoms as full-time students in terms of course choice, accessibility of resources and participation in campus life, and are subject to the same regulations.

Academic Standing Requirements for Visiting Students

Individuals who wish to enrol in undergraduate credit courses, but who do not intend to complete a degree or a certificate may be admitted to York as a Visiting Student (see the Admissions section of this calendar for more information). There are three categories of visiting students:

- those who hold an undergraduate degree (three-year bachelor's degree minimum) from an accredited university/university-level institution;
- those who do not hold an undergraduate degree but wish to enrol in York courses to fulfill the academic, upgrading or professional development requirements of a professional designation;
- those who are currently attending another recognized university and wish to take York courses on a letter of permission issued by their home institution.

Grade Point Average (GPA) Requirement

Students in categories a) and b) whose overall cumulative grade point average (OCGPA) falls below 4.00 on at least 24 credits attempted will not be allowed to enrol in any subsequent session as visiting students. Students who are not permitted to re-enrol must apply for re-admission through the Admissions Office.

Note: Repeated course legislation does not apply to visiting students but only to academic degrees and certificates. Therefore, all courses attempted or taken will count in the OCGPA.

Credit Limits

Students in category b) who have maintained an OCGPA of 4.00 throughout their studies and who have completed 30 credits will not be allowed to enrol in subsequent sessions and must either reactivate to proceed as visiting students or may choose to apply for admission to a degree or certificate program.

General Information

Recruitment and Liaison Office

The Recruitment and Liaison Office is the welcome centre of the campus, responsible for promoting Glendon to prospective students. The Liaison team attends university and career fairs and visits high schools in Ontario across Canada and abroad. They host on-campus special events and tour programs, run an admissions enquiries service, and produce a host of promotional materials in English and French. Liaison also works closely with educational and cultural organizations to support bilingual education.

Telephone: 416-487-6710
 Fax: 416-487-6786

Library

The Leslie Frost Library's collection consists of approximately 250,000 monographs, 18,000 electronic or print journals and 20,000 government documents. The language ratio is approximately 70 per cent English, 30 per cent French. Instruction is available on a variety of topics: general research methods, Internet searching, database searching. Students and faculty of Glendon have full privileges at all the York libraries, giving them access to Canada's third largest academic collection. Most material from the other York libraries can be sent to Frost on a day's notice.

Bookstore

The bookstore is located in the basement of York Hall. All required textbooks for courses are stocked. All books are priced at the Canadian publishers' or distributors' recommended list price. Any book not in stock may be special ordered. The bookstore also carries stationery, Glendon and York clothing, confectionary, and a selection of other items. The Glendon Bookstore has access to the large stock of the Keele campus bookstore.

Glendon Gallery

The Glendon Gallery is a public art gallery located on the Glendon campus. The gallery presents a program of monthly exhibitions from September to May. Emphasis is placed on the educative function and contemporary art. Literature in French and English, as well as guided tours, lectures by artists, curators complement the exhibition program. Additional information is available in the gallery or by calling 416-487-6859.

Theatre Glendon

Theatre Glendon, in York Hall, is a fully equipped theatrical performance space with its own staff of production professionals. It annually houses a full season of in-course and extracurricular student productions, and hosts visiting professional companies as well. The theatre is the second home of everyone enrolled in drama studies. Additional information is available at the theatre or by calling 416-487-6722.

Residence

Glendon has two residences, Wood and Hilliard, which together house 401 students in comfortably furnished single, small single and double rooms. There is a large proportion of single rooms open to students in all years of study. Residence is guaranteed to first-year students who meet the application deadline.

Each residence is divided into houses of 30 to 45 students; some are designated to be exclusively for women, while others are coed. Please note that all members of the house share all facilities in a house, including its washroom(s).

Residence rooms are carpeted and completely furnished with beds, desks, dressers, clothes cupboards, bookshelves, chairs, drapes and recycling baskets. Please note that linen is available for purchase upon request. The rooms are designed to encourage personal additions such as posters, wall hangings, plants and the like. Due to a lack of storage space, however, all university furnishings must remain in the rooms. For the safety of all residents, microwave ovens, toasters, pets, waterbeds and air conditioners are among some of the items not permitted in residence rooms.

The residences have kitchen facilities available for a limited number of senior students. Most residents eat in the Caf  teria Glendon or the Bistro at Proctor Field House. Please see the Meal Plan section for details.

Each residence house has a common room with cable television. Students also have access to vacuum cleaners, irons, video cassette recorders and DVD players, pool and billiard equipment and a study room. Each residence room includes a York Telecomm phone line, which includes voicemail and caller ID. Card operated laundry facilities are located in the basement of each residence.

Applications to residence are made through Glendon Housing Services, 416-487-6844. In the residences themselves, a team of housing professionals endeavour to enrich the experience of residence life, including administrators, night porters, caretakers and dons who act as resource people while helping to foster a sense of community in each house.

Residence students are at the heart of the academic, social, artistic and athletic life of the campus. Here, the opportunity for building lasting friendships and communicating with students from all over the world allows residents to practice both of Canada's official languages in a friendly environment. Suggestions and concerns are brought to the Residence Council which is composed of student representatives living in residence.

Summer residence accommodation is also available for students and visitors.

Glendon also offers limited accommodation for visiting parents and friends during the school year.

Meal Plan

All students living in residence are required to purchase a meal plan. This plan enables students to retain the responsibility for satisfying their own dietary needs within the range of available    la carte selections.

The residence fee includes the cost of the meal plan. A debit card, the YU-card, is issued to each resident student as per the meal plan and can be spent at any University-controlled food service outlet on food and non-alcoholic beverages. At Glendon, the outlets are the Caf  teria Glendon, Mr Sub, and the Bistro at Proctor Field House. The card system allows for flexibility and choice, and it allows for students to spend as little or as much as they like at each meal. Suggestions and concerns are brought to the Food Services Committee which is composed of student representatives living in residence.

It is unlikely that the amount of meal plan money included in the residence fee will purchase 100 per cent of the resident's food requirements for eight months unless he or she is a very light eater or plans to dine frequently off-campus. Thus, residents will generally need to supplement the meal plan with cash purchases.

Residence Fees

The residence fees for the 2008-2009 academic sessions are as follows:

Room Type	Double	Small Single	Single	Large Single
Room Charge	$4,088	$4,411	$4,689	$4,910

Athletics

The Glendon Athletic Club is situated in the Proctor Field House, located on the lower level of the campus. Facilities include a 25-yard indoor pool, a gymnasium, a Group Exercise room, a weight room equipped with free weights, Lifefitness machines and top-of-the-line cardio equipment, four International squash courts, a Spinning   studio and an indoor golf driving range. Personal counselling: Students come to the Counselling and Career Centre with a diversity of problems and needs. Some common concerns experienced by students at university are: living away from home for the first time, work pressures, forming new relationships and confusion over goals and identity. At the Counselling and Career Centre you will find professionally trained counsellors who will listen to your concerns and help you sort things out. All matters discussed at the centre are strictly confidential.

Career counselling: Career issues are a major concern for everyone. While some students have clear career goals, the majority are not yet sure which career path suits them. The centre offers individual and group career planning sessions to help you explore your interests, abilities and values. Interest tests are also available to assist you with your career planning. In addition there are career information days and employment fairs held during the year.

Group programs: The Counselling and Career Centre offers workshops on many topics including: avoiding procrastination, stress management, communication skills, weight management, increasing self-confidence, relaxation training, career options, job search strategies, resume writing and interview preparation. In addition, there is a support group for students who have been out of school for a period of time.

Learning skills: Students often lack a systematic approach to studying and therefore feel overwhelmed by their studies. Throughout the year, the Counselling and Career Centre offers workshops on study skills which include time management, note taking, reading a textbook and exam preparation strategies. You can also make an individual appointment with a counsellor to discuss any of your study problems.

Services for students with disabilities: The Counselling and Career Centre has a comprehensive support program for students with disabilities. The program includes individual consultations, a peer tutoring program for help with learning strategies and adaptive technology. The centre also arranges with faculty for special accommodations needed for course evaluations and examinations.

Sexual Harassment Complaint Centre: The Counselling and Career Centre acts as a liaison to the Sexual Harassment Education and Complaint Centre located on the Keele campus.

Resource Centre: There is an excellent resource library in the Counselling and Career Centre, where you are welcome to drop in and browse. It contains educational and occupational information, career planning reference guides, as well as self-help materials on personal issues, job search techniques, resume writing, job interview tips and study skills. Fall elections are held to elect four more councillors, as well as part-time student representatives and first year student representatives. The Glendon Alumni Association also sends an elected representative.

The two main purposes of the union are, first, to protect the interests of students in the academic and administrative affairs of the college and, second, to coordinate and promote student participation in cultural, intellectual and social activities such as dances, clubs, union meetings and colloquia. The three major events of the year are orientation week (at the beginning of September), the Snow Ball (early in December) and the winter carnival (first week of February).

Collège universitaire Glendon

Le Collège universitaire Glendon est la faculté bilingue de sciences humaines et de lettres de l'Université York. C'est le seul établissement universitaire du sud de l'Ontario à offrir des programmes à la fois en anglais et en français. Compte tenu de sa petite taille le rapport professeurs/étudiants y est des plus favorables.

La philosophie éducative de Glendon repose sur le constat que l'enseignement des sciences humaines et des lettres est plus pertinent que jamais. Une fois diplômés, les étudiants doivent être prêts à évoluer dans la société ; ils doivent être en mesure d'en comprendre les fondements afin de mieux s'y insérer et de contribuer de manière constructive à l'améliorer. Un bon programme d'étude en humanités affine leur aptitude à apprendre, à penser, à s'exprimer ; il éveille leur curiosité et les lance à la découverte de soi et du monde extérieur. Glendon est fier de ses programmes de qualité qui préparent ses étudiants à des carrières intéressantes dans des domaines aussi divers que l'administration des affaires, le commerce, la finance, la fonction publique, la diplomatie, les communications et les relations publiques, l'enseignement, ou encore la traduction. Le Collège universitaire Glendon offre vingt-et-un programmes de baccalauréat, ainsi que trois programmes de maîtrise en traduction, études françaises et administration publique et internationale. La Faculté d'éducation offre un BEd pour enseignants de français an campus Glendon. On peut aussi y suivre des cours en vue de l'admission aux programmes de BBA, MBA et LLB.

Le Collège universitaire Glendon doit en grande partie son caractère unique au fait que les cours y sont offerts dans les deux langues officielles du Canada et ce, dans le cadre de programmes intégralement bilingues. Toutefois, être bilingue n'est pas un préalable pour être admis à Glendon. En outre, les étudiants choisissent le nombre de cours qu'ils suivront dans leur deuxième langue officielle canadienne, en fonction de leurs propres objectifs et leurs compétences linguistiques. Les anglophones et francophones du Canada et d'ailleurs trouvent à Glendon ce qu'ils viennent y chercher – en l'occurrence, une solide éducation en humanités, conjugée à la possibilité d'acquérir ou d'approfondir une connaissance des langues et des cultures canadienne-anglaise et canadienne-française.

De plus, l'environnement de Glendon convient parfaitement à la poursuite d'études de premier cycle. Situé sur un escarpement dominant la vallée de la rivière Don, son très beau campus est une véritable oasis de paix. Par sa petite taille et sa situation avantageuse au cœur de Toronto, le Collège Glendon, qui fait néanmoins partie d'une grande université, peut offrir à ses étudiants le meilleur de deux mondes. Ainsi, sa taille modeste et la cohésion de ses programmes, tout autant que la situation privilégiée de son campus, favorisent les contacts personnels entre les étudiants, les professeurs et le personnel administratif. Dans un établissement dont l'effectif total est d'environ 2000 étudiants, les relations peuvent être plus personnelles, et plus directes. La qualité des études s'en trouve rehaussée, de même que la recherche et le travail intellectuel des professeurs – ce qui, en retour, contribue encore à enrichir l'enseignement. Étudier à Glendon, c'est aussi avoir la possibilité de faire sa troisième année d'un programme spécialisé dans une université canadienne-française ou dans une université étrangère grâce au réseau d'échanges de Glendon d'une part, et de l'Université York d'autre part. Le programme d'échange de Glendon, qui lui est spécifique, comprend des ententes avec l'Université libre de Bruxelles (Belgique) ; l'Université de Rouen (France) ; l'Université autonome de Barcelone ; l'Université de Montréal (Québec), ainsi que toutes les universités canadiennes-françaises hors Québec. Le programme de l'Université York, auquel Glendon souscrit également, est encore plus vaste et comprend des ententes avec plus de 34 pays, comme le Mexique, la Suède, Israël, le Japon ou Hong Kong par exemple.

Glendon offre la possibilité de poursuivre des études à plein temps ou à temps partiel, principalement durant le jour. Les étudiants de Glendon qui se destinent à l'enseignement peuvent suivre en parallèle leur programme en humanités et le programme de la Faculté des sciences de l'éducation afin d'obtenir un double baccalauréat. Par ailleurs, Glendon a signé un accord avec la Faculté des sciences de l'éducation de l'Université d'Ottawa, afin que les étudiants qui y sont inscrits et qui résident dans la région du Centre-sud-ouest de l'Ontario puissent suivre leur programme de baccalauréat à Glendon.

Règlements gouvernant l'obtention du baccalauréat ès arts

Remarques explicatives : Le terme "session scolaire" s'applique à la période de cours commençant en septembre et s'étendant jusqu'à la fin des examens au printemps ; "année universitaire" désigne la période du 1er septembre au 31 août ; "année d'études" indique la division des études selon le nombre de cours déjà réussis.

1. Les changements apportés aux règlements et aux exigences s'appliquent également à tous les candidats au BA - à moins que le

Conseil de la Faculté ne décide qu'ils représentent une épreuve excessive. Prière d'adresser toute demande de renseignement concernant les règlements et les exigences au Bureau des programmes scolaires.

Programme Bilingue

Exigences en matière de bilinguisme

2. i) Tous les étudiants admis à un programme de baccalauréat ès arts au Collège universitaire Glendon doivent satisfaire aux exigences du Collège en matière de bilinguisme.

ii) Tous les étudiants doivent passer un test linguistique afin de déterminer leur niveau de français et d'anglais.

iii) Pour satisfaire aux exigences en matière de bilinguisme, tous les étudiants doivent obtenir au moins six crédits dans chaque langue officielle (français et anglais) au Collège universitaire Glendon dans les deux catégories suivantes :

a) des cours de 2e année ou d'un niveau supérieur en Français langue seconde ou en Anglais langue seconde ;

b) des cours dans une discipline qui respecte les exigences en matière de bilinguisme du Collège. Tous les étudiants qui préfèrent suivre des cours autres que les cours de Français langue seconde ou d'Anglais langue seconde pour respecter les exigences en matière de bilinguisme doivent soumettre au Bureau des programmes scolaires une attestation signée par le professeur du cours indiquant que tous les travaux, tests et examens ont été réalisés dans la langue d'instruction du cours.

iv) Les cours suivants ne sont pas admissibles pour satisfaire aux exigences de bilinguisme du Collège :

GL/FRLS 0400 6.00

tous les cours FRLS de niveau 1000

tous les cours ENSL de niveau 1000

tous les cours SP

GL/HUMA 2500 6.00

GL/HUMA 3200 6.00

GL/HUMA 3400 6.00

tous les cours enseignés dans deux langues ou dans une langue autre que le français ou l'anglais.

Certificat de bilinguisme – Français et Anglais

Pour l'obtention du Certificat de bilinguisme il faut avoir réussi, avec une note minimum de C, à au moins 18 crédits dans sa langue seconde : cours de 2e année ou au-dessus en Anglais langue seconde ou tout cours, à tous les niveaux, dans une autre discipline du collège qui sont désignés comme satisfaisant à l'exigence de bilinguisme.

Certificat d'excellence bilingue

3. i) Les étudiants en dernière année d'études et qui ont subi avec succès l'examen d'excellence bilingue de Glendon, se voient décerner un certificat d'excellence bilingue.

ii) Cours requis :

Pour pouvoir se présenter à l'examen, les étudiants doivent satisfaire aux prérequis suivants :

a) L'étudiant francophone doit avoir reçu, ou être raisonnablement assuré de recevoir, une note minimum de B dans 18 crédits suivis en anglais ; cours ENSL à partir de la 2e année et cours EN à tous les niveaux ou tout cours en anglais, à tous les niveaux, dans une autre discipline qui sont désignés comme satisfaisant à l'exigence de bilinguisme.

b) Les étudiants francophones en Traduction peuvent utiliser les cours suivants comme prérequis à l'inscription :

GL/TRAN 2210 3.00

GL/TRAN 2220 3.00

GL/TRAN 2250 3.00

GL/TRAN 3210 3.00

GL/TRAN 3220 3.00

GL/TRAN 3270 3.00

GL/TRAN 4210 3.00

GL/TRAN 4225 3.00

GL/TRAN 4230 3.00

iii) Déroulement de l'examen :

a) Pour s'inscrire à l'examen, les étudiants sont priés de s'adresser au Bureau des programmes scolaires. Ils doivent remplir un formulaire d'inscription à l'examen avant la date limite annoncée chaque année. L'examen d'excellence bilingue de Glendon a lieu une fois par an, au trimestre d'hiver.

b) Les candidats éligibles passent un examen écrit et un examen oral destinés à évaluer leur compréhension et leur expression dans les deux langues.

c) Les candidats ayant réussi l'examen oral et l'examen écrit reçoivent un certificat d'excellence bilingue qui leur est décerné avec leur diplôme de baccalauréat ès arts.

Crédit linguistique

4. i) L'équivalent de six crédits, sera décerné, sur demande, à l'étudiant francophone qui reçoit une note minimum de C dans 12 crédits suivis entièrement en anglais.

ii) Les cours décrits comme cours d'apprentissage de langue ne comptent pas en vue de l'obtention du Crédit. Les cours donnés, moitié dans une langue et moitié dans l'autre, ne comptent pas non plus. Si le cours magistral est donné en anglais, et le séminaire au choix, le cours ne compte pas si l'étudiant choisit le séminaire français. Tous les travaux écrits relevant du cours doivent être rédigés dans la langue du cours, exception faite des examens.

iii) Les cours suivis dans le Département d'anglais par les étudiants francophones qui suivent un programme d'études avec concentration en anglais ne comptent pas en vue de l'obtention d'un crédit linguistique. Dans ce contexte "concentration" veut dire les 30 crédits dans la discipline exigés pour le baccalauréat, les 60 crédits requis pour le baccalauréat spécialisé, les groupements de 36 crédits et de 24 crédits dans le programme spécialisé bidisciplinaire, le groupement de 36 crédits dans les programmes spécialisé général et spécialisé avec double majeure.

iv) Un demi-crédit linguistique sera attribué à celui qui réussit 6 des 12 crédits requis avec une note minimum de C.

v) Le crédit linguistique étant équivalent à six crédits, cela permettra à son détenteur d'obtenir le baccalauréat avec 84 crédits au lieu de 90 crédits, et le baccalauréat spécialisé avec 114 crédits au lieu de 120 crédits. Cependant, le crédit linguistique ne dispensera que d'un cours facultatif. L'étudiant devra de toute façon suivre le nombre de cours exigé dans le champ de concentration du baccalauréat auquel il est inscrit, et il sera également tenu de satisfaire aux exigences du programme de formation générale.

vi) Le dossier scolaire de l'étudiant ne portera la mention "crédit linguistique" que lors de l'attribution du diplôme de baccalauréat, et le crédit n'entrera pas dans le calcul de la moyenne scolaire. Jusqu'à la remise du diplôme le dossier de l'étudiant ayant obtenu un crédit linguistique indiquera un cours de moins que la norme. L'étudiant qui aimerait obtenir un crédit linguistique devrait garder à l'esprit que le crédit ne comptera en vue de l'obtention du Baccalauréat que si l'étudiant termine son diplôme à Glendon. S'il change de faculté à l'Université York, ou d'université, son crédit linguistique n'apparaîtra pas dans son dossier et ne comptera pas dans le programme d'études de l'institution où il s'inscrira.

vii) L'étudiant francophone qui n'est pas très fort en anglais devrait profiter de la possibilité d'obtenir plus tard un crédit linguistique en suivant 24 crédits ou 27 crédits en première année au lieu de 30 crédits. Mais il doit tenir compte des faits suivants : a) il sera tenu de faire tous ses travaux écrits en anglais dans les 12 crédits qu'il désignera pour le crédit ; b) il devra recevoir une note d'au moins C dans ces 12 crédits ; c) le crédit linguistique ne comptera que s'il termine son Baccalauréat à Glendon.

viii) Certaines facultés de 2e et 3e cycles ne reconnaissent pas le crédit linguistique comme l'équivalent d'un cours. On conseille donc aux étudiants qui pensent poursuivre des études avancées de ne pas demander de crédit linguistique mais plutôt de suivre un cours de composition avancée du Département d'anglais s'ils désirent améliorer leur anglais écrit.

Année d'études dans une université francophone

5. Un étudiant inscrit dans un programme spécialisé, s'il possède une assez bonne connaissance du français, peut demander à passer une année dans une université francophone, au Canada ou à l'étranger, et recevoir des crédits pour l'obtention de son diplôme à Glendon. Pour de plus amples renseignements, prière de s'adresser au Sous-Comité des études dans des universités francophones ou au Bureau des programmes scolaires. Un étudiant revenant à Glendon après son année d'études approuvée par le SCEUF n'a pas à refaire une demande d'admission mais il doit informer le Bureau des programmes scolaires de son retour et doit s'occuper de faire transmettre à ce bureau le relevé de ses notes le plus tôt possible.

Anglais comme langue seconde

6. Tous les étudiants qui entrent au Collège Glendon et dont la langue maternelle n'est pas l'anglais doivent, avant même de s'inscrire, passer un test de classement. Chaque année, les étudiants dont la langue maternelle n'est pas l'anglais devraient, avant de choisir leurs cours, avoir un entretien avec le directeur ou le conseiller du Programme d'anglais langue seconde.

Formation générale

7. Pour l'obtention de son diplôme, chaque étudiant du Collège doit avoir réussi l'équivalent d'au moins six crédits dans trois des quatre divisions du programme en éducation générale : humanités, logique, sciences naturelles, sciences sociales. Pour de plus amples renseignements sur ces domaines, veuillez voir la description sous Études pluridisciplinaires.

Baccalauréat ès arts spécialisé

Programme spécialisé

8. i) On peut suivre un programme spécialisé dans une des disciplines suivantes : Économie et commerce, études internationales, études anglaises, études canadiennes, études d'arts dramatiques, études des femmes, études françaises, études hispaniques, études pluridisciplinaires, histoire, mathématiques, philosophie, psychologie, science économique, science politique, sociologie, technologie de l'information et traduction.

ii) La description détaillée du programme spécialisé pour chaque discipline se trouve en tête de la liste des cours offerts par le département intéressé.

Programme spécialisé bidisciplinaire

iii) Les candidats à un baccalauréat ès arts spécialisé peuvent, avec l'assentiment des départements intéressés, répartir leurs études entre deux des matières offertes au Collège. Ces étudiants sont considérés comme candidats au diplôme spécialisé bidisciplinaire et ils sont tenus de suivre au moins 60 crédits dans les deux domaines choisis. Les départements intéressés sont à la disposition des étudiants pour de plus amples renseignements sur les cours exigés ou recommandés pour les différentes combinaisons.

Programme spécialisé général

iv) Les exigences générales dans ce programme ressemblent aux exigences des programmes spécialisés et spécialisés bidisciplinaires, à la différence qu'il suffit d'obtenir un minimum de 36 crédits dans une seule discipline. Pour obtenir plus de renseignements sur les cours exigés dans chaque discipline pour ce type de programme, les étudiants doivent consulter la section décrivant les programmes, au début de la partie traitant des différentes disciplines.

Programme spécialisé avec double majeure

v) Les exigences générales dans ce programme ressemblent aux exigences des programmes spécialisés et spécialisés bidisciplinaires, à la différence qu'il suffit d'obtenir un minimum de 36 crédits dans chacune des deux disciplines. Pour obtenir plus de renseignements sur les cours exigés dans chaque discipline pour ce type de programme, les étudiants doivent consulter la section décrivant les programmes, au début de la partie traitant des différentes disciplines.

Conditions pour l'obtention du baccalauréat spécialisé

9. i) Pour l'obtention d'un baccalauréat spécialisé, un étudiant doit avoir obtenu l'équivalent de 120 crédits et posséder la moyenne cumulative exigée dans ses cours de spécialisation et dans ses autres cours. Un étudiant du programme de spécialisation s'inscrit à une année d'études comme suit :

1ère année	Moins de 24 crédits
2e année	Moins de 54 crédits
3e année	Moins de 84 crédits
4e année	Au moins 84 crédits

ii) Un étudiant qui satisfait aux critères de sélection du département de spécialisation choisi peut demeurer inscrit au programme de baccalauréat spécialisé si sa moyenne cumulative s'établit ainsi à la fin de chaque année :

Année	Moyenne cumulative des cours de spécialisation	Moyenne cumulative
1ère		4.00
2e		4.25
3e	4.50	4.80

Les étudiants qui ont obtenu 84 crédits ou plus et qui désirent poursuivre leurs études dans un programme spécialisé doivent avoir une moyenne cumulative minimum de 5.00 dans leur sujet de spécialisation et également de 5.00 dans l'ensemble de leurs cours.

iii) À la fin d'une session, l'étudiant qui n'a pas obtenu ces résultats peut recevoir la permission du département de sa spécialisation de continuer le programme de baccalauréat spécialisé. Dans le cas contraire, l'étudiant sera reclassé dans un programme de baccalauréat. Aucun étudiant ne peut obtenir un baccalauréat spécialisé si sa moyenne cumulative à la fin de la quatrième année n'atteint pas le niveau requis.

iv) Confirmation des Programmes scolaires : Avant l'inscription, chaque candidat à la 2e, 3e ou 4e année est tenu d'établir son programme scolaire en consultation avec le département offrant la spécialisation de son choix.

v) Un candidat qui n'obtient pas la moyenne cumulative au cours d'un programme de baccalauréat spécialisé peut obtenir la permission de poursuivre un programme de baccalauréat à condition que ses notes soient suffisantes ; sinon il peut soumettre une pétition en vue de classer sa session comme échec et de la faire exclure de la moyenne cumulative. Dans ce cas, il se verra imposer le régime de la probation (voir le règlement 32).

vi) Un candidat qui a réussi sa 3e année d'études dans un programme spécialisé et qui remplit les conditions nécessaires à l'obtention d'un baccalauréat, ou compte les remplir à la fin de la session courante, peut obtenir le BA sur demande auprès du Bureau des programmes scolaires, déposée au plus tard le 31 janvier.

vii) Un candidat qui a obtenu la permission de suivre un programme de baccalauréat (voir le règlement 9 (vi)) peut se présenter à la quatrième année du programme de la ou des spécialisations suivies en troisième année. Après avoir réussi sa quatrième année, il peut demander la reclassification de son diplôme avec spécialisation.

Baccalauréat ès arts

10. Le baccalauréat ès arts exige 90 crédits et comprend normalement trois ans d'études. On offre des programmes de baccalauréat en études anglaises, études canadiennes, études d'arts dramatiques, études des femmes, études françaises, études hispaniques, études pluridisciplinaires, histoire, informatique, mathématiques, philosophie, psychologie, science économique, science politique, sociologie et technologie de l'information. La description détaillée du programme pour chaque discipline se trouve en tête de la liste des cours offerts par le département intéressé.

Conditions pour l'obtention du baccalauréat

11. i) Pour l'obtention d'un baccalauréat, un étudiant doit avoir obtenu l'équivalent de 90 crédits et posséder la moyenne cumulative exigée dans ses cours de spécialisation et dans ses autres cours. Un étudiant du programme s'inscrit à une année d'études comme suit :

1ère année	Moins de 24 crédits
2e année	Moins de 54 crédits
3e année	Au moins 54 crédits

ii) Un étudiant inscrit au programme de baccalauréat doit maintenir une moyenne cumulative comme suit :

Année	Moyenne cumulative des cours de spécialisation	Moyenne cumulative
1ère		3.60
2e		3.80

iii) Un programme de baccalauréat comprend un minimum de 30 crédits dans l'option choisie. (Consultez la liste de cours de chaque discipline pour avoir plus de précisions sur les conditions.)

iv) Confirmation des Programmes scolaires : Avant l'inscription, tout candidat à la 2e ou 3e année doit établir son programme scolaire en accord avec le département offrant l'option de son choix.

v) Changement de programme : Un étudiant en troisième année d'un baccalauréat peut, si ses résultats atteignent la moyenne requise, s'inscrire à un programme de baccalauréat spécialisé. Un étudiant qui a obtenu son baccalauréat peut se faire admettre en quatrième année d'un programme de baccalauréat spécialisé et faire changer la catégorie de son diplôme s'il a atteint la moyenne requise pour la quatrième année.

vi) Les étudiants qui ne satisfont pas aux exigences du BA ou du BA spécialisé pourront suivre jusqu'à 12 crédits supplémentaires au niveau de la troisième ou quatrième année, choisis en accord avec le département de spécialisation, en vue de porter leur moyenne cumulative au niveau exigé pour l'obtention du diplôme.

Nombre de cours exigés pour un second diplôme ou diplôme ultérieur

12. Les étudiants déjà titulaires d'un Baccalauréat ou l'équivalent d'un établissement post-secondaire accrédité et qui désirent obtenir un Baccalauréat dans une autre discipline au Collège universitaire Glendon peuvent être admis au programme de Baccalauréat sous les conditions suivantes :

- Dans tous les cours antérieurement suivis, les étudiants devront avoir obtenu une moyenne de 5 points pour l'admission à un programme de baccalauréat spécialisé, et une moyenne de 4 points pour l'admission à un programme de baccalauréat ;
- Ils doivent satisfaire aux conditions particulières de la faculté (ne pourront être retenus pour satisfaire à ces conditions les cours suivis pour l'obtention du premier diplôme) : au minimum 30 nouveaux crédits doivent provenir de cours suivis à York et au moins 50% des crédits exigés dans la majeure et la mineure doivent provenir de cours suivis à Glendon ;
- Doivent aussi être satisfaites les conditions particulières à la majeure/mineure ;
- Les exigences particulières à la faculté ne constituent qu'un nombre minimum de cours supplémentaires. En effet, si le département n'accorde aucun crédit pour les cours suivis pour l'obtention du premier diplôme, le nombre total des cours requis pourra être sensiblement plus élevé ;

e) Toutes les autres conditions exigées par l'Université sont à remplir, le cas échéant.

Changements de programme

13. Les étudiants peuvent changer leur programme de baccalauréat ou leur option à condition d'avoir les notes requises et l'autorisation du ou des départements intéressés. Ils doivent en aviser le Bureau des programmes scolaires avant le 30 octobre.

Nombre de cours exigés pour un premier diplôme de Baccalauréat

14. Pour recevoir un diplôme de Baccalauréat au Collège universitaire Glendon, un étudiant doit avoir obtenu au moins 30 crédits d'un programme à York et 50% des crédits exigés dans la majeure et la mineure doivent provenir de cours suivis à Glendon.

Octroi d'équivalences

15. i) Les étudiants qui, avant de s'inscrire à Glendon, ont fréquenté un établissement post-secondaire accrédité doivent faire parvenir un bulletin officiel de leur notes directement au Service des admissions de l'Université York. Les cours suivis dans un autre établissement post-secondaire accrédité et auxquels l'étudiant a réussi avec une note de C/60% peuvent être considérés en vue de l'octroi d'équivalences. (Les candidats en provenance d'un Collège d'arts appliqués et de technologie peuvent recevoir des crédits s'ils ont complété deux années d'études avec une moyenne d'au moins 3.00).

ii) Les détenteurs d'un Baccalauréat décerné par un autre établissement post-secondaire accrédité, s'inscrivant à Glendon en vue de l'obtention d'un Baccalauréat spécialisé de York doivent satisfaire aux conditions suivantes : obtenir au moins 30 nouveaux crédits à York ; 50% des crédits exigés dans leur majeure et leur mineure doivent provenir des cours suivis à Glendon. De plus, les étudiants doivent satisfaire à toutes les autres exigences des départements de la majeure/mineure.

iii) Les étudiants inscrits à Glendon en vue de l'obtention d'un Baccalauréat de l'Université York, désireux de suivre un cours ailleurs qu'à York, doivent demander une lettre de permission du Bureau des programmes scolaires.

iv) Les cours suivis dans un établissement post-secondaire accrédité autre que York peuvent être crédités comme des cours réussis, pourvu que l'étudiant ait reçu la note de C/60% ou plus. La note ne sera pas incluse dans sa moyenne cumulative. Les bulletins doivent être soumis au Bureau des programmes scolaires.

v) Les crédits pour les cours suivis dans une autre faculté de l'Université York sont accordés sur la même base qu'à Glendon.

Changement de faculté

Les étudiants désireux d'obtenir des informations sur la manière de changer de faculté devraient prendre contact avec le Bureau des programmes scolaires de la faculté à laquelle ils veulent s'inscrire.

Heures de classe

16. Sauf avis contraire, tout cours comprend trois heures de classe par semaine.

Numérotage des cours

17. i) Les cours de Glendon sont identifiés par le préfixe GL. L'année d'études pour laquelle un cours est conçu est indiquée par le premier chiffre (1,2,3,4). (0 est utilisé uniquement pour les cours élémentaires d'apprentissage de langue.)

ii) Les cours complets sont identifiés par 6.00 après le numéro de cours. Les demi-cours, offerts soit au premier, soit au deuxième trimestre, sont indiqués par 3.00 après le numéro du cours.

Cours interdépartementaux

18. i) Ces cours portent normalement le deuxième chiffre 6 ou 9. Leur description se trouve seulement sous la rubrique du département ou de la division qui les offre.

ii) Un cours de formation générale inscrit aussi sous la rubrique d'un département compte en vue de l'exigence du département en plus de celle de formation générale.

iii) Un cours inscrit sous la rubrique de deux ou plusieurs départements compte en vue de l'exigence d'un seul département.

Exemption d'exigences du programme

19. Un étudiant peut satisfaire aux exigences du programme d'études grâce à des cours réussis pour lesquels il n'a pas obtenu de crédit et qui étaient exclus de son total cumulatif de cours. Une note de D dans un cours de langue (ou un cours requis pour le programme unilingue) suivi à Glendon, ou une note de C dans tout autre cours, ou dans tout cours suivi ailleurs qu'à Glendon, sera suffisante.

Inscription aux cours

20. i) Les étudiants à plein temps s'inscriront à un minimum de 24 crédits et à un maximum de 36 crédits par trimestre, ou l'équivalent, et leur dossier contiendra des notes pour un total de 24 crédits à 36 crédits pour chaque session scolaire.

ii) Les étudiants en probation ne peuvent pas suivre plus de 30 crédits pendant une session. Il ne sera dérogé à ce règlement que par pétition pour des circonstances exceptionnelles.

iii) Les étudiants à temps partiel suivront un maximum de 21 crédits dans une session scolaire.

iv) L'inscription à des cours complets ainsi qu'à des demi-cours est permise jusqu'aux dates limites publiées dans l'horaire des cours. Après ces dates, les inscriptions ne seront autorisées que sur la permission écrite de tous les directeurs des cours et des départements intéressés. L'abandon des cours est autorisé selon le règlement 21.

v) Au moment de l'inscription, tous les étudiants, sauf ceux de première année, doivent choisir un ou plusieurs sujets de spécialisation.

vi) Les étudiants désirant suivre des cours séparés de plus d'une année de leur propre niveau doivent obtenir la permission du département ou de la division offrant le cours.

vii) Les étudiants de première année peuvent être admis aux cours de deuxième année autorisés dans l'annuaire. Pour être admis aux autres cours de deuxième année, les étudiants de première année doivent obtenir la permission du département ou de la division offrant ces cours.

viii) Ces règlements peuvent être annulés quand le département ou la division déclare que la limite d'inscriptions à un cours a été atteinte.

ix) Tous les étudiants qui ont obtenu la permission de s'inscrire à un cours d'un niveau inférieur sont avisés que les critères utilisés pour juger leur travail sont ceux qu'on appliquerait normalement à un cours de leur propre niveau.

x) 1)(a) Les étudiants sont autorisés à se réinscrire une fois à un cours auquel ils ont échoué en vue d'obtenir un crédit pour un diplôme universitaire ou un certificat. Ils sont autorisés à se réinscrire une fois à un cours qu'ils ont réussi en vue d'obtenir un crédit pour un diplôme universitaire ou un certificat, uniquement s'ils n'ont pas obtenu une note suffisante pour suivre un cours de base ou un cours préalable dans un programme conduisant à un diplôme ou à certificat et s'il n'existe aucun autre recours (autre examen de qualification, par exemple). Ils doivent savoir qu'il ne leur sera pas nécessairement possible de se réinscrire à un cours dans la session de leur choix pour des raisons de disponibilité et de place.

(b) Lorsqu'un étudiant est autorisé à se réinscrire à un cours en vue d'obtenir un crédit pour un diplôme universitaire ou un certificat, la seconde note sera celle qui sera enregistrée dans son dossier et la seule qui sera prise en compte dans le calcul de sa note moyenne pondérée (majeure, cumulative, par session et générale). Un cours ne peut être crédité qu'une seule fois pour satisfaire aux conditions d'obtention d'un diplôme universitaire ou d'un certificat.

(c) La mention de la première et de la seconde fois que l'étudiant a suivi un cours figurera sur son relevé de notes, la première portant la mention « aucun crédit ».

(d) Les restrictions relatives à un cours réussi ou échoué s'appliquent également aux cours jumelés et à certains cours incompatibles.

2) Les points précédents ne s'appliquent pas aux programmes pour grades ou diplômes supérieurs, ni aux programmes de baccalauréat en éducation (BEd) de la Faculté des sciences de l'éducation ou de baccalauréat en droit (LLB) de la Faculté de droit Osgoode Hall.

3) La législation ci-dessus prend effet en septembre 2002.

xi) Les cours qui sont offerts sous l'option réussite/échec seulement, et dans lesquels la note "échec" compte pour zéro dans la moyenne, seront identifiés comme cours crédité/cours non crédité.

Abandon de cours

21. Il est possible d'abandonner des cours avant les dates limites sans obtenir de note jusqu'aux dates limites publiées dans l'horaire des cours.

Un étudiant qui abandonne ses cours après les dates limites publiées recevra une note d'échec dans son cours.

Abandon complet

22. i) Un étudiant peut quitter le Collège sans encourir de sanction jusqu'à la date limite indiquée dans l'article 21 du règlement.

ii) Si un étudiant quitte le Collège après la date limite, sans l'autorisation du comité de pétitions, des notes seront inscrites à son dossier. Il sera mis en probation académique et sera tenu de faire une nouvelle demande d'admission s'il désire reprendre ses études au Collège Glendon plus tard.

iii) Un étudiant de première année ou un étudiant en probation qui obtient une moyenne de moins de 3.00 dans deux ou plusieurs cours à la fin du premier trimestre sera tenu de discuter son cas avec un professeur-conseil. Il peut se voir encourager à quitter le Collège.

iv) Dans certains cas, le Collège peut exiger d'un étudiant qu'il quitte le Collège.

Auditeurs libres

ii) Il ne sera pas accordé de crédit à l'auditeur libre. Avant d'assister aux classes, l'auditeur doit obtenir la permission du professeur et aviser le Bureau des programmes scolaires.

Normes scolaires

24. Les étudiants devront obtenir des résultats qui satisfassent aux exigences des départements et divisions intéressés et ils devront passer les examens à moins de maladie ou d'autre circonstance extraordinaire.

Système de notation

25. i) Tous les cours du Collège Glendon sont évalués selon le système suivant :

Lettre	Valeur en points	Pourcentage	Explications
A+	9	90-100	Exceptionnel
A	8	80-89	Excellent
B+	7	75-79	Très bon
B	6	70-74	Bon

E	1	40-49	Échec de peu
F	0	0-39	Échec

P	Option réussite/échec		Pass
F	Option réussite/échec		Échec

ii) Option réussite/échec

Les étudiants peuvent suivre un nombre limité de cours et obtenir des crédits universitaires sous l'option "réussite" ou "échec". Les cours suivis sous cette option figureront sur le bulletin avec la lettre de "P" pour réussite et "F" pour échec. Ces "notes" ne seront pas incluses dans le calcul des moyennes de l'étudiant.

Les règlements suivants s'appliquent aux cours que l'étudiant a l'intention de suivre sous l'option réussite/échec :

Statut universitaire : Seuls les étudiants dont le statut universitaire est en règle, (c.à.d. ceux qui ne sont pas sous le régime de probation, d'avertissement universitaire ou de renvoi) auront la permission de suivre des cours sous l'option réussite/échec.

Condition préalable : Les étudiants doivent avoir déjà réussi à 24 crédits afin de pouvoir faire une demande pour suivre des cours sous l'option réussite/échec.

Cours aux choix seulement : Les cours suivis sous l'option réussite/échec ne pourront pas satisfaire aux exigences de la majeure, de la mineure, des études générales, des certificats ou ne pourront pas être des cours de Sciences au niveau 1000.

Nombre maximum de cours sous l'option réussite/échec :

a) Programme de baccalauréat spécialisé : Les étudiants inscrits dans un programme de baccalauréat spécialisé auront la permission de suivre jusqu'à 12 crédits sous l'option réussite/échec.

b) Programme de baccalauréat : Les étudiants inscrits dans un programme de baccalauréat auront la permission de suivre jusqu'à six crédits sous l'option réussite/échec.

Date limite : Les étudiants qui désirent suivre un cours sous l'option "réussite/échec" doivent signaler leur intention durant les deux premières semaines du trimestre durant lequel le cours commence ; ils doivent d'abord obtenir la signature du Directeur du cours sur le formulaire approprié, disponible au Bureau des programmes scolaires. Ces formulaires doivent parvenir au Bureau des programmes scolaires avant la date limite.

Changement de l'option "réussite/échec" au système de notation en lettre : Avec la permission du Directeur du cours, les étudiants peuvent changer de l'option "réussite/échec" dans un cours au système de notation en lettre jusqu'à la date limite pour abandonner un cours sans pénalité universitaire. Une demande officielle pour un tel changement doit être soumise au Bureau des programmes avant la date limite.

Explications des cotes

26. Définitions des cotes.

Excellent : Connaissance approfondie des concepts ou des techniques, associée à une grande compétence ou originalité dans le maniement de ces concepts et techniques et pour leur utilisation dans les travaux exigés pour le cours.

Très Bon : Connaissance approfondie des concepts ou des techniques et très bonne compétence dans le maniement de ces concepts et de ces techniques et bonne originalité pour leur utilisation dans les travaux exigés pour le cours.

Bon : Bon niveau de connaissance des concepts ou des techniques et bonne compétence pour leur utilisation dans les travaux exigés pour le cours.

Compétent : Niveau acceptable de connaissance des concepts ou des techniques et compétence acceptable pour leur utilisation dans les travaux exigés pour le cours.

À peine compétent : Niveau acceptable de connaissance des concepts ou des techniques ainsi qu'une certaine compétence pour leur utilisation dans les travaux exigés pour le cours.

Suffisant : Quelque peu supérieur à la connaissance minimum exigée des concepts ou des techniques ainsi que certaines compétences pour leur utilisation dans les travaux exigés pour le cours.

À peine suffisant : Connaissance minimum des concepts ou des techniques pour satisfaire aux exigences du cours.

La moyenne cumulative est le total de la valeur en points de tous les cours déjà suivis (échecs inclus), divisé par le nombre de cours. Dans ces calculs, un demi-cours compte pour la moitié d'un cours entier.

La moyenne cumulative des cours de spécialisation est le total de la valeur en points de tous les cours déjà suivis pour la spécialisation (échecs inclus), divisé par le nombre de cours. Par cours de spécialisation, on entend ceux que l'étudiant doit choisir dans un des cinq programmes suivants : (a) le BA spécialisé ; (b) le BA spécialisé bidisciplinaire ; (c) le BA spécialisé général ; (d) le BA spécialisé avec double majeure et (e) le BA.

Les étudiants peuvent obtenir des crédits pour tous les cours réussis à l'université York avec une cote d'au moins D.

La mention d'honneur est accordée à un étudiant dont la moyenne cumulative s'élève à au moins 7.50 points. Tout étudiant qui obtient une moyenne générale cumulative de 7.50 est automatiquement candidat à l'inscription au Tableau d'honneur du doyen.

Notes du premier trimestre

27. Les directeurs de cours sont tenus de soumettre au Bureau des programmes scolaires le nom de tout étudiant dont la moyenne s'élève à moins de 3.00 (D+) si ce dernier se trouve dans un des cas suivants :

- a) en probation (Règlement 32(viii)) ;
- b) en première année (Règlement 22(iii)).

Remise des travaux

28. La date limite pour la remise de travaux dans les demi-cours du premier trimestre est la fin de la période d'examens de Noël. La date limite pour la remise des travaux de tous les autres cours est le vendredi de la première semaine des examens finals à moins que le professeur, après avoir consulté les étudiants, fixe une date plus avancée. Dans les cours où il n'y a pas d'examen final, aucun étudiant ne peut être tenu de remettre son dernier travail avant le premier jour de la période des examens.

Examens

29. i) Les examens finals ont lieu en décembre pour les demi-cours offerts pendant le premier trimestre et en avril-mai pour les demi-cours offerts pendant le deuxième trimestre et pour les cours entiers. Les examens des étudiants qui ont obtenu la permission de les ajourner, pour cause de maladie ou de malchance, auront lieu avant le milieu de mars (dans les cours du trimestre d'automne) et le milieu de juillet (dans les cours du trimestre d'hiver dans les cours complets). Les travaux différés doivent être remis avant le milieu de mars (pour les cours du trimestre d'automne) et le milieu de juillet (pour les cours du trimestre d'hiver) et pour les cours complets. Une première pétition en vue d'obtenir un sursis doit être présentée dans un délai de cinq jours ouvrables après la période des examens pour le trimestre en question. Les règlements de la faculté stipulent qu'aucun test ou examen, comptant pour plus de 20% de la note globale, ne peut être donné durant les deux dernières semaines de cours d'un trimestre, sauf dans les cours dont les classes ont lieu durant la fin de la semaine (samedi ou dimanche à n'importe quelle heure). Les tests et examens prévus durant le trimestre doivent être fixés aux heures régulières du cours ; ces tests ou examens ne peuvent être fixés à d'autres heures qu'à condition qu'aucune obligation d'un étudiant ne soit enfreinte. Un étudiant a le droit de refuser de se présenter à un examen qui contreviendrait à ce règlement, sans encourir de pénalités.

ii) Les départements et les divisions peuvent remplacer les examens finals par une variété de tests écrits et oraux dans les cours qui ne requièrent pas une évaluation au moyen d'un examen final.

iii) Tout travail écrit, y compris les examens, peut être rédigé soit en français, soit en anglais, au choix de l'étudiant, exception faite des cas où l'usage de la langue constitue une part essentielle et intégrante du cours. Les étudiants seront avertis en temps utile de toute clause restrictive que pourrait comporter l'usage de l'une ou l'autre langue.

iv) Les étudiants doivent immédiatement avertir le Bureau des programmes scolaires de tout conflit d'horaire concernant les examens.

Notes finales

30. Toutes les notes finales sont calculées sur la base d'une échelle de valeurs établie par le département ou la division intéressé, avec ou sans examens finals (écrits ou oraux). Peu après le début des classes, les professeurs annonceront aux étudiants l'échelle et le système de notes qui s'appliquent au cours.

Révision des notes finales

ii) Les révisions sont du ressort du directeur du département ou du cours, en consultation avec les membres du corps enseignant. L'étudiant sera avisé des résultats de la révision dans les trois semaines qui suivent sa demande.

Probation scolaire

32. i) Le dossier de tout étudiant est revu à la fin de chaque année d'études.

ii) La probation est imposée à l'étudiant qui : a) est admis avec des notes basses ; b) n'atteint pas la moyenne cumulative requise pour son niveau.

iii) Le régime de probation sera levé quand il aura obtenu la moyenne cumulative requise pour son niveau.

iv) Il peut continuer ses études en probation, dans le programme de baccalauréat, à la condition de maintenir une moyenne de 4,4 dans les cours suivis, même si sa moyenne cumulative est inférieure au minimum nécessaire pour sortir du régime de la probation.

v) De même, il peut continuer ses études en probation dans le programme de baccalauréat spécialisé, à la condition de maintenir une moyenne de 6.00 dans les cours suivis sous ce régime.

vi) Il est renvoyé définitivement s'il ne remplit pas les conditions iii) ou iv) ci-dessus.

vii) Un étudiant qui n'atteint pas la moyenne cumulative requise pour son niveau, et dont la moyenne n'atteint pas 3.00 pour l'année en cours, aura échoué à cette année et ne pourra obtenir de crédits pour aucun des cours suivis pendant cette année. Ses notes figureront dans son dossier mais n'entreront pas dans le calcul de sa moyenne cumulative. S'il veut continuer ses études à Glendon, il doit faire une nouvelle demande d'admission et s'il est accepté il se verra imposer le régime de probation.

viii) Un étudiant qui n'est pas renvoyé peut faire une pétition avant la date limite pour son inscription à la session scolaire suivante en vue de faire classer sa dernière année (ou l'équivalent) selon le règlement 32 (vii), et il sera alors soumis au règlement 32 (iii) ou (iv).

ix) Un étudiant en probation ne peut pas suivre plus de 30 crédits pendant une session scolaire.

x) Un étudiant en probation qui n'atteint pas à la fin du premier trimestre une moyenne de plus de 3.00 (D+) est tenu de discuter son cas avec son conseiller scolaire.

Renvoi

33. i) Un étudiant placé sous le régime de probation sera renvoyé de l'Université s'il ne satisfait pas aux exigences iii) ou iv) du règlement 32.

ii) Un étudiant renvoyé, soit de cette Université, soit d'une autre, ne sera réadmis à une autre session qu'à la condition de démontrer de façon convaincante qu'il pourra tirer profit d'études universitaires. Les demandes de réadmission ne seront pas prises en considération avant deux ans à partir de la date du renvoi.

Dispositions spéciales en cas de maladie ou de malchance

34. Les étudiants qui subissent au cours de la session scolaire des épreuves inattendues les empêchant d'accomplir le travail requis à temps peuvent demander une considération spéciale. Les cas suivants sont reconnus : 1) maladie, 2) malchance personnelle, 3) difficultés financières inattendues, 4) malchance scolaire (impossibilité inattendue d'obtenir le matériel de recherche nécessaire, ou preuve d'une erreur imputable à l'institution). Un étudiant, avec pièces à l'appui, peut présenter une pétition au Bureau des programmes scolaires pour obtenir :

i) l'abandon sans sanction d'un ou plusieurs cours. Normalement, les pétitions en vue d'un abandon d'un cours après la date limite d'abandon seront traitées si elles sont soumises durant les trois semaines suivant l'envoi des notes finales de tout trimestre. De telles pétitions pourraient être traitées jusqu'à un an après la fin du cours dans des cas spéciaux.

ii) la cote différée pour un ou plusieurs cours pour le travail à faire pendant la période couverte par la pétition.

iii) la cote "aegrotat" dans un ou plusieurs cours. La cote "aegrotat" ne sera accordée qu'une fois, en général en dernière année, à moins de cas exceptionnel. Pour tout renseignement concernant les dates limites, veuillez contacter le Bureau des programmes scolaires.

Atteinte à l'honneur universitaire

35. i) Définitions

Veuillez consulter les définitions contenues dans le livret des règlements du Sénat sur l'honneur universitaire. Pour plus de renseignements, contacter le Bureau des programmes scolaires, C102 pavillon York.

ii) Règlements

Veuillez consulter les définitions contenues dans le Règlement du Sénat sur l'honneur universitaire, dans la section "Politiques et règlements."

Remarque : Une fois que les procédures indiquées dans les sections B et D ont été entamées, un étudiant accusé d'atteinte à l'honneur universitaire dans un cours ne peut plus abandonner le cours en question ni faire annuler son inscription tant qu'une décision n'a pas été prise sur son cas. Les demandes de relevé de notes effectuées alors qu'une procédure est en cours seront traitées selon les règlements du Sénat sur l'honneur universitaire. Un étudiant suspendu et qui serait par ailleurs en position de recevoir son diplôme ne pourra pas demander à le recevoir tant que la suspension n'aura pas expiré ou n'aura pas été levée.

A. Si, selon l'avis raisonnable de l'enseignant, le cas peut être réglé sans formalité, l'enseignant et l'étudiant en cause doivent s'entendre sur les mesures adoptées. Dans tous les cas, un document signé du professeur et de l'étudiant, précisant les mesures adoptées pour remédier à la situation et les raisons qui les ont motivées doit être envoyé au Bureau des programmes scolaires. Ce document est strictement confidentiel et ne peut être cité que dans le cas d'une infraction subséquente à l'honneur universitaire et uniquement au moment de décider de la sanction à adopter.

OU

B. Les cas dans lesquels l'enseignant décide qu'il y a matière à allégation de plagiat, de tricherie ou d'une autre forme d'atteinte à l'honneur universitaire seront traités de la façon suivante :

Étape 1

L'enseignant doit fournir au directeur de son département ou programme un résumé écrit donnant tous les renseignements nécessaires sur l'incident ainsi que les pièces pertinentes, soit :

- les documents confisqués, dans les cas de tricherie pendant un examen ;

- le travail incriminé, ainsi que les sources et livres que l'étudiant est soupçonné d'avoir copiés dans les cas de plagiat.

Étape 2

Une fois que l'étape B.1. est enclenchée, l'étudiant ne peut plus abandonner le cours en question ou être enlevé du cours tant qu'une décision n'a pas été rendue sur son cas.

Étape 3

Le directeur du département doit convoquer à une réunion l'étudiant, l'enseignant et le/la principal(e) adjoint(e), recrutement et affaires étudiantes (ou son délégué) qui agit comme tierce partie neutre. Pour ce faire, il passe par le responsable des programmes scolaires qui informe, par lettre recommandée, l'étudiant de la réunion, avec un préavis d'au moins 7 jours civils. Une copie de la lettre est versée dans le dossier scolaire de l'étudiant. La lettre doit indiquer :

- la date, le lieu et l'heure de la réunion,
- le motif de la réunion,
- que l'étudiant peut être accompagné par un délégué à cette réunion.

Étape 4

À la réunion avec l'étudiant, l'enseignant doit :

- présenter l'infraction que l'étudiant est censé avoir commise,
- demander à l'étudiant de répondre à cette allégation.

Étape 5

a. PAS D'INFRACTION

Si, à la suite de la réunion, le directeur et l'enseignant sont convaincus qu'il n'y a pas eu d'infraction à l'honneur universitaire, le directeur informe par écrit l'étudiant de la décision. Toutes les preuves soumises sont alors détruites et aucune mention de l'incident n'est conservée dans le dossier scolaire de l'étudiant.

OU

Si, à la suite de la réunion, le directeur et l'enseignant sont d'avis qu'il y a suffisamment de preuves qu'il y a eu infraction à l'honneur universitaire, le directeur demande à l'étudiant s'il désire plaider coupable ou non coupable.

PLAIDOYER

a. Plaidoyer de culpabilité

Si l'étudiant plaide coupable d'atteinte à l'honneur universitaire :

- le directeur prépare un document qui devra être signé par l'étudiant et l'enseignant, en présence du/de la principal(e) adjoint(e), recrutement et affaires étudiantes (ou de son délégué), indiquant la nature de l'infraction, la sanction acceptée par l'étudiant et l'enseignant (sanction maximale : échec au travail, au test ou à l'examen en cause) et l'aveu de la faute de la part de l'étudiant. [Si l'enseignant désire appliquer une sanction plus sévère, une audience doit être fixée devant le Comité des normes académiques et pédagogiques (CNAP) ; voir en 7. ci-dessous.]

REMARQUES

Les sanctions suivantes peuvent être imposées seules ou combinées, mais seules les sanctions indiquées en a, b, et c peuvent faire l'objet d'une recommandation adoptée conjointement par l'étudiant et le professeur.

- avertissement oral ou écrit ou réprimande ;
- obligation de refaire le devoir ou l'examen ;
- diminution de la note reçue ou note d'échec au devoir ou à l'examen ;
- échec au cours ;
- suspension de l'Université pour une période définie ;
- inscription dans le relevé de notes ;
- non-délivrance ou annulation du diplôme ou certificat de York.

Les sanctions suivantes peuvent être imposées seules ou combinées, mais seules les sanctions indiquées en a, b, et c peuvent faire l'objet d'une recommandation adoptée conjointement par l'étudiant et le professeur.

- Le directeur envoie une copie signée de cette lettre ainsi que des documents indiqués dans B.1. ci-dessus aux deux destinataires suivants :

- CNAP pour examen ;
- Bureau des programmes scolaires pour insertion dans le dossier scolaire de l'étudiant. (N.B. : ce dossier scolaire est pour usage interne seulement.)

Si l'un des partis refuse de signer le document, le CNAP doit convoquer une audience.

b. Plaidoyer de non culpabilité - préparation à l'audience

Une audience doit être fixée si l'étudiant plaide non coupable d'atteinte à l'honneur universitaire, ou si l'enseignant demande une sanction plus sévère que la sanction maximale prévue, à savoir échec au travail, au test ou à l'examen en cause, ou si le CNAP n'approuve pas la recommandation conjointe de sanction. L'enseignant soumet au secrétaire du CNAP un rapport indiquant :

- l'infraction prétendue et les circonstances qui l'entourent
- le compte rendu de la réunion avec l'étudiant
- tous les documents pertinents.

Le secrétaire du CNAP fixe une audience qui se tiendra en présence des membres du comité. L'étudiant doit être informé de l'audience par lettre recommandée avec un préavis d'au moins 21 jours civils et une copie de la lettre de convocation est envoyée au directeur du département, à l'enseignant, au principal et à tous les membres du CNAP. L'étudiant doit également recevoir par écrit le texte de l'accusation, un exemplaire des règlements et procédures en vigueur, copie de tous les documents soumis par l'enseignant. Il doit aussi être informé qu'il peut être accompagné d'un représentant et qu'il peut convoquer des témoins. L'étudiant peut renvoyer une réponse écrite.

AUDIENCE

Une audience doit être tenue en présence du CNAP pour instruire la plainte. Pendant l'audience, le principal (ou son délégué) agit en tant que présentateur. L'audience doit être instruite selon l'ordonnance fixée par le règlement du Sénat sur l'honneur universitaire.

Étape 8

Si l'étudiant est trouvé coupable, le CNAP doit délibérer pour proposer la sanction qu'il juge appropriée.

Étape 9

Le secrétaire du comité doit informer l'étudiant par lettre recommandée de la décision du comité, et, dans le cas d'un verdict de culpabilité, des procédures d'appel. Une copie de la lettre est également envoyée au département concerné et au Bureau des programmes scolaires.

Une mention permanente de l'infraction est inscrite dans le dossier scolaire de l'étudiant. Ce dossier est pour usage scolaire interne seulement.

Étape 10

PROCÉDURES D'APPEL

On peut faire appel de la décision du comité auprès du Comité d'appel du Sénat soit sur la foi de nouvelles preuves (c.-à-d. de preuves qui n'avaient pas pu être présentées au niveau de la faculté), soit pour des raisons d'irrégularité de procédure dans l'examen du cas par la faculté.

Études à temps partiel

Les études à temps partiel conviennent tout particulièrement aux étudiants qui désirent combiner des études universitaires avec un emploi ou des responsabilités d'ordre personnel. Ce genre d'études sert aussi de tremplin pour faciliter la transition à ceux qui ont arrêté leurs études pendant plusieurs années et désirent savoir ce qu'ils peuvent faire à l'université avant de s'engager dans un programme complet.

Un des avantages des études à temps partiel offertes le jour à Glendon réside dans la possibilité de suivre des cours regroupés un seul jour par semaine. Cela permet de passer moins de temps à se déplacer et d'organiser son emploi du temps en fonction des autres engagements en dehors de l'université.

Environ un tiers des étudiants de Glendon sont inscrits comme étudiants à temps partiel et suivent de 6 à 21 crédits par session. Ils ont droit aux mêmes avantages et privilèges que les étudiants à plein temps en ce qui concerne le choix des cours, l'accès aux installations et la participation à la vie du campus, et ils sont soumis aux mêmes règlements.

Exigences académiques pour étudiants libres

Les candidats qui souhaitent s'inscrire à des cours à crédit de premier cycle, mais qui n'ont pas l'intention de préparer le crédit en question, peuvent être admis à l'Université York en tant qu'étudiants libres (pour plus de précisions, voir la partie Admissions de cet Annuaire). Il existe trois catégories d'étudiants libres :

- ceux qui possèdent un diplôme de premier cycle (au minimum baccalauréat de trois ans) dispensé par une université ou un établissement universitaire agréé ;
- ceux et celles qui ne possèdent pas de diplôme de premier cycle mais souhaitent s'inscrire à des cours de l'Université York afin de répondre aux exigences d'une catégorie professionnelle en matière d'études, de recyclage ou de perfectionnement professionnel ;
- ceux et celles qui fréquentent actuellement une université reconnue et souhaitent suivre des cours à York avec une lettre de permission délivrée par leur université.

Moyenne cumulative

Les étudiants des catégories a) et b), dont la moyenne cumulative générale tombe en dessous de 4.00 pour au moins 24 crédits préparés, ne pourront pas s'inscrire en tant qu'étudiants libres à une session ultérieure. Les étudiants qui ne sont pas autorisés à se réinscrire doivent faire une nouvelle demande au Bureau des admissions.

Remarque : Les règlements concernant les cours redoublés ne s'appliquent pas aux étudiants libres, mais uniquement à ceux qui préparent un diplôme ou un certificat universitaire. Tous les cours suivis, de façon complète ou incomplète, compteront donc dans la moyenne cumulative.

Limites de crédits

Les étudiants de la catégorie b) ayant obtenu une moyenne cumulative de 4.00 durant toutes leurs études et qui ont obtenu 30 crédits ne seront pas autorisés à s'inscrire à des sessions ultérieures et doivent soit réactiver leur dossier pour continuer en tant qu'étudiants libres soit choisir de faire une demande d'admission pour préparer un diplôme ou un certificat.

Bibliothèque

La collection de la bibliothèque Leslie Frost compte environ 250,000 monographies, 18,000 abonnements (sur papier ou support électronique) et 20,000 documents gouvernementaux. Cette collection reflète la nature bilingue de Glendon. Au début de chaque trimestre, les nouveaux étudiants sont invités à participer à des cours de formation documentaire dans le but de les familiariser avec l'organisation des ressources de la bibliothèque et de ses règlements. Tout étudiant et professeur du collège a automatiquement accès à la collection entière de York, la troisième plus grande bibliothèque universitaire du pays. Les articles peuvent être transférés d'un campus à l'autre en 24 heures.

Librairie

La librairie est située dans le Pavillon York. Elle vend tous les livres exigés et la plupart des livres recommandés dans les cours. Les livres sont vendus au prix suggéré par la maison d'édition ou de distribution canadienne. Les livres qui ne se trouvent pas en rayon peuvent être commandés spécialement. La librairie vend également de la papeterie et des articles divers. La librairie de Glendon a accès au fonds important de la librairie du campus York.

La Galerie Glendon

La Galerie Glendon est une galerie publique située sur le campus de Glendon. Elle se spécialise dans l'art contemporain et offre un programme d'expositions mensuelles de septembre à mai. Sa mission est d'ordre éducatif. Outre son programme d'expositions, la Galerie Glendon offre de la documentation en français et en anglais, ainsi que des visites guidées et des causeries données par des artistes et des commissaires d'expositions. Pour de plus amples renseignements, s'adresser à la galerie ou téléphoner au 416-487-6859.

Théâtre Glendon

Le Théâtre Glendon, situé dans le pavillon York, est un lieu de représentations théâtrales complètement équipé et qui a son propre équipe de production professionnelle. Le Théâtre présente tout au long de l'année des productions étudiantes ainsi que des pièces de théâtre professionnelles. Pour de plus amples renseignements, s'adresser au théâtre au 416-487-6722.

Résidences

Le Collège Glendon dispose de deux résidences, les résidences Wood et Hilliard qui peuvent loger 401 étudiants dans des chambres simples ou doubles, ou de petites chambres simples meublées. Il y a une grande proportion de chambres simples à la disposition des étudiants de tous les niveaux.

Chaque résidence est divisée en "maisons" de 30 à 45 étudiants. Certaines maisons sont réservées exclusivement aux femmes, d'autres sont mixtes. Il faut noter que tous les services communs d'une maison, y compris les toilettes, sont partagés par tous les résidents.

Il y a de la moquette dans chaque chambre, et le mobilier comprend lit, bureau, commode, penderie, étagères, fauteuils, rideaux et un panier de recyclage. La literie est disponible sur demande à un prix raisonnable. Les étudiants peuvent apporter à leur chambre une touche personnelle en ajoutant affiches, tableaux, plantes vertes, à leur goût. Par manque d'espace d'entreposage, tout le mobilier fourni par l'université doit demeurer dans les chambres. Pour la sécurité des étudiants, il est important de savoir qu'il est interdit de cuisiner dans les chambres, d'y garder un animal, d'avoir un matelas d'eau ou un climatiseur parmi d'autres politiques de résidence.

Il existe dans les résidences des cuisines qui sont à la disposition d'un nombre limité d'étudiants avancés. La majorité des étudiants prennent leur repas à la Cafétéria Glendon, ou au restaurant au pavillon Proctor. Pour plus de détails, veuillez vous référer à la section "Les divers plans-repas". Chaque maison est équipée d'une salle commune avec télévision. Les étudiants ont aussi accès à des aspirateurs, fers à repasser, magnétoscopes, lecteur DVD, équipements de ping-pong et de billard et salle d'études. Chaque chambre de résidence a une ligne téléphonique de York Telecomm, la téléphone est équipé d'une boîte vocale et un service

Les demandes de résidence doivent être faites auprès du Bureau des résidences et affaires étudiantes de Glendon, tél. 416-487-6844. Dans les pavillons résidentiels, une équipe de professionnels incluant les administrateurs, les portiers de nuit et le personnel d'entretien s'efforce d'enrichir l'expérience de vie en résidence alors que dans chaque maison, les Dons agissent comme personnes-ressources et aident à promouvoir un sens de vie communautaire en résidence. Lorsqu'on habite en résidence, on est au centre de la vie sociale, culturelle, sportive et universitaire du campus. L'environnement bilingue permet d'approfondir sa connaissance des deux langues officielles du Canada dans une ambiance amicale et chaleureuse. Toutes suggestions et commentaires sont discutés au Conseil des résidences qui est composé d'étudiants demeurant en résidence.

Il existe également un nombre limité de chambres disponibles aux parents, amis et connaissances pendant l'année scolaire.

Les divers plans-repas

Tous les étudiants qui habitent en résidence doivent souscrire à un plan-repas. Ce plan permet à chaque étudiant de conserver sa propre responsabilité dans le choix de son alimentation en fonction de ses besoins et des plats disponibles.

Les frais de résidence comprennent l'achat d'un plan-repas. Une carte-débit est remise à chaque résident, selon le plan auquel il a souscrit, et peut être utilisée pour acheter de la nourriture et des boissons non alcoolisées dans tous les points de vente de nourriture sous le contrôle de l'université. À Glendon, ces points de vente sont la Cafétéria Glendon, Mr Sub et le restaurant au pavillon Proctor. Le système de carte-débit permet choix et flexibilité, et permet aussi de dépenser la somme qu'on veut pour chaque repas. Toutes les suggestions et commentaires sont discutés au Comité de services de restauration qui est composé d'étudiants demeurant en résidence.

Il est très improbable que le montant du plan-repas inclus dans les frais de résidence suffise à couvrir tous les repas au Collège pendant huit mois, à moins qu'on soit un petit mangeur ou qu'on prenne beaucoup de repas hors du campus. La plupart des étudiants auront donc à compléter leur plan-repas.

Frais de résidence

Les frais de résidence pour l'année scolaire 2008-2009 sont les suivants :

Type de chambre	Double	Petit simple	Simple	Grand simple
Tarif	$4,088	$4,411	$4,689	$4,910

Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle

Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle (CCPOP) offre une vaste gamme de services bilingues de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle. Pour prendre rendez-vous, il suffit de passer au Centre situé dans la salle E103 du manoir Glendon ou de téléphoner au 416-487-6709.

Consultation psychologique : Les étudiants qui s'adressent au CCPOP le font pour toutes sortes de raisons et de problèmes. Parmi les difficultés courantes que connaissent les étudiants à l'université, citons notamment l'éloignement pour la première fois du foyer familial, la pression exercée par le travail, l'établissement de nouvelles relations, et l'incertitude qui plane sur les objectifs et l'identité. Au Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle, les étudiants trouvent des conseillers qui, grâce à leur formation professionnelle, sont capables de les écouter et de les aider à y voir clair. Toutes les questions abordées au Centre sont tenues strictement confidentielles.

Orientation professionnelle : La question du choix de la carrière est un très grand sujet d'inquiétude pour tout un chacun. Certains étudiants peuvent avoir des objectifs très clairs pour leur carrière, mais la majorité ne savent même pas dans quelle direction aller. Le CCPOP organise des séances individuelles ou de groupe axées sur l'orientation professionnelle afin d'aider les étudiants à préciser leurs intérêts, à déterminer leurs compétences et à définir leurs valeurs. On organise aussi des tests portant sur les intérêts qui permettent de planifier sa carrière. Il y a en outre pendant toute l'année des journées d'information sur les professions et des Foires aux emplois.

Programme de groupe : Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle organise des ateliers sur divers sujets, notamment : comment éviter la procrastination, gestion du stress, aptitude à communiquer, prise de confiance, savoir se relaxer, choix de carrière, stratégies de recherche d'emploi, rédaction du C.V. et préparation aux entretiens d'embauche. On a en outre un groupe de soutien pour les étudiants qui ont interrompu leurs études un certain temps.

Aptitude aux études : Les étudiants manquent souvent de méthode rigoureuse pour mener leurs études à bien et ils se sentent alors complètement dépassés. Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle organise tout au long de l'année des ateliers sur les compétences à acquérir pour faire des études, notamment savoir gérer son temps, prendre des notes, lire un manuel ou connaître les stratégies de préparation aux examens. Il est également possible de prendre un rendez-vous personnel avec un conseiller ou une conseillère pour examiner des problèmes particuliers à ce sujet.

Services aux étudiants handicapés : Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle a un programme intégré de soutien pour les étudiants handicapés. Le programme offre de la consultation psychologique dans le domaine personnel, de l'emploi et des aptitudes aux études. Il comprend aussi un programme de tuteurs et des technologies d'adaptation. De concert avec les membres du corps enseignant, le Centre prend les dispositions nécessaires pour les évaluations et les examens.

Centre de plaintes sur le harcèlement sexuel : Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle agit à titre d'intermédiaire avec le Centre d'information et de plaintes sur le harcèlement sexuel situé au campus de Keele.

Programme pour les troubles d'apprentissage : Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle a un programme intégré de soutien et de formation qui s'adresse aux étudiants ayant des troubles d'apprentissage. Le programme offre de la consultation psychologique dans le domaine personnel, de l'emploi et des aptitudes aux études. Il comprend aussi un programme de tuteurs et des technologies d'adaptation. De concert avec les membres du corps enseignant, le Centre prend les dispositions nécessaires pour les évaluations et les examens.

Étudiants ayant un handicap

Le Centre de consultation psychologique et d'orientation professionnelle, 416-487-6709, en collaboration avec le Coordinateur du Centre de York pour les personnes ayant un handicap (416-736-5140), agit à titre de bureau de coordination pour les étudiants de Glendon ayant un handicap. La plupart des bâtiments de Glendon sont accessibles aux personnes handicapées. Il est cependant recommandé aux étudiants ayant un handicap qui souhaitent faire des études à Glendon ou vivre en résidence de se mettre en relation avec les bureaux susmentionnés pour examiner leur situation particulière.

L'Atelier de rédaction universitaire

L'Atelier de rédaction universitaire est un programme gratuit visant à aider les étudiants à améliorer de façon rapide et significative leurs travaux.

Une double série de neuf ateliers d'une heure, en français et en anglais, fait le tour des grands enjeux : comment aborder les travaux universitaires, quelles sont les spécificités de l'argumentation scientifique, comment citer et présenter sa bibliographie, mieux réviser ses travaux, mieux étudier pour ses examens, faire des présentations stimulantes etc. Des références supplémentaires sont suggérées à chaque séance.

Tous les étudiants sont encouragés à participer, qu'ils ou elles écrivent dans leur langue première ou dans leur langue seconde. On peut s'inscrire à toute la série ou seulement à quelques ateliers ; on peut également suivre le même atelier dans les deux langues. Après les séances de groupe, les étudiants peuvent bénéficier de consultations individuelles pour discuter de leurs travaux en chantier.

Pour de plus amples renseignements et pour s'inscrire à des ateliers, voir le site de l'Atelier de rédaction sous « Services scolaires » à la page Mon Glendon.

Sécurité Glendon

Nous assurons la sécurité : Les Services de sécurité, de stationnement et de transport, installés sur le campus, devraient permettre à l'Université York, dans la mesure du possible, d'anticiper les accidents. La composante Sécurité est active 24 heures sur 24, 365 jours par an ; elle compte des postes à temps plein occupés par un personnel administratif et des spécialistes ainsi que des postes à temps partiel occupés par des étudiants de York. Nous faisons en sorte que les campus du Collège Glendon et de l'Université York soient un environnement sûr pour tous ceux qui constituent notre communauté – étudiants, personnel, professeurs et visiteurs. Fondés sur la notion de résolution des problèmes avec les intéressés eux-mêmes, nos services sont assurés par le biais de programmes d'intervention (liaison entre la sécurité et les résidences universitaires, patrouille des campus par le personnel de sécurité) et de systèmes perfectionnés de sécurité (télévision en circuit fermé et prévention de la criminalité par l'aménagement de l'environnement).

Quand et comment appeler la sécurité : Les services de sécurité fonctionnent 24 heures sur 24, 365 jours par an. On peut les appeler, sans frais, au 416-736-5333 de n'importe quel point-téléphone sur les campus.

Faites le 911, puis appelez la Sécurité au poste 33333 ou au 416-736-5333 : Dans une situation d'urgence, il faut également appeler le Centre de contrôle de la sécurité qui accélérera la procédure associée au numéro 911. L'association des étudiants L'Association des étudiants du Collège universitaire Glendon est le porte-parole des étudiants pour les affaires sociales et politiques. Le comité exécutif se compose d'un président, d'un vice-président et de six directeurs (affaires culturelles, affaires bilingues, affaires universitaires, clubs et services, affaires externes, communications) élus en même temps que six conseillers à l'élection du printemps.

Chaque automne, on procède à des élections pour nommer quatre autres conseillers, ainsi que les représentants des étudiants à temps partiel et les représentants des étudiants de première année. L'Association des Anciens de Glendon délègue également un représentant élu.

Les deux principaux objectifs de l'Association des étudiants sont, premièrement, de protéger les intérêts des étudiants en participant aux affaires scolaires et aux affaires étudiantes et, deuxièmement, de promouvoir et de coordonner la participation aux activités culturelles, intellectuelles et sociales (bals, clubs, réunions de cours et conférences). Les trois événements majeurs de l'année sont la semaine d'orientation (début septembre), le banquet de Noël (début décembre), et le carnaval d'hiver (première semaine de février).

N'hésitez pas à nous contacter car, ne l'oublions pas, "solidarité étudiante". Nos bureaux sont situés au 175 pavillon York, face à la cafétéria (tél. 416-487-6720).

Le conseil de la faculté et ses comités (<http://www.glendon.yorku.ca/facultycouncil/>)

Le Conseil de la Faculté est la plus haute instance académique du Collège universitaire Glendon. Il est constitué de représentants des étudiants, des membres du personnel et du corps professoral. Il se réunit régulièrement pour étudier des questions touchant à la direction et à la planification, à la qualité de l'enseignement, aux pétitions des étudiants etc.

La plupart des comités du Conseil sont formés d'un nombre égal de professeurs et d'étudiants : aussi bien le comité chargé d'examiner les pétitions des étudiants que celui qui étudie les dossiers des professeurs pour les questions de promotion et de permanence, ainsi que celui traitant du bilinguisme ou celui revoyant toutes les propositions de cours et de programmes. Les étudiants représentent jusqu'à 15% des membres du Conseil de la faculté. Les élections pour siéger au conseil ont lieu en mars.

Il existe sur le campus une grande variété de groupes, structurés ou non, qui se réunissent pour des activités aussi diverses que la poésie ou les débats politiques. Étudiants, professeurs, employés sont les bienvenus dans ces clubs, ou sont invités à en créer d'autres dans les activités qui les intéressent. L'Association des étudiants du collège (AECG) peut servir de centre de renseignements et de base de support.

Linguistics and Language Studies Program/ Programme de Linguistique et Sciences du Langage

Linguistics is the study of language in general. It is divided into several sub-disciplines, each of which is concerned with a particular aspect of language.

Phonetics is the study of the sound properties of language; phonology studies how sounds pattern to make meaning in specific languages. morphology explores patterning at the word level, while syntax does so at the level of sentence. Semantics is the study of meaning in general, while pragmatics is the study of speaker meaning. Historical linguistics explores the evolution of languages over time, while typology compares and categorizes languages. Sociolinguistics deals with the relationships between language-in-use and social contexts, whether in face-to-face situations or at the macro, societal level. Psycholinguistics explores how first-and second-languages are acquired, and the study of bilingualism includes the study of individuals and contact situations involving two or more languages, such as Glendon College itself.

The Glendon Linguistics and Language Studies program/Programme de Linguistique et Sciences du Langage is a bilingual program which invites students to explore this rich menu of linguistics sub-disciplines. All students must begin with the foundation course – Introduction to Linguistics or Introduction à la linguistique – after which they will choose, according to their LIN degree type, credits from the seven categories of courses which constitute the program's curriculum.

These categories are:

Programme de Linguistique et Sciences du Langage

La linguistique est l'étude scientifique du langage humain. Elle est divisée en plusieurs domaines correspondant chacun à un aspect particulier du langage.

La phonétique étudie les propriétés physiques des sons du langage, alors que la phonologie étudie comment ces sons se combinent dans les différentes langues pour produire des unités à sens. La morphologie explore la forme des mots d'une langue, tandis que la syntaxe s'intéresse aux combinaisons de mots qui aboutissent à la construction des phrases. La sémantique est l'étude du sens en général ; la pragmatique est celle, plus particulière, du sens que les énoncés ont en situation de communication. La linguistique historique explore l'évolution des langues au cours du temps ; la typologie compare les langues entre elles et les classifie. La sociolinguistique s'intéresse aux relations entre langage et société, telles qu'elles se manifestent dans les échanges conversationnels ou dans des contextes sociaux plus larges. La psycholinguistique étudie, entre autres, la façon dont on acquiert une langue - maternelle, seconde ou étrangère. Quant à l'étude de bilinguisme, elle concerne les locuteurs parlant deux ou plusieurs langues ainsi que les diverses situations de contact entre les langues, telles que celles qu'on rencontre quotidiennement au Collège Glendon.

Le Programme de linguistique et sciences du langage de Glendon est un programme bilingue qui offre des cours dans tous les domaines décrits ci-dessus. Les étudiants doivent commencer par suivre le cours de base, à savoir Introduction à la linguistique ou Introduction to Linguistics - à la suite duquel ils sont libres de choisir, dans les sept catégories qui constituent le programme d'études, les cours nécessaires à l'obtention du diplôme de linguistique qu'ils ont choisi.

Ces catégories de cours sont les suivantes :

- I. Introduction à la linguistique
- II. Phonétique/Phonologie
- III. Morphologie/Syntaxe

- IV. Études portant sur la signification
- V. Linguistique historique et typologie
- VI. Langues et sociétés/Acquisition des langues

Multidisciplinary Studies and General Education/Études pluridisciplinaires et formation générale

Multidisciplinary Studies

The Department of Multidisciplinary Studies enables students to pursue degree programs that go beyond traditional departmental disciplinary boundaries. Students who major or minor in multidisciplinary studies may (in consultation with the department Chair) construct programs of their own that draw on the courses and resources of the various departments of the college (including, of course, multidisciplinary studies itself). Some of the most successful areas of concentration in recent years have been comparative literature, medieval and Renaissance studies, religious studies, social and political thought, 19th century studies, and language and society. In addition to these wholly individualized programs, the department currently offers one formalized program of study: Environmental and Health Studies.

For detailed descriptions and specific program requirements, students must consult the departmental brochure available in the Multidisciplinary Studies Office, 162 York Hall. The Department of Multidisciplinary Studies also houses the four divisions of general education:

- humanities
- modes of reasoning
- natural science
- social science

Humanities courses generally combine the subject matter and/or methodologies of at least two of the "humane" disciplines taught at Glendon: literature, philosophy and history; social science courses do the same for the "social sciences": economics, linguistics, psychology, sociology and also history. Natural science courses draw from the physical and biological sciences; our courses often demonstrate the interrelationship of science and other disciplines, and some of them focus specifically on the history or philosophy or social context of science. Modes of reasoning focuses principally on the forms of reasoning and inquiry, on deductive and inductive logic. It invites reflection on these forms of thought and investigates their interconnections.

The Department of Multidisciplinary Studies offers students the opportunity to engage their intellectual curiosity by drawing upon a variety of academic resources. It is worth noting that one does not create a multidisciplinary approach merely by juxtaposing individual courses from two or more disciplines. Rather, what is sought is a true integration or synthesis of methodologies and knowledge from separate academic areas to create a program which is at once critical and innovative.

Core courses are defined in the department's programs of study brochure.

Specialized Honours BA Program

For a Specialized Honours BA in multidisciplinary studies, students must complete 48 credits, including:

- 24 credits of core courses;
- 24 credits at 3000 or 4000 level.

- 18 credits of core courses;
- 18 at 3000 or 4000 level.

Honours Double Major BA Program

For an Honours Double Major BA in multidisciplinary studies, students must complete 36 credits, including:

- 18 of core courses;
- 18 credits at 3000 or 4000 level.

Candidates must check the calendar for the requirements of the other discipline in which they wish to major.

Students must complete 36 credits in multidisciplinary studies, including:

- 18 credits of core courses;
- 18 at 3000 or 4000 level.

Études pluridisciplinaires

Les étudiants qui font une majeure ou une mineure en Études pluridisciplinaires peuvent (après avoir consulté le directeur du département) proposer un programme de leur choix qui combine des cours et des ressources offerts par les différents départements du collège (y compris bien sûr le département d'Études pluridisciplinaires). Au cours des dernières années, des programmes en littérature comparée, études médiévales et de la Renaissance, études religieuses et pensée politique et sociale ont été populaires auprès des étudiants. En plus de ces programmes personnalisés, le département offre un programme spécifique de spécialisation : Études de l'environnement et de la santé.

Les étudiants intéressés, désireux d'obtenir des précisions sur les exigences et les descriptions de ces programmes peuvent consulter la brochure du département, disponible au secrétariat : bureau 162, pavillon York.

Le département d'Études pluridisciplinaires abrite également les quatre divisions qui composent le programme d'Études générales :

- humanités
- logique
- sciences naturelles
- sciences sociales

Les cours d'humanités en général combinent l'objet d'étude et/ou la méthodologie d'au moins deux des disciplines humaines enseignées à Glendon : littérature, philosophie et histoire; les cours de sciences sociales font de même dans le domaine des "sciences de la société" : science économique, linguistique, psychologie, sociologie et également histoire. Les cours de sciences naturelles font appel aux sciences physiques et biologiques. Nos cours mettent souvent en valeur les liens qui unissent la science et les autres disciplines, et certains s'attachent plus particulièrement à explorer l'histoire, la philosophie ou le contexte social de la science. La logique étudie principalement les formes du raisonnement et de la recherche, ainsi que la logique déductive et inductive. Elle invite à réfléchir sur ces formes de pensée et explore leurs rapports.

Le Département d'études pluridisciplinaires permet aux étudiants de satisfaire leur curiosité intellectuelle en abordant des domaines très divers. Il faut toutefois remarquer que l'approche pluridisciplinaire ne consiste pas à juxtaposer des cours relevant de disciplines différentes, bien au contraire : elle vise à intégrer – ou à effectuer une synthèse – des méthodologies et des connaissances appartenant à divers domaines d'investigation de façon à créer un programme qui soit à la fois critique et innovateur.

Les cours de base sont indiqués dans le mini-annuaire du département.

General Certificate in Law and Social Thought

The Philosophy Department offers a Certificate in Law and Social Thought.

This program places the study of law in the context of a liberal arts education; that is, the law will be studied within both a humanities and a social science context. Some course offerings emphasize the moral and philosophical dimensions that inform legal life and link the study of law with social and political thought. Others focus on legal institutions: how they yield regulation and socially sanctioned force, how they interact with society.

Program Requirements

There are two required courses for the certificate:

GL/PHIL 2923 3.00
GL/PHIL 2925 3.00

In order to receive the certificate, candidates must be registered simultaneously in a degree program at York University and present a cumulative grade point average of 4.00 (C) on the courses taken to satisfy the requirements of the certificate. 24 credits must be taken at York University to obtain the certificate.

To enrol in the Certificate in Law and Social Thought, please register at the Office of Student Programs, Glendon, C102 York Hall, telephone 416-487-6715.

Certificat général en droit et pensée sociale

Le Département de philosophie est heureux d'offrir un Certificat en Droit et pensée sociale.

Ce programme aborde l'étude du droit dans le contexte d'une formation en arts libéraux, et plus précisément en sciences humaines et sociales. Les cours du programme abordent le droit sous son angle évolutif, angle sous lequel l'argumentation morale, les pratiques d'interprétation qui lui sont spécifiques et l'emploi de la force contribuent à l'organisation de la vie en société. Certains cours mettent l'accent sur les dimensions morale et philosophique qui sous-tendent le droit et lient son étude à la pensée politique et sociale. D'autres s'intéressent aux institutions légales : à leur façon d'élaborer la réglementation et à donner lieu à l'usage sanctionné de la force, ainsi qu'aux modes de leur interaction dans la société.

Translation/Traduction

Translation Degree

The School of Translation offers an Honours BA in translation in collaboration with other departments in the College (Études françaises, English, Hispanic studies). The bachelor of arts program trains translators toward either English or French as the target language. The degree will therefore bear either an English or français specialization according to the student's first language. Both specializations may be awarded to a qualified student under rare conditions. Both full-time and part-time students are welcome in the program.

The prerequisite for admission to the school is a minimum of one full year of university studies. The program itself normally consists of an additional 90 credits of which 60 are required courses: a total of 120 credits for the degree.

The purpose of the 60 required credits is to improve written performance in the student's target language (first language) and competence in the source language (second language). They are designed to familiarize the student with the practical problems of translation and the range of reference works available, as well as to provide training in translation procedures.

The 30 remaining credits are college requirements and free electives which the student should choose in consultation with the director of the school in order to acquire as much personal and professional experience as possible from the wide range of bilingual courses available.

Every student should consider the advantages of taking a minor subject, especially in a field which may be useful for a translation career such as Hispanic studies, economics, the social sciences or computer science.

Conditions of Admission

The School of Translation accepts only a limited number of students. Admission is based on the following criteria:

Diplôme et mentions

L'École de traduction, en collaboration avec d'autres départements du Collège (Études françaises, Études hispaniques, English), offre un BA spécialisé en traduction. Conçu pour former des traducteurs vers le français et vers l'anglais, ce diplôme est soumis aux règlements généraux du Collège et de l'Université et portera la mention "English" ou "français" suivant la langue première de l'étudiant. Le cumul des deux mentions sera possible quoique rare. On peut être admis à titre d'étudiant à plein temps ou d'étudiant à temps partiel.

Le programme comporte trois années de spécialisation après une première année d'études universitaires générale : soit 90 crédits en plus des 30 crédits normalement crédités au terme de la première année, pour un total de 120 crédits. Sur les 90 crédits suivis pendant ces trois années, 60 crédits sont obligatoires.

Ces cours obligatoires visent, avant tout, à améliorer la performance écrite en langue d'arrivée (langue première) et la compétence en langue de départ. Ils visent aussi à familiariser l'étudiant avec les problèmes pratiques de la traduction, à lui faire connaître et utiliser les ouvrages de référence indispensables, à lui apprendre à bien se documenter et à travailler avec méthode.

Les 30 crédits restants sont des cours requis par le Collège ou des cours facultatifs à choisir en consultation avec le conseiller ou la conseillère pédagogique de manière à ce que l'étudiant puisse, selon ses goûts et ses projets, tirer le meilleur parti des ressources de notre Collège bilingue.

L'attention de tout étudiant est particulièrement attirée sur le fait qu'un sujet mineur, surtout dans un domaine qui offre un débouché sur le marché de la traduction (Espagnol, Sciences économiques, Sciences sociales, Informatique) lui est vivement conseillé.

Conditions d'admission

General Certificate in Work and Study/ Certificat général en travail et études

The Work and Study program provides students with the opportunity to obtain a General Certificate in Work and Study and a bachelor's degree simultaneously. It gives them the opportunity to gain workplace experience, allowing them to choose a work placement according to their individual aspirations and aptitudes.

Working with a traditionally bilingual liberal arts institution, the General Certificate in Work and Study is unique, both in its objectives and in its structure. Work and study does not aim to introduce students to a specific discipline. Focusing on changes in the working world and providing students with the opportunity for unique professional experience, the program is designed to complement or even provide a new dimension to the student's undergraduate study program.

The General Certificate in Work and Study requires 24 credits, 15 of which are offered within the program and nine of which are offered by other programs and departments of Glendon and recognized by the program.

Students enrolled in the Work and Study program may only receive their certificate on the condition that they complete the requirements for their bachelor's degree.

Admission Requirements

To be eligible for admission to the work and study, students must be enrolled in a degree program at York University and must:

- have completed 24 credits or the equivalent;
- have achieved Honours standing;
- apply for admission to the program.

Students who have already obtained a BA from York University or from another university, with a 5.00 (C+) average, may also apply for admission to the program. To obtain their certificate, these students will be required to take the 15 credits offered by the program.

To remain in the Work and Study program and to be eligible for the certificate, students must maintain an average of 5.00 (C+) as is required for Honours standing.

Le programme Travail et études offre à des étudiants, engagés dans des études de baccalauréat, la possibilité de mener, simultanément, des études pour l'obtention du Certificat général en travail et études. Il les invite à vivre une expérience de travail, tenant compte de leurs aspirations et aptitudes, dans une activité de leur choix.

Issu d'un milieu universitaire de tradition bilingue voué à l'enseignement des lettres et des sciences humaines, le Certificat général en travail et études est unique de par sa nature et ses intentions. Il n'a pas à initier des étudiants à une discipline précise mais, en mettant l'accent sur les mutations du monde du travail et en leur permettant de vivre une expérience professionnelle unique, il entend ainsi leur offrir un complément, voire une nouvelle dimension d'une formation déjà en cours.

Le Certificat général en travail et études comprend 24 crédits dont 15 sont pris à l'intérieur du programme et neuf parmi des cours retenus par le programme et offerts au sein de différents départements et programmes du Collège universitaire Glendon.

Les étudiants inscrits au programme Travail et études ne pourront recevoir leur Certificat que s'ils ont rempli toutes les conditions nécessaires à l'obtention de leur Baccalauréat.

Conditions d'admission

Pour être admissibles au Certificat général en travail et études, les étudiants doivent être inscrits dans un programme de BA à l'Université York et doivent :

- (i) avoir obtenu 24 crédits ou l'équivalent ;
- (ii) avoir obtenu la moyenne exigée pour le BA spécialisé ;
- (iii) faire la demande d'admission au programme.

Les détenteurs d'un baccalauréat de l'Université York ou d'une autre institution universitaire, qui ont obtenu une moyenne de 5.00 (C+), peuvent être considérés comme candidats admissibles au programme. Pour l'obtention du Certificat, ces étudiants sont tenus d'obtenir les 15 crédits de cours offerts à l'intérieur du programme.

Exigences du Programme

Les étudiants inscrits au Programme travail et études doivent obtenir l'équivalent de 24 crédits, y compris GL/WKST 2500 3.00, GL/WKST 2510 3.00, GL/WKST 3200 6.00, GL/WKST 3205 3.00 et neuf crédits choisis en consultation avec le coordonnateur du programme dans la liste ci-dessous.

School of Women's Studies/École des études des femmes

Women's Studies

Women's studies is both a complement and a corrective to established fields at York and a new academic discipline of its own. Until recently, both the humanities and the social sciences reflected predominantly male perspectives. Women have been largely invisible in literature, art, history, philosophy, politics, social sciences and law. Through cross-cultural and disciplinary assessment, women's studies exposes misconceptions about women expressed through myth, ideologies, teachings and writings. It replaces negative cultural images of women with visions that reaffirm women's strength, capability and intelligence.

The School of Women's Studies unites academic resources at York University in women's studies, bringing together the undergraduate and graduate programs, the non-credit Bridging program and the Centre for Feminist Research/Le centre de recherches féministes à York.

A feature which distinguishes the Glendon Women's Studies program from the other two undergraduate programs offered at York is its bilingual focus. Non-parallel courses are offered in both languages. As a result, a genuine dialogue develops between the approaches of anglophones and francophones to theory, philosophy, literature, legal structures and language.

Overall, 12 women's studies credits must be taken at the 4000 level.

Études des femmes

Les Études des femmes, qui sont à la fois un complément et un prolongement des domaines établis à York, n'en constituent pas moins une nouvelle discipline universitaire en soi. Tout récemment encore, les humanités et les sciences sociales reflétaient surtout le point de vue masculin. Les femmes sont quasiment absentes de la littérature, des arts, de l'histoire, de la philosophie, de la politique, des sciences sociales et du droit. Les Études des femmes se fondent sur l'évaluation interculturelle et interdisciplinaire pour exposer les idées fausses sur les femmes qui sont véhiculées dans les mythes, les idéologies, l'enseignement et les écrits. Les stéréotypes culturels négatifs sont remplacés par des points de vue qui réaffirment la force, la vitalité et l'intelligence des femmes.

L'École des études des femmes regroupe les programmes de premier, deuxième et troisième cycles, le programme de mise à niveau non crédité, et le Centre de recherches féministes.

Le programme de Glendon se distingue par son caractère bilingue. Des cours différents sont offerts dans les deux langues et abordent les réalités propres aux anglophones et aux francophones, de sorte qu'il est possible de comparer leurs analyses respectives de la théorie, de la philosophie, de la littérature, des structures juridiques et de la langue.

General Information

The Faculty offers a range of perspectives on health drawn from natural science, social science, nursing, humanities, management and administration. The Faculty's vision is driven by the following principals and goals:

- to promote York's expertise in teaching, research, and practice in health by bringing it together in one Faculty;
- to foster the development of new academic programs in health at York that capitalize on existing strengths among faculty members across the University; and,
- to create an academic environment and culture that will support the continual development of novel, innovative and multidisciplinary approaches to health and health care.

This multi-disciplinary approach creates opportunities to explore a wide variety of health issues ranging from public policy decisions to the search for better clinical interventions.

A variety of methods for studying health and social phenomena is used in the Faculty, ranging from experimental and epidemiological techniques to clinical case studies, oral histories and ethnographic observation. Research focuses not only on hospitals and clinics but communities, homes, farms, schools, factories and the global economic environment.

Academic Advising and Student Responsibility

The Faculty of Health considers academic advising an important responsibility. The term academic advising covers a number of complementary functions related to assisting students, such as:

- selecting courses;
- ascertaining whether students are meeting academic regulations;
- planning for students' academic future both before and after graduation.

These functions may vary in their significance to students at different times of the academic year and at different points in students' academic careers.

Advising students is a shared responsibility between Faculty of Health schools and departments and the Office of Student and Academic Services. Students should contact these offices throughout the year for advice and information related to their academic career including academic performance, degree programs and requirements.

Student Responsibility

Every effort is made to ensure that students in the Faculty of Health have access to sound information and individual advice and guidance. Within this context, and within the framework of Faculty and program regulations, students are responsible for making choices regarding courses and programs. Students should take special care to:

- ensure the courses they choose meet all requirements for graduation;
- ensure the courses they choose meet prerequisites and are not exclusions or equivalents of other courses already taken;
- ensure the times of the courses they choose do not conflict with other courses;
- ensure the accuracy of their registration records, including all changes;
- note and observe deadlines and procedures, especially deadlines for adding and dropping courses;
- keep informed about their academic progress, including performance in individual courses;
- ensure full documentation is provided in support of petitions and other requests for special consideration.

Academic Honesty and Integrity

Academic Honesty

A central purpose of the University is to teach students to think independently and critically. Cheating and other forms of academic dishonesty run counter to this purpose and violate the ethical and intellectual principles of the University; they are therefore subject to severe penalties. For more information, refer to the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty (see University Policies and Regulations section of this calendar or <http://www.yorku.ca/secretariat/policies/>).

Academic Integrity

Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves about issues of academic integrity, positive strategies to improve academic efforts and avoid committing an academic offence. An academic integrity tutorial, including a self-test are located at the following URL: http://www.yorku.ca/tutorial/academic_integrity/.

Rules and Regulations

Course Loads

The following course loads apply to students in the Faculty of Health. In certain circumstances the Faculty may set other limits.

Fall/Winter Session

The normal course load for students in the fall/winter session is 30 credits. Students with substantial familial or financial responsibilities outside the University are advised to consider taking fewer courses in a session. Students may take a maximum of 36 credits overall (and 18 credits per term) without petitioning.

Summer Session

During the summer session, students may take a maximum of 15 credits. Students with substantial familial or financial responsibilities outside the University are advised to consider taking fewer courses in a session.

Residence Requirement and In-Faculty Courses

While allowing students to take a certain number of courses at other universities and in other Faculties of York University, in order to meet the residence requirement, the Faculty of Health requires that students complete a portion of their courses as follows:

- (a) At least 30 credits must be taken at York University;
- (b) At least half (50 per cent) of the requirements in each Faculty of Health major or minor must be taken in the Faculty of Health.

In addition, any departmental/school requirements for the major/minor must be satisfied.

Note: Courses taken to satisfy (b) will also satisfy (a). In some cases, satisfying (b) will automatically satisfy (a). In-Faculty courses are defined as those with an "HH" prefix.

Coregistration in the Faculty of Education:

Students enrolled in the bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degrees offered by the Faculty of Health may apply for admission to the Pre-Service Concurrent program of the Faculty of Education. If they are accepted, they may coregister in the Faculty of Education and upon successful completion of the separate degree requirements of both Faculties will be awarded two degrees:

- Honours bachelor of arts (BA) and a bachelor of education (BEEd) or
- bachelor of arts (BA) and bachelor of education (BEEd) or
- Honours bachelor of science (BSc) and a bachelor of education (BEEd) or
- bachelor of science (BSc) and a bachelor of education (BEEd).

Although the health and education courses are taken concurrently, they are counted separately by each Faculty. Grade point averages for courses in the two Faculties are also calculated separately. Thus, the 30 credits required for the BEEd are independent of the 120 credits required for an Honours BA or BSc, or the 90 credits required for the BA or BSc. Therefore, a student completing the requirements for both degrees would complete a total of 150 credits for the Honours BA/BEEd or Honours BSc/BEEd or 120 credits for the BA/BEEd or BSc/BEEd.

Letters of Permission

Letters of permission allow Faculty of Health students to receive credit at York for courses taken at other universities. In order to receive credit for such courses, a letter of permission must be obtained prior to enrolling. Application forms for letters of permission are available at Student Client Services or from the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>).

Courses which students propose to take on a letter of permission must be acceptable to the Faculty of Health teaching unit best able to judge their academic merit. The Faculty is under no obligation to accept courses taken without its permission.

Students must be in good academic standing to be eligible for a letter of permission; students on academic warning, debarment warning, or academic probation are not eligible.

In order to receive credit for courses taken on a letter of permission, students must arrange for the host institution to submit an official transcript to the Registrar's Office. A minimum grade of C as understood at York University is required for credit to be granted. Grades earned in courses taken at other postsecondary institutions are not part of the student's York transcript and are not incorporated into the student's grade point average in the Faculty of Health.

Several formal programs exist for students to pursue study at universities in other countries. Where formal programs do not exist, and academic and personal circumstances warrant, individual arrangements may be made. For further information contact York International.

Academic Standing

Academic standing depends on several factors which include the number of credits a student has passed, the grade point average achieved during a particular session (sessional grade point average), or the overall grade point average (cumulative grade point average).

Year Level and Student Progress

Students progress toward a degree in the Faculty of Health is measured in terms of the number of credits passed (or earned) rather than years of study completed. The year level includes transfer credit. Year four applies to students in honours programs only.

Year Level	Credits Completed
One	Fewer than 24 credits
Two	Fewer than 54 credits
Three	Fewer than 84 credits
Four	At least 84 credits

Faculty of Education courses taken by students coregistered in the Faculty of Education are not included in Faculty of Health year levels.

Honours Standing Grade Point Average Requirement

Students who have completed less than 84 earned credits whose cumulative grade point average is below 5.00, may continue in a Faculty of Health Honours degree program provided you meet the year level progression requirements as follows:

Year 1	0-23 earned credits	Minimum cumulative grade point average 4.00
Year 2	24-53 earned credits	Minimum cumulative grade point average 4.25
Year 3	54-83 earned credits	Minimum cumulative grade point average 4.80
Year 4	84 earned credits or greater	Minimum cumulative grade point average 5.00

Limited Additional Credits

Students in a bachelor program who have passed 90 credits in accordance with Faculty and program requirements, but whose cumulative grade point average is below 4.00 may attempt to raise their average to 4.00 by taking up to 12 additional credits, to a maximum of 102 credits. These courses must be above the 1000 level and must be taken at York University.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing Honours (BScN Honours) Degree (120 Credits)

Continuing BScN students. Students who have completed less than 120 credits and maintain a cumulative grade point average of at least 5.00 may proceed in Honours.

Students at the point of completing 120 credits who have at least a cumulative grade point average of 5.00 and have a minimum grade of C (4.00) in all courses used in the major may apply to graduate or continue in the BScN Honours if requirements are not met.

Entry/re-entry. Students who attain the 5.00 cumulative grade point average prior to completion of 90 credits and have fulfilled the entry requirements may apply for entry/re-entry to the program. Students who have not attained the 5.00 cumulative grade point average at the point of completing 90 credits, will be ineligible for the program. No extra courses may be taken in a subsequent session in an effort to raise the grade point average. All requests for re-entry to the BScN are subject to School of Nursing approval. Some programs may have limited entry. Students may submit a change of degree request to enter/re-enter the program to the Faculty of Health Academic Services Centre. All students who enter/re-enter the BScN program must follow the requirements of the program in place at the time of entry/re-entry.

Faculty transfers. Students from other Faculties may submit a Faculty transfer request to enter the program to Student Client Services.

Failure to maintain academic standing. Advising recommended. Please refer to the Academic Penalties section which contains information on program warning, program warning conditions, required withdrawal, reactivation after required withdrawal, debarment warning, and debarment warning conditions.

Academic Standing Requirements for Visiting Students

Individuals who wish to enrol in undergraduate credit courses, but who do not intend to complete a degree or a certificate may be admitted to York as a Visiting Student (see the Admissions section of this calendar for more information). There are three categories of visiting students:

- those who hold an undergraduate degree (three-year bachelor's degree minimum) from an accredited university/university-level institution;
- those who do not hold an undergraduate degree but wish to enrol in York courses to fulfill the academic, upgrading or professional development requirements of a professional designation;
- those who are currently attending another recognized university and wish to take York courses on a letter of permission issued by their home institution.

Grade Point Average (GPA) Requirement

Students in categories a) and b) whose overall cumulative grade point average (OCGPA) falls below 4.00 on at least 24 credits attempted will not be allowed to enrol in any subsequent session as visiting students. Students who are not permitted to re-enrol must apply for re-admission through the Admissions Office.

Note: Repeated course legislation does not apply to visiting students but only to academic degrees and certificates. Therefore, all courses attempted or taken will count in the OCGPA.

Credit Limits

Students in category b) who have maintained an OCGPA of 4.00 throughout their studies and who have completed 30 credits will not be allowed to enrol in subsequent sessions and must either reactivate to proceed as visiting students or may choose to apply for admission to a degree or certificate program.

Academic Penalties

Students whose academic record does not meet Faculty or program standards are subject to the academic penalties of academic warning, required withdrawal, debarment warning, debarment and academic probation.

Academic Warning

Students whose cumulative grade point average falls below 4.00 at the end of any session, or who enter the Faculty with a grade point average equivalent to less than 4.00 on the York scale, receive an academic warning. Students on academic warning must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 within the next 24 credits taken, or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 in the session in which that 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative grade point average reaches 4.00, or be required to withdraw. Students whose cumulative grade point average on at least 24 credits is below 2.50 will be required to withdraw.

Required Withdrawal

Students whose academic record shows marked weakness may be required to withdraw from their studies for one year, during which they are encouraged to identify and remedy any problems which may have contributed materially to their failure to perform up to their potential, and to reflect on their reasons for pursuing a university education. The following regulations apply to required withdrawals.

Grade point average below 2.50: Students whose cumulative grade point average on at least 24 York credits is below 2.50 must withdraw for 12 months.

Grade point average below 4.00 and equal to or greater than 2.50: Students who have received an academic warning for a cumulative grade point average below 4.00 must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 within their next 24 credits taken or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 in the session in which that 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative grade point average reaches 4.00; otherwise, they must withdraw for 12 months. Should the student's cumulative grade point average fall below 2.50 at any time after completion of 24 York credits, they will be required to withdraw for 12 months.

Petition to continue without interruption: Students who have been required to withdraw may submit a petition to the Faculty of Health Petitions Committee requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. Students granted such a petition will be allowed to continue their studies on debarment warning.

Reactivation after required withdrawal: Students who have been required to withdraw must apply for reactivation after the requisite period of absence by submitting a reactivation form to Student Client Services. The form is available on the Web at <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca>. Students who return to their studies after such a required withdrawal (as well as those who have been allowed to continue their studies by virtue of a petition to the Committee on Petitions) receive a debarment warning.

Debarment Warning

Students who have been required to withdraw from the Faculty of Health, or from another Faculty at York, or elsewhere receive a debarment warning upon continuing their studies in the Faculty. Students on debarment warning must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 within the next 24 credits taken or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 in the session in which that 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative grade point average reaches 4.00, and must then maintain this average. Students who do not fulfill these conditions will be debarred from the University.

Debarment

Students who fail to meet the debarment warning conditions outlined above will be debarred from the University. Debarment, the minimum period for which is normally two years, means that the student is no longer a student at York University.

Petition to continue without interruption: Students who have been debarred may submit a petition to the Faculty of Health Petitions Committee requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. Students granted such a petition will be allowed to continue their studies on academic probation.

Reapplying after debarment: Students who have been debarred and who wish to resume their studies must apply for admission through the Admissions Office, <http://www.yorku.ca/admissions>, and must provide persuasive evidence that they are ready and able to complete a degree program. Students who are re-admitted (as well as those who have been allowed to continue their studies by virtue of a petition to the Petitions Committee) receive an academic probation.

Academic Probation

Students who have been debarred and who subsequently resume their studies in the Faculty of Health, whether by petitioning to continue without interruption or by reapplying for admission, receive an academic probation. Students on academic probation must meet the debarment warning conditions outlined above; otherwise, they will be debarred again.

Honours Bachelor of Science in Nursing - Honours BScN (All Streams)

Program warning for Honours BScN: BScN students who have completed less than 120 credits will be placed on a program warning if the cumulative grade point average is at least 4.00 but is below 5.00.

Students may continue in BScN providing they meet the program warning conditions outlined below.

Program warning conditions for BScN: BScN students on program warning, within the next 24 credits taken, must have both a cumulative grade point average of at least 5.00. At no time may the cumulative grade point average fall below 4.00. At no time may the cumulative grade point average fall below 2.50 upon completion of at least 24 York credits.

Upon completion of 120 credits BScN students who do not have cumulative grade point average of at least 5.00 including a minimum grade of C (4.00) in all courses used in the major will be ineligible to proceed in the program or graduate.

Failure to meet the above program warning conditions: Students whose cumulative grade point average on at least 24 York credits is below 2.50 must withdraw for 12 months (required withdrawal).

Students who do not meet the program warning conditions for their program as listed above will not be eligible to continue in the program and must declare a new degree program to be eligible to continue with their studies.

Students with less than a 4.00 cumulative grade point average who have completed less than 90 credits must declare a new degree program and will proceed in the new degree program on academic warning.

Required Withdrawal

Students whose academic record shows marked weakness may be required to withdraw from their studies for 12 months, during which they are encouraged to identify and remedy any problems which may have contributed materially to their failure to perform up to their potential, and to reflect on their reasons for pursuing a university education. The following regulations apply to required withdrawals.

Grade point average below 4.00 and equal to or greater than 2.50: Students who have received an academic warning for a cumulative grade point average below 4.00 (C) must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 (C) within their next 24 credits taken or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in the session in which that 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative grade point average reaches 4.00 (C); otherwise, they must withdraw for 12 months. Students will be required to withdraw for 12 months should their cumulative grade point average fall below 2.50 at any time after completion of 24 York credits.

Grade point average below 2.50: Students whose cumulative grade point average on at least 24 York credits is below 2.50 must withdraw for 12 months.

Petition to continue without interruption: Students who have been required to withdraw may submit a petition to the Faculty of Health Academic Services Centre requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption. Students granted such a petition would be allowed to continue their studies on debarment warning.

Reactivation after required withdrawal: Students who have been required to withdraw may apply for reactivation after the requisite period of absence by submitting a form obtainable from Student Client Services. Students who return to their studies after such a required withdrawal (as well as those who have been allowed to continue their studies by virtue of a petition to the Committee on Petitions) receive a debarment warning.

Debarment Warning

Students who have been required to withdraw receive a debarment warning upon continuing their studies in the Faculty.

Debarment warning conditions: Students on debarment warning must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 4.00 (C) within the next 24 credits taken or earn a sessional grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+) in the session in which the 24th credit is completed and in each subsequent session until the cumulative average reaches 4.00 (C), and must then maintain this average. Students who do not fulfill these conditions will be debarred from the University. Students whose cumulative grade point average falls below 2.50 at any time while on debarment warning will be debarred.

Debarment

Students who fail to meet the debarment warning conditions outlined above will be debarred from the University. Debarment, the minimum period for which is normally two years, means that the student is no longer a student at York University.

Petition to continue without interruption: Students who have been debarred may submit a petition to the Faculty of Health Academic Services Centre requesting permission to continue their studies without interruption.

Students granted such a petition would be allowed to continue their studies on academic probation.

Reapplying after debarment: Students who have been debarred and who wish to resume their studies must apply for re-admission through the Admissions Office, and must provide persuasive evidence that they are ready and able to complete a degree program. Students who are re-admitted (as well as those who have been allowed to continue their studies by virtue of a petition to the Committee on Petitions) receive an academic probation.

Academic Probation

Students who have been debarred and who subsequently resume their studies in the Faculty whether by petitioning to continue without interruption or by applying for re-admission, receive an academic probation. Students on academic probation must meet the debarment warning conditions outlined above; otherwise, they will be debarred. Students who have completed 120 credits or greater who do not have the required cumulative grade point average of at least 5.00 and/or a minimum grade of C (4.00) in all courses used in the major will be ineligible to proceed or graduate.

Petitions for Exemptions from Regulations

Academic regulations allow you to develop your interests and talents to the fullest in ways consistent with the philosophy and standards of the Faculty. In establishing academic regulations, the Faculty also recognizes that instances will arise where it makes sense, in the context of a student's academic career, to waive regulations which would otherwise apply.

Petitions Committee

The Petitions Committee considers requests for exceptions to all Faculty regulations, including petitions to continue studies without interruption from students who have been required to withdraw or debarred. The guidelines for consideration of petitions/appeals by Faculty committees are located at the following URL: <http://yorku.ca/univsec/senate/committees/sac/petguid.htm>.

Right to Petition

Students in the Faculty of Health have the right to petition for special consideration. A petition is a request for the waiver of a regulation, it cannot be used to create legislation (for example, a degree program) that does not exist. Normally, petitions will not be considered by the Petitions Committee more than one year beyond the date of the release of grades for the session to which the petition relates.

Petitions Procedures

Petitions are held in the strictest confidence, and are presented anonymously to the committee. The committee considers the petition itself, any supporting documentation, e.g. from professors or medical practitioners, and other relevant information contained in the student's record. Students may not appear in person.

Initiating a Petition

To initiate a petition, you must obtain a petition package from Student Client Services or <http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/services/petitions/forms.htm#5>.

Petitions must be mailed or hand delivered to:

Faculty of Health Petitions Committee
c/o Registrars Office, Bennett Centre for Student Services

The drop box is located in the front lobby and is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

More information on petitioning is available from Student Client Services, or the Faculty of Health Office of Student and Academic Services, Ground Floor, Health, Nursing and Environmental Studies Building. You may also visit the Current Students Web site.

Kinesiology and Health Science Practicum Program

All students enrolled in Kinesiology and Health Science programs must complete the practicum core, which consists of one practicum course in each of the following six areas: dance/gymnastics, aquatics, team sports, individual and dual sports, track and field and emergency care, plus an additional two free choice practicum courses, for a total of eight courses. A detailed description of the course offerings and requirements is available from the School of Kinesiology and Health Science.

Practicum Course List

While practicum courses are required of all kinesiology and health science students in order to graduate, they are not applied towards the academic degree requirements in kinesiology and health science. The second digit of the practica courses indicates the practicum area. One practicum course represents a total of 24 contact hours of sports activity or equivalent.

Practicum courses provide professional preparation for kinesiology and health science students and as such may require vigorous physical activity. It is strongly recommended that every student in the practicum program have a medical examination prior to participating. Students with disabilities are considered on a case-by-case basis. Practicum courses are open to both men and women unless otherwise specified. For practicum course descriptions, please consult the School of Kinesiology and Health Science supplemental calendar.

Undergraduate Certificates

The School of Kinesiology and Health Science offers undergraduate certificates in: athletic therapy; coaching; fitness assessment and exercise counselling, and; sport administration that may be taken concurrently with an honours degree. Upon graduation, students who have successfully completed the degree and certificate requirements receive a certificate in addition to the undergraduate degree. Students may only enrol in one certificate stream at a time.

Certificate requirements are listed in the Faculty of Health Undergraduate Certificate section of this calendar.

Course Substitutes

The School of Kinesiology and Health Science does not recognize any course substitutes for its academic course requirements. Students who complete a course offered by another unit or program that is a course exclusion with a kinesiology course must replace the corresponding kinesiology course with another kinesiology course of equal or greater credit value at the same year level or higher.

Nursing

Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BScN) Honours degree programs (Collaborative BScN, 2nd Degree Entry BScN, Post-RN BScN, Post-RN BScN – IEN)

The bachelor of science in nursing BScN Honours program focuses on the development of the theoretical, scientific and philosophical knowledge of human caring. The role of nurses, through caring relationships, in promoting and preserving health and healing is emphasized through both theory and self-reflective practice. Graduates will be prepared to practise collaboratively in a variety of settings to enhance individual, family, community and global health.

Collaborative BScN Program

York-Seneca Joint Program in Psychology and Rehabilitation Services

This program allows a student to complete a BA or BSc or an Honours BA or Honours BSc degree in psychology at York in conjunction with a Certificate in Rehabilitation Counselling. The certificate is awarded jointly by York University and Seneca College. A full-time student would normally require four years of study for a BA or BSc degree, and five years of study for an Honours BA or Honours BSc degree, in the joint program.

In order to fulfill the requirements of a BA or BSc in psychology, a student is required to take a minimum of 30 (but not more than 42) credits in psychology, including HH/PSYC 1010 6.00 (with a minimum grade of C). For an Honours BA or Honours BSc in psychology, a minimum of 42 (but not more than 54) credits in psychology are required. (See degree program requirements.)

During years 3 and 4, students will normally take 30 credits at York, from the required program list, and the equivalent of 30 credits will be chosen from the Seneca offerings. In addition to in-class academic instruction, students are required to complete two full year (September - April) courses involving a total of 800 hours of supervised fieldwork in each of the three major domains of rehabilitation: physical, emotional, and developmental. Programs will be tailored to each student through discussion with the coordinators. Minimum academic requirement for applicants is a 5.00 grade point average in the first 60 credits.

Admission Requirements and Procedures

Students who wish to enter the Rehabilitation Services program should apply in the January preceding the final year of their BA or BSc degree program to the departmental program office. Generally, a student who demonstrates good intellectual ability, emotional stability and a strong interest in working with the disabled will be considered for entry into the program. Applicants must have:

- completed 60 University-level credits towards a BA or BSc or 90 University-level credits towards an Honours BA or Honours BSc with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 5.00;
- completed an Introduction to psychology course (with a minimum grade of C);
- fulfilled the general education requirements of York University;
- previous employment or volunteer work in the field of rehabilitation.

Application materials for students currently enrolled at York University may be obtained by contacting Sandra Locke, 281 Behavioural Sciences Building, 416-736-5115, extension 66210; e-mail: slocke@yorku.ca.

Students from other universities should apply through the York University Admissions Office. In order to be considered for admission, applicants must submit a complete application (i.e. application form, official transcripts, and two letters of recommendation). Complete applications received by the deadline (March 1) will be rank-ordered according to academic standing and previous experience in the field of rehabilitation. The top applicants will be interviewed jointly by York and Seneca coordinators.

Faculty of Liberal Arts and Professional Studies - Keele Campus

General Information for 2008-2009

As of July 1, 2009, the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies and the Faculty of Arts – both at the Keele Campus – will be dissolved, to be replaced by the Faculty of Liberal Arts and Professional Studies, comprising the humanities, social sciences and related professional programs.

The goal of the transition is to achieve the benefits and synergies from the creation of the most comprehensive range of interdisciplinary academic programs and researchers in social sciences, humanities and related professional programs in Canada. What this means is:

- the development of a dynamic learning environment that gives students interested in these areas maximum choice in program and course selection and the flexibility to transfer between programs;
- a concentration of innovative graduate programs in the humanities, social sciences and related professional areas;
- the ability to support, expand and intensify world class, interdisciplinary research;
- the amalgamation of duplicate programs to increase clarity and coherence for students.

Effective the Fall/Winter 2009-2010 Session the degrees and programs offered through the Faculty of Arts and Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies will be moved to the Faculty of Liberal Arts and Professional Studies, with some degrees and programs moving to the Faculty of Science and Engineering (pending Senate approval). Grandparenting provisions have been developed for students continuing in degrees and programs offered in the Faculty of Arts and the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies. Details are available on the York University Current Students Web site.

Joint Study Programs

Science and Arts

The Faculty of Science and Engineering and the Faculty of Arts jointly offer Honours Double Major and Honours Major/Minor programs where the major is from one Faculty and the second major or the minor from the other Faculty.

Corresponding programs involving an arts major and a science major or minor lead to BA Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor degrees in the Faculty of Arts. All Honours programs require a minimum of 120 credits which can normally be completed in four years of full-time study.

For a list of possible subject combinations for the BSc Honours degree programs, see Undergraduate Degree Programs above. For details of the science major and minor requirements in specific subject areas, see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar. For details of the arts major and minor requirements in specific subject areas, and for the requirements for BA Honours programs, see the Faculty of Arts Programs of Study section of this calendar.

Science and Atkinson

The Faculty of Science and Engineering and the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies jointly offer Honours Double Major and Honours Major/Minor programs where the major is from one Faculty and the second major or the minor from the other Faculty.

A student in the Faculty of Science and Engineering who has completed 24 credits in a BSc Honours program and satisfies the Faculty of Science and Engineering academic standards to proceed in Honours may combine the study of a science major and an Atkinson major or minor in a BSc Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor program. Science and Education

A student wishing to obtain the professional certification required to teach in Ontario schools may take both teacher training and an undergraduate academic program concurrently. This does not shorten the time required to gain the qualification but provides a better chance for the student to relate theory and practice and to have more opportunity to gain practical experience than is possible in a one-year program.

A student in the Faculty of Science and Engineering who is presently enrolled in first year (at least 24 credits) or has a minimum of 36 credits remaining in the BSc, BSc Honours, or BA Honours with an overall standing of at least 5.00 (C+) may apply to coregister in the Faculty of Education. A coregistered student normally takes one and a half or two full courses in the Faculty of Education in an academic year concurrent with courses for the BSc, BSc Honours or BA Honours. The specific study program of each student is subject to the approval of both Faculties.

Upon successful completion of the course requirements for the degree in the Faculty of Science and Engineering, and of the required education courses, a coregistered student is awarded a BSc, BSc Honours or BA Honours and a BEd.

Science and Environmental Studies

The Faculty of Science and Engineering and the Faculty of Environmental Studies jointly offer Honours Major/Minor programs where the major is from one Faculty and the minor from the other Faculty.

A student in the Faculty of Science and Engineering who has completed 24 credits in a BSc Honours program and satisfies the Faculty of Science and Engineering academic standards to proceed in Honours may combine the study of a science major and an environmental studies minor in a BSc Honours Major/Minor degree program. A corresponding program including a major in environmental studies and a science minor leads to a BES Honours Major/Minor degree in the Faculty of Environmental Studies. Both programs require a minimum of 120 credits which can normally be completed in four years of full-time study.

For a list of possible science majors for the BSc Honours degree program, see the Undergraduate Degree Programs section above. For details of the science major and minor requirements in specific subject areas, see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar. For details of the requirements for a minor in environmental studies within the BSc Honours degree program, and for the requirements for BES Honours programs, see the Faculty of Environmental Studies Degree Requirements section of this calendar.

To be eligible to receive the certificate, students must achieve a minimum credit-weighted grade point average of 6.00 (B) over the 24 York University credits required for the certificate in one of the three streams. Degree candidates must also achieve and maintain Honours standing in their academic degree program.

For additional information, consult on the three units mentioned above.

Certificate in Meteorology

Registered BSc Honours candidates and visiting students, who are interested in careers in atmospheric science (meteorology) and who satisfy the certificate program admission requirements may work towards a Certificate in Meteorology offered by the Department of Earth and Space Science and Engineering. Normally, a student registered in the atmospheric science stream of the department works concurrently towards a certificate and a BSc Honours degree. However, the program is open to any student who satisfies the program admission requirements. Entrance to the program requires the candidate to have successfully completed at least 54 approved credits (nine approved full courses) in the areas of physical science and mathematics.

The certificate requirements are as follows: SC/EATS 3030 3.00; SC/EATS 3040 3.00; SC/EATS 4050 3.00; SC/EATS 4051 3.00; SC/EATS 4120 3.00; SC/EATS 4140 3.00; 12 credits chosen from the following courses: SC/EATS 3130 3.00, SC/EATS 3280 3.00, SC/EATS 4020 3.00, SC/EATS 4130 3.00, SC/EATS 4150 3.00, SC/EATS 4160 3.00, SC/EATS 4220 3.00, SC/EATS 4230 3.00, SC/EATS 4240 3.00, SC/GEOG 4205 3.00, SC/GEOG 4210 3.00, SC/GEOG 4310 3.00, SC/MATH 4141 3.00, SC/MATH 4142 3.00, SC/PHYS 4120 3.00.

In order to receive the certificate, the student must achieve a minimum credit-weighted grade point average of 4.00 (C) or better over the 30 credits required for the certificate.

For additional information, consult the Department of Earth and Space Science and Engineering.

II. Advising, Enrolment, Registration, Graduation and Other Administrative Procedures

Student Responsibility

Every effort is made in the Faculty of Science and Engineering to ensure that each student receives academic advice and sufficient information to guide in course selection and program choice. Within this context, the student is solely responsible for the following:

- ensuring that the courses chosen in consultation with an adviser meet all program (refer to the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar) and degree (refer to the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar) requirements for graduation;
- ensure the courses they choose meet prerequisites and are not exclusions or equivalents of other courses already taken;
- verifying the accuracy of registration records, including all course changes;
- fulfilling the requirements and being aware of academic progress in all registered courses;
- noting and abiding by the sessional deadline dates published on the Current Students Web page each year, especially course change deadline dates.

Advising

Before each academic session begins, every student can meet with an adviser to discuss program and degree requirements. However, it is the responsibility of all students to familiarize themselves with both the requirements of their individual programs of study (refer to the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar) and the regulations governing their degree requirements (refer to the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar).

In preparation for enrolment, and at the advising appointment, the following should be considered:

Choice of subject area(s). Every student must choose one or two subject area(s) according to personal interests and career goals.

Choice of program. All students who have completed 24 or more credits must choose a program (bachelor, Specialized Honours, Honours Major, Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor) in accordance with general regulation 3 in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar. Minimum grade point average requirements for Honours programs are detailed under Academic Standards for Bachelor and Honours Degree Programs in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Examinations and Academic Standards section of this calendar and in the program of study requirements in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar. See also Designation of Honours or Bachelor Program in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Examinations and Academic Standards section of this calendar.

Faculty of Science and Engineering degree requirements and regulations. Refer to the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar.

Course selection at the 1000 level. For first-year students, the 1000-level (entry-level) programs are multidisciplinary. Students take introductory courses, consistent with their levels of background preparation, which are planned to prepare them well for more advanced study in the subject areas of their choice. Most introductory courses carry prerequisites, normally at the 12U level.

The course requirements at the 1000 level, except for the BA program, are governed by Faculty general regulation 4 (see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar) and are outlined in items i) and ii) under the program of study requirements for each subject area in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar. These Faculty regulations ensure that students' choices from the roster of introductory offerings provide an adequate and appropriate breadth in science, help students to develop basic computational, mathematical and laboratory skills, and also an appreciation of the humanities and social sciences.

Unless stated otherwise in the program of study requirements in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar, Honours Double Major candidates are expected to complete all 1000-level requirements for both majors, excepting course credit exclusions.

Unless stated otherwise in the program of study requirements in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar, the 1000-level requirements for Honours Major/Minor programs are those of the major subject, plus or including any required 1000-level courses in the minor subject and any 1000-level courses which are required as prerequisites or corequisites for required courses in the minor, excepting course credit exclusions.

Since the normal yearly full-time credit load is 30 credits (somewhat higher for BAsc Honours candidates), it will not be possible for the student to complete all the 1000-level requirements for any degree program in year one. Certain specific courses should be taken in year one as prerequisites for required 2000-level courses or as an introduction to the major or minor subject area. It is advisable to complete as many of the other required 1000-level courses as possible in year one to avoid timetable conflicts in later years.

In some circumstances, equivalent courses approved in writing by the major program(s) may be substituted for the courses listed.

Course selection above the 1000 level. Complete details of the course requirements for all subject areas and programs are found in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar. Degree checklists for all programs/subject areas are available from the Office of Science Academic Services.

Prerequisites/corequisites. Most science courses have prerequisite and/or corequisite requirements. These may be specific courses (indicating specific required background knowledge) or they may be general prerequisites (indicating a required level of maturity in university studies in the subject area or overall).

As indicated in general regulation 2 in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar, it is the student's responsibility to enrol in only those courses for which the student has successfully completed all designated prerequisites and to take concurrently all specified corequisites not already completed successfully. Students who lack the stated prerequisites but have reason to believe that they can succeed in a course must obtain written permission of the department concerned (consult the departmental undergraduate office regarding the procedure to be followed) before enrolling.

Course credit exclusions. Students should avoid enrolling in any two courses which are designated as course credit exclusions of one another, since credit will be given for only one. For more information regarding course credit exclusions, see Course Credit Exclusions in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar.

Scheduling. All information regarding courses to be offered in each session, times, places etc. is found on the York University Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>).

Enrolment

Students enrol in courses offered by the Faculty of Science and Engineering through the Web enrolment system. Information on how to use the system is provided on the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>). Access to the system is granted to newly admitted students only after the advising document has been signed.

A maximum of 15 credits in total may be taken during a summer session at York University and/or at another institution, a maximum of 33 credits during a fall/winter session (36 credits for the BAsc degree).

Transfer Credit/Letters of Permission

Transfer credit towards a York University degree may be granted for courses taken at other accredited postsecondary institutions prior to registration at York University.

Transfer credit assessments for the Faculty of Science and Engineering are specific to the program and subject area(s) in which the student plans to enrol at York University. If the student does not enrol in the program(s) and subject area(s) specified on the admission application or, subsequent to first registration, changes subject area(s) and/or program(s), the transfer credit must be reassessed.

A student wishing to take a course at an external accredited institution at any time for credit towards a degree program in the Faculty of Science and Engineering is required to obtain a letter of permission from York University prior to taking the course.

Request forms for letters of permission are available from Student Client Services or on the Current Students Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>. The letter of permission request form, with course description(s), must be submitted to the appropriate departmental office to have the course(s) assessed for equivalents/exclusions. The completed form must then be returned to Student Client Services.

At the conclusion of the session for which a letter of permission was granted, the student must arrange for the host institution to submit either an official transcript for consideration for transfer credit, or official notice of withdrawal/non-enrolment to the Registrar's Office.

The student must obtain a grade of C or higher in the course for which a letter of permission has been granted in order to receive credit for the course in the Faculty of Science and Engineering. Such courses completed on letters of permission are included in the student's cumulative record, although grades from such courses are not listed on York University transcripts and are not included in the calculation of York grade point averages.

Should a student leave York University to pursue study at another postsecondary institution without a letter of permission, upon return to York, a new application to York is required and all previous transfer credit will be reassessed.

Changes in Program/Subject Area(s)

Candidates may change their degree programs and/or subject area(s) from the time of their advising sessions in the spring until the tenth class day of the fall term, provided their standing, prescription of studies and timetable arrangements permit the proposed changes, and provided they are supported in writing by the academic advisers concerned. All program and subject area changes must be effected through the Registrar's Office by completion of the relevant form (available on the Current Students Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>), signed by the new department(s). Transfer credit assessments must be reviewed after any change in program/subject area.

Course Changes

Course changes are permitted, but only for limited periods of time, and in accordance with the sessional dates in the enrolment guides. Written permission of the course instructor(s) may be required. Students should consult their advisers regarding the effect course changes may have on the fulfilment of program and degree requirements, but it is the responsibility of the student alone to recognize the consequences of course changes on academic progress. Students are responsible for verifying their enrolment during each academic session.

Reactivation

A student who has been absent from the University for one or more session(s) must apply to the Registrar's Office (form available on the Current Students Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>) to be reactivated.

Note: This does not apply to students who have failed to gain standing or have been debarred from York University or to students who have taken postsecondary courses at another institution during their absence from York University; all such students must apply, through the Admissions Office, to be re-admitted to York University.

Graduation

Students should apply to graduate in the calendar year in which they expect to qualify for the degree, irrespective of whether or not they plan to attend the graduation ceremony. The application to graduate form can be found on the Current Students Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>.

The deadline dates for spring and fall graduation ensure that all potential graduates' records are assessed with care. No late applications are accepted for any reason.

A student registered in a BSc Honours program may apply to graduate with a BSc degree, provided bachelor program requirements are met.

Degree Reclassification

A student who has completed a York University BSc degree (bachelor program) in the Faculty of Science and Engineering may continue, after graduation, in a Specialized Honours program in the same subject area or in an Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor program including the same subject area, provided the grade point average is that required for the Honours program.

A student who has completed a BSc Honours degree in an Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor program may apply for admission to a BSc Specialized Honours program in one of the (science) subject areas included in the Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor program.

A student who wishes to pursue a second degree in a different field of study must apply to the Admissions Office for admission as a second degree candidate. The deadline to apply for fall admission is May 1.

III. Regulations Governing Examinations and Academic Standards

Grading System

Refer to Grades and Grading Schemes within the Academic Information section of this calendar.

Pass/Fail Grading Option

A pass/fail grading option is available to Faculty of Science and Engineering students under the following guidelines.

Academic standing. This option is available only to students who are in good standing (i.e. not under academic or debarment warning).

Minimum number of courses completed. Students must have successfully completed at least 24 credits before they may apply to take a course under this option.

Elective courses only. The following types of courses may not be taken on a pass/fail basis: courses in the major and minor subject area(s), general education courses, 1000-level science courses required to satisfy the Faculty of Science and Engineering general regulation 4 (see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements section of this calendar), non-major courses required to satisfy program requirements.

Maximum number of pass/fail credits.

- Honours program: a maximum of 12 (passed) credits from pass/fail graded courses may be counted towards an honours program.
- Bachelor program: a maximum of six (passed) credits from pass/fail graded courses may be counted towards a bachelor program.

Grade point average calculations. The grade obtained (passed or failed) in a pass/fail graded course is not included in grade point average calculations in the Faculty of Science and Engineering.

Deadline to select pass/fail option. Eligible students may exercise the option within the first two weeks (10 class days) of the term in which the course begins. They must obtain the signature of the course director on a form to be made available from (available on the Current Students Web site at <http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>), and returned to, Student Client Services.

Deadline to change from pass/fail back to the letter-grade system. At the student's request, the student may change the designation of a course from pass/fail back to the letter-grade system until the last day for withdrawal without academic penalty from the term in which the course is offered. Formal notification, with the student's and course director's signatures, must be received by the Registrar's Office by this deadline.

Repeated Courses

Students are allowed to repeat a passed or a failed course once for academic degree or certificate credit. Students should note that course availability and space considerations may preclude the possibility of repeating a course in the session they choose.

When a student is allowed to repeat a course for academic degree or certificate credit, the second grade will be the grade of record and the only grade calculated in the student's grade point average. Regardless of whether or not the student repeats a course a third time, the second grade remains the grade of record. Students are required to petition in order to gain permission to repeat a passed course more than once for academic credit towards a degree or certificate program. The record of both the first and second time the course was taken will appear on the student's transcript, with the first course designated as "No Credit Retained" (NCR).

Students assigned as a penalty for academic honesty an F or lowered grade as the permanent grade of record will not be allowed the benefit of excluding the impact of this 'penalty' grade from their academic average after repeating the course. Both the second grade and the original grade will contribute to the cumulative grade point average.

A student must be declared eligible to proceed in a degree or certificate program in order to be eligible to repeat a course. That is to say, when a student fails to achieve sufficient standing to proceed in a degree or certificate program, or when they are required to withdraw, they would not be eligible to repeat a course or courses.

Academic Standards for Bachelor and Honours Programs

Bachelor Programs

To graduate in a bachelor program. A minimum overall grade point average of 4.00 (C) is required in order to be eligible to graduate in an undergraduate bachelor program.

Students in a bachelor program who have passed 90 credits in accordance with Faculty and program requirements, but whose cumulative overall grade point average is below 4.00 (C), may attempt to raise their average by taking up to 12 additional credits, to a maximum of 102 credits. These courses must be above the 1000 level and must be taken at York University. Regulations on equivalent and excluded courses apply.

Honours Programs

Honours students are eligible to enrol in a year according to the number of credits they have obtained (see below):

Year	Credits
Year 1	Fewer than 24 credits
Year 2	Fewer than 54 credits
Year 3	Fewer than 84 credits
Year 4	At least 84 credits

Subject to the selection criteria of the major departments, students will be registered in the Honours program who, upon completion of each academic session, have a cumulative average as follows:

Year	Cumulative overall average
1	4.00
2	4.25
3	4.80
4	5.00

Students who have taken 84 credits, and who wish to proceed in an Honours program must have a cumulative grade point average of 5.00 overall.

To graduate in an Honours program requires successful completion of all Faculty requirements and departmental required courses and a minimum cumulative credit-weighted grade point average of 5.00 (C+) over all courses completed, subject to the exception in the note below.

Note: Some programs may require a higher standard - consult the program of study requirements in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar.

Academic Standing Requirements for Visiting Students

Individuals who wish to enrol in undergraduate credit courses, but who do not intend to complete a degree or a certificate may be admitted to York as a Visiting Student (see the Admissions section of this calendar for more information). There are three categories of visiting students:

- those who hold an undergraduate degree (three-year bachelor's degree minimum) from an accredited university/university-level institution;
- those who do not hold an undergraduate degree but wish to enrol in York courses to fulfill the academic, upgrading or professional development requirements of a professional designation;
- those who are currently attending another recognized university and wish to take York courses on a letter of permission issued by their home institution.

Grade Point Average (GPA) Requirement

Students in categories a) and b) whose overall cumulative grade point average (OCGPA) falls below 4.00 on at least 24 credits attempted will not be allowed to enrol in any subsequent session as visiting students. Students who are not permitted to re-enrol must apply for re-admission through the Admissions Office.

Note: Repeated course legislation does not apply to visiting students but only to academic degrees and certificates. Therefore, all courses attempted or taken will count in the OCGPA.

Credit limits

Students in category b) who have maintained an OCGPA of 4.00 throughout their studies and who have completed 30 credits will not be allowed to enrol in subsequent sessions and must either reactivate to proceed as visiting students or may choose to apply for admission to a degree or certificate program.

Designation of Honours or Bachelor Program

Automatic Honours designation. Students are automatically considered to be in an Honours program provided they achieve and maintain the minimum grade requirements for Honours described under the Academic Standards for Bachelor and Honours Programs section above.

Automatic bachelor designation. Students are automatically considered to be in a bachelor program if they fail to achieve or maintain the minimum grade requirements for Honours described under the Academic Standards for Bachelor and Honours Programs section above.

Option to graduate with a bachelor program. Students registered for an Honours degree may opt to graduate with a bachelor degree if they fulfill bachelor program requirements. See Graduation in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Advising, Enrolment, Registration, Graduation and Other Administrative Procedures section of this calendar for details.

Examinations

Most courses in the Faculty of Science and Engineering schedule three-hour final examinations. Examinations are scheduled during day and evening hours.

Students are admitted to the examination hall five minutes before the scheduled start time and are required to present their YU-card with a photo or their YU-card without a photo plus a photo-bearing form of identification such as a driver's licence or passport, when writing final examinations. Unauthorized aids may not be taken into the examination halls. No student may leave the examination hall within 15 minutes of the end of the scheduled examination period. All students must remain seated at the conclusion of the examination period until all examination answer sheets/booklets have been collected by the invigilators. Examination booklets, used and unused, must be submitted intact, with no insertions and no pages removed.

A student observed deriving assistance from any unauthorized source is subject to the procedures and penalties defined under the Senate regulations regarding academic honesty (see the University Policies and Regulations section of this calendar).

Students must maintain a standard of work in their courses of instruction satisfactory to the departments or divisions concerned, and must attend the required examinations, unless prevented by illness or by some other special circumstance.

A student who writes a final examination under duress, or who is prevented from attending an examination by illness or by some other special circumstance, must file a request for a deferred examination within the stated time limits and provide appropriate written evidence for consideration (see Deferred Examinations below).

Final examination answer sheets/booklets become the property of the teaching unit. Students have the right to review their graded tests and examinations once the grades have been published by the Registrar's Office. Students may request a copy at cost from the teaching unit.

Deferred Examinations / Aegrotat Standing

A student may request aegrotat standing, permission to write deferred examinations (in respect of final examinations only), or permission to submit a final assignment after the Faculty's deadline for submission of term work, on the grounds of sickness or misfortune.

It is the responsibility of the student to ensure that full documentation (medical or other) is provided in support of requests for deferred standing or aegrotat standing. A request submitted on the grounds of illness must include the attending physician's statement form completed by the petitioner's physician. Appropriate forms and guidelines are available from Student Client Services or the Current Students Web site (<http://www.yorku.ca/yorkweb/cs.htm>).

Deferred standing agreement. In the Faculty of Science and Engineering, deferred standing may be arranged with the course director by means of a form called a deferred standing agreement (DSA). The DSA form and supporting documentation must normally be submitted within one week following a missed examination or the last day to submit coursework.

Deferred standing petition. A petition for deferred standing may be submitted if the course director indicates on the DSA form a refusal to approve deferred standing. The petition application, together with other written evidence to be taken into consideration, must normally be submitted to the Registrar's Office within one week following a missed examination or the last day to submit coursework.

Aegrotat standing petition. In exceptional circumstances, a petition for aegrotat standing may be submitted in cases where a student cannot be expected to complete coursework. If granted, the phrase AEG aegrotat standing is substituted for the grade on the transcript. Aegrotat standing is seldom granted in respect of final examinations; instead, the student may be granted permission to write deferred examination(s).

Term Work

All final grades, including those assigned after deferred examinations, are calculated in a way which assigns a specific weighting to the term work done in addition to the final (or deferred) examination. The weighting is set by the course director and must be announced and available in writing within the first two weeks of classes. If possible, information about assignments and grades for all courses should be made known to students at or before the first class meeting. A previously announced marking scheme for a course may be changed by the course director with the consent of students enrolled in the course; the new marking scheme must also be distributed in written form.

Prior to the final date to withdraw from a course without receiving a grade, some graded feedback worth at least 15 per cent of the final grade for fall, winter or summer term and 30 per cent for 'full year' courses offered in the fall/winter term is received by students in all courses (excepting the following: those senior undergraduate courses, such as honours theses, where course work consists of a single piece of work, practicum courses, ungraded courses, courses in Faculties where the drop date occurs within the first three weeks of classes, courses which run on a compressed schedule). Students who, in the absence of recognized extenuating circumstances, fail to complete such course work cannot use the lack of feedback as grounds for withdrawal.

The total value of any in-class test(s) or in-class examination(s) given in the last two weeks of classes in a term cannot be greater than 20 per cent of the final mark for the course.

All tests in a given section of a course must be given during the class or tutorial times listed in the lecture schedule for that section of the course. The only exception is the scheduling of common tests administered to multiple-section courses; in such cases students with a conflict must be given reasonable accommodation.

Term work in any course may not be submitted later than the first day of the final examination period for the course. Earlier final dates for the submission of term work may be set at the discretion of the department/division concerned.

The student is responsible for ensuring that all written term work is received by the instructor concerned.

Reappraisal of Final Grades

Students may, with sufficient academic grounds, request that a final grade in a course be reappraised. Students are normally expected to first contact the course director to discuss the grade received and to request that their tangible work be reviewed. Further information may be obtained from the department/division offering the course. Students applying to have a grade reappraised in a Faculty of Science and Engineering course should note the following:

- requests for reappraisal must be filed with the unit offering the course within 21 calendar days of the release of the final grade in the course;
- students may request the review of specific pieces of work, or the overall course grade. Normally, however, only written work can be reassessed;
- when a student asks for reappraisal, an original grade may be raised, lowered or confirmed;
- students wishing to request the reappraisal of a final grade should fill out the appropriate form available from the department/division offering the course and submit it to the same office;
- the decision of the department/division may be appealed to the Faculty of Science and Engineering Executive and Planning Committee only on grounds of procedural irregularity or new evidence.

Recognition of Excellence

Dean's Honour Roll

The annual Dean's Honour Roll recognizes academic excellence by assigning the notation "Member of Dean's Honour Roll" to the grade report and transcript of a student who achieves a sessional credit-weighted grade point average of 7.50 or higher on a minimum of 24 credits, or, in the final year of study, a minimum of 18 credits.

Students coregistered in the Faculty of Education, who are registered in a minimum of 24 credits overall (of which at least 18 credits are for the bachelor or Honours degree in the Faculty of Science and Engineering) and who achieve a sessional credit-weighted grade point average of 7.50 or higher on their credits for the bachelor or Honours in the Faculty of Science and Engineering, are also eligible to be on the Faculty of Science and Engineering Dean's Honour Roll.

First-Class Degrees

The Faculty of Science and Engineering rewards exceptional students by designating their degrees "first class" or "first class with distinction".

First-class standing is normally awarded to students whose cumulative overall credit-weighted grade point average is 7.50 or higher.

With distinction is normally added to the first class degree of students whose cumulative overall credit-weighted grade point average is 8.00 (A) or higher.

Warnings and Sanctions

Note: The following applies to students admitted to York University for Fall 2001 and subsequent sessions. Students admitted before Fall 2001 should consult the York Undergraduate Programs Calendar of the year in which they were admitted for information regarding warnings and sanctions which apply to them.

Academic Warning

Students whose cumulative overall grade point average falls below 4.00 (C) at the end of any session or who enter the Faculty with a grade point average equivalent to less than 4.00 (C) receive an academic warning. Students on academic warning must achieve a cumulative overall grade point average of at least 3.50 by the end of the next 30 credits in order to continue; otherwise they will have failed to gain standing.

Failure to Gain Standing

Students are said to have failed to gain standing if their cumulative overall grade point average falls below 2.50 at any time after completion of 24 credits or if they were on academic warning and did not achieve the cumulative overall grade point average of at least 3.50 by the end of the next 30 credits. Students who have failed to gain standing may not register for any courses unless they are re-admitted to the University. Applications for re-admission, not normally considered within one year from the date of failure to gain standing, should be made to the director of admissions.

Debarment Warning

Students who have failed to gain standing in the Faculty of Science and Engineering, or the equivalent in another Faculty at York University or elsewhere, receive a debarment warning upon continuing their studies in the Faculty. Students on debarment warning must achieve a cumulative overall grade point average of at least 3.50 within the next 24 credits taken in order to continue. Students who do not fulfill these conditions will be debarred from the University.

Debarment

Students who have been debarred may be re-admitted in some subsequent session only if they give convincing evidence that they can profit from university work. Applications for re-admission are not normally entertained in less than two years from the date of debarment.

Academic Honesty

See the York University Senate regulations regarding academic honesty in the University Policies and Regulations section of this calendar. For further information contact the Office of Science Academic Services.

Note: Students cannot drop any courses in which they have been penalized for a breach of academic honesty.

Petitions

Students may petition on reasonable grounds, in writing, any Faculty of Science and Engineering regulation. In some instances, circumstances affecting a student's performance in initial University course work will be accepted as grounds for petition. All enquiries about regulations and petition procedures should be addressed to the Registrar's Office. For information regarding petitions for deferred examinations, see Deferred Examinations in this section of the calendar. Petition forms must be submitted to Student Client Services.

Normally petitions for late withdrawal from a course will only be considered if they are submitted within three weeks of the release of final grades. Such petitions may be considered for a period of up to one year if they are based on special circumstances.

Appeals Procedures

Appeals by students and/or faculty members against rulings of the Petitions Committee and/or the Committee on Examinations and Academic Standards of the Faculty of Science and Engineering (with the exception of appeals on academic honesty rulings - see below) must be filed in writing with the secretary of the appeals panel of the Executive and Planning Committee, 349 Lumbers, within 15 calendar days of the date of notification of the decision.

Appeals against rulings of the petitions committee and/or the committee on examinations and academic standing will be heard by a panel of two faculty members of the executive and planning committee and one student member selected from student members of the Faculty council. In the rare event that a decision of a panel of the executive and planning committee, or of the Senate Appeals Committee, requires a completely new (de novo) hearing, the matter will be heard by a panel of three faculty members of the executive and planning committee and one student member selected from student members of the Faculty council. These panels will be constituted, as required, from available members, by the secretary of the appeals panel.

Members shall disqualify themselves if they are involved as a party or witness in the case, or believe that they could not be impartial. Where members disqualify themselves, alternate members will replace them.

Appeals are heard only on the following grounds:

- a) new evidence; i.e. evidence that, through no fault of the appellant, could not reasonably have been presented at an earlier level; (As a guide, events or performance subsequent to the decisions of the petitions committee and/or the committee on examinations and academic standing are not to be construed as new evidence.)
- b) evidence of procedural irregularity in the previous consideration of the case by the petitions committee and/or the committee on examinations and academic standing. This may be understood to include actions taken by the Faculty of Science and Engineering, its officers, committees or members with respect to the case which would violate or nullify any of the following:
 - normal and written procedures of the Faculty;
 - recognized custom of the Faculty;
 - the principles of natural justice and fairness.

Students and faculty members have the right to represent themselves at appeal hearings to hear and answer allegations and to present their arguments. Appeal hearings are not open to anyone not directly involved in the case being considered. The committee's decision is taken in camera.

All appeal decisions are reported in writing to the students and the faculty members concerned, the Office of Science Academic Services, the home Faculty and the Registrar's Office.

Further appeals may be made to the Senate Appeals Committee. Enquiries about these appeals, and the grounds upon which they may be filed, should be directed to the Senate Office, N926 Ross.

Appeals on academic honesty rulings are also made directly to the Senate Appeals Committee. Appeals are heard only on the same grounds as cited above.

IV. Regulations Governing Undergraduate Degree Requirements

The Credit System

The Faculty of Science and Engineering operates under a credit system in which a prescribed number of credits, intended to reflect total workload, is associated with each course offered by the University. One lecture hour per week per term is defined as one academic credit as is one laboratory session per week per term. For York University courses (excepting some courses offered by the Faculty of Education), the number of credits in each course is indicated by the number which follows the four-digit course number.

Year of Study Equivalents

When it is necessary to equate credits earned with year level, the following guidelines are used:

- fewer than 24 credits earned - study level one;
- more than or equal to 24 and fewer than 54 credits earned - study level two;
- more than or equal to 54 and fewer than 84 credits earned - study level three;
- more than or equal to 84 credits earned - study level four (with the exception that bachelor programs never go beyond study level three, regardless of the number of credits earned).

Residence Requirement

In order to qualify for a York University degree in any bachelor or Honours program, a student must have successfully completed a minimum of 30 credits at York University and at least half (50 per cent) of the requirements in each major/minor.

Time Limit

There is no time limit for completion of degree requirements in the Faculty of Science and Engineering. Students taking a normal full-time load of approximately 30 credits per fall/winter session can expect to complete a bachelor degree in three fall/winter sessions or an Honours degree in four fall/winter sessions. A limited number of courses are also available during the summer session; a maximum of 15 credits can be taken in that session.

Although there is no minimum number of credits in which a student must enrol in any session, students who do not enrol in any courses in a fall/winter session must formally apply to have their files reactivated before resuming their studies in a subsequent session (see Reactivation in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Advising, Enrolment, Registration, Graduation and Other Administrative Procedures section of this calendar).

Since the curriculum is constantly evolving through the introduction of new course requirements and/or prerequisites, students are strongly advised to complete their degree requirements in a reasonable time period.

Course Credit Exclusions

The University offers some courses in which at least part of the content is similar to that presented in other courses. To ensure that credit is not granted more than once for similar content, the Faculty of Science and Engineering designates such courses as course credit exclusions. The exclusion(s) for a particular course are listed in the course description.

If a student in the Faculty of Science and Engineering enrolls in and successfully completes two courses which are designated as exclusions of each other, credit is given for only one. Both courses appear on the student's official York University transcript.

A course (or combination of courses) designated as an exclusion for another course may be substituted for the latter (for the purposes of satisfying prerequisite and/or degree requirements) only with Faculty/department/division/program approval. Information regarding approved substitute courses may be found in the program of study requirements in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar, in the prerequisite requirements listed for courses in this calendar, or in the departmental supplementary calendars.

College Courses

Regulations governing college courses vary from Faculty to Faculty. The following regulations apply to the Faculty of Science and Engineering degree candidates:

- college courses not cross-listed with humanities or social science cannot fulfill general education requirements;
- a maximum of six credits from 1000-level college courses may be counted towards a degree in the Faculty of Science and Engineering.

General Education Requirements

General education courses are required within all degree programs in the Faculty of Science and Engineering. These courses provide a broad perspective on current scholarship and the diversity of human experience. The courses are also expected to enhance students' critical skills in reading, writing and thinking, and contribute to their preparation for post-university life.

BA and BA Honours Requirements

Students in the BA and BA Honours programs must take a total of 24 credits from the following areas: one 1000-level nine-credit foundations course, in either the Division of Humanities or the Division of Social Science; one 1000-level six credit course in the Division of Natural Science; one 2000-level nine-credit foundations course, in either the Division of Humanities or Social Science. If the 1000-level nine-credit foundations course is taken in the Division of Humanities, then the 2000-level nine-credit foundations course must be taken in the Division of Social Science and vice versa.

Note: Students may complete a maximum of three nine-credit foundations courses for degree credit. Students who need to complete more than three foundations courses in order to fulfill program (major or minor) course requirements may do so with permission of the relevant program coordinator or undergraduate director.

BASc Requirements

Students in BASc programs must complete a minimum of 12 credits from two different areas of study, subject to the restrictions noted below. At least three credits must be taken in humanities and social sciences, as defined by the following areas: anthropology, humanities, English, history, linguistics and languages, modes of reasoning, philosophy, social science and women's studies. The remaining general education credits may be taken from the list included in the following set of requirements.

Note 1: The following course contains a substantial overlap in content with engineering core material and hence may not be taken for degree credit by BASc degree candidates: AS/PHIL 2100 3.00 Introduction to Logic.

Note 2: ES/ENVS 2150 3.00 is a core requirement for students in the BASc program and therefore, cannot be used to fulfill the general education requirement.

Requirements for BSc, BSc Honours, BSc (Tech), iBSc Candidates

All degree candidates in the above programs must complete a minimum of 12 credits from two different areas of study, including at least three credits from each area, subject to the restrictions noted below.

For the purposes of this regulation "different area" means offered by different academic units such as divisions, departments or Faculties and excluding courses offered by similar departments in different Faculties (such as English in the Faculty of Arts and the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies). Subject to the restrictions listed below, courses in the following areas may be taken in the Faculty of Arts, the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies or Glendon.

1. Courses which are cross-listed as SC courses or which are eligible for SC credit cannot count as general education courses.
2. Courses whose major focus is increased facility in the use of a language cannot count as general education courses. Such courses are offered in the departments marked with an * above.
3. Quantitative courses focusing on techniques of mathematics or statistics cannot count as general education courses. For example, this applies to some economics courses.
4. Geography courses cannot be used to satisfy general education requirements for students majoring in geography.

5. excluding women's studies courses which are cross-listed with natural science courses.
6. Humanities and social science courses cross-listed with science and technology studies (STS) courses cannot count as general education courses.

3. General education courses are normally taken at the 1000 or 2000 level, but higher-level courses are acceptable, subject only to prerequisites and course access specifications for enrolment.

4. Permission may be granted by the Office of Science Academic Services, on an individual basis, for a student to take a course outside the areas and Faculties listed above for general education credit, subject to the course fulfilling the Faculty of Science and Engineering breadth and critical skills requirements for general education courses, the student having the appropriate prerequisites and the course access specifications permitting enrolment. A student who is in doubt regarding whether or not any specific course will fulfill the Faculty of Science and Engineering general education requirements should consult the Office of Science Academic Services.

General Regulations

1. All students are required to observe the regulations of the University. Unless otherwise stated, any changes in regulations become effective as announced. This policy is not meant to disadvantage students as they proceed through their studies, including those who have completed a number of courses. It is intended to ensure that their preparation for courses is appropriate and current. Students should consult closely with departments and the Faculty through the advising process.

2. It is the student's responsibility to enrol in only those courses for which the student has successfully completed all designated prerequisites and to take concurrently all specified corequisites not already completed successfully. See also prerequisites/corequisites under Advising in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Advising, Enrolment, Registration, Graduation and Other Administrative Procedures section of this calendar.

3. All degree candidates are required to indicate a choice of degree program (bachelor, Specialized Honours, Honours Major, Honours Double Major or Honours Major/Minor) upon successful completion of 24 credits. Concurrent Certificate in Geographic Information Systems (GIS) and Remote Sensing

See Certificate Programs in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Undergraduate Degree and Certificate Programs section of this calendar.

International Bachelor of Science

The degree builds on the established strengths of the Honours BSc programs, and combines them with general education requirements and other required courses outside the major, most of which will be taken in the Faculty of Arts, and a mandatory period of study abroad. The program requires students to acquire an international language and to gain international experience on exchange at one of York University's partner institutions abroad.

The principal components will be the following:

- a total of 120 credits;
- 90 credits in science courses;
- 30 required credits outside the science major, consisting of:
 - 12 credits of language study in one of the languages offered at York University;
 - 18 credits of non-science international content courses;
 - one or two exchange terms abroad as a full-time student at an institution with which York has a formal exchange agreement.

Language Study

Each student will choose a modern language of study as an integral part of the program. The languages are those offered at York University. No prior knowledge of the language is necessary. All entering students will be given a placement test by the Department of Languages, Literature and Linguistics to determine their appropriate course entry level. All students must successfully complete at least the second university-level course in their chosen language. If entering students are placed in a course above the 1000-level, they must successfully complete 12 credits in that language; if students have a very high level of competence in the language, so that there are not 12 credits which they can do, i.e. the students are placed in the 4000 level, they must successfully complete the remaining six credits in that language and six credits of another language. If entering students already have a second-language competency in one of the designated program languages, they must select an additional language.

Students intending to study abroad in a language other than English should also get an assessment of their language ability from a member of the Department of Languages, Literature and Linguistics. Students whose language ability is deemed insufficient for exchange may do their exchange in an English-speaking country or take courses taught in English at a university where English is not the principal language of instruction.

International Exchange (Mandatory)

Every student is required to spend at least one full term abroad at one of York University's exchange partners. While on exchange, students must carry a full-time course load. The exchange should take place during the student's second or third year, depending on the requirements of the specific science program, and/or the student's language capacity.

VI. International Dual Degree in Mathematics and Statistics

In collaboration with the Dipartimento di Matematica Pura ed Applicata at the University of L'Aquila (Italy), the Department of Mathematics and Statistics offers an International Dual Degree program Mathematics and Statistics (BSc and Specialized Honours BSc only). This program is particularly demanding and will be of interest to students with academic performances of B average and better. Students in the program, after two years of study at York, but before the completion of the York degree requirements, will be eligible to study as York international exchange students for up to one year at the University of L'Aquila, earn York credits for specified courses taken at L'Aquila towards their York degree program, and at the same time fulfill the degree requirements for the Laurea di primo livello at L'Aquila, the Italian equivalent of a 90-credit BSc. All exchanges under this program are administered by York International in collaboration with the Ufficio Internazionale at the University of L'Aquila.

Upon completion of the York degree requirements, students of the University of L'Aquila studying as exchange students at York are eligible to earn a York degree in this program.

All BSc and BSc Honours degree candidates must satisfy a specified general education requirement in lieu of the general education requirements of the Faculty of Science and Engineering, as follows. For students whose home university is York, the specified general education requirement consists of: AS/IT 1000 6.00 or equivalent; the course Lingua e Cultura Italiana offered by the University of L'Aquila (three York credits) or equivalent; three more credits, in accordance with the general education requirements of the Faculty of Science and Engineering. (Note in particular that for York students in the program, AS/IT 1000 6.00 is exempted from Restriction 2 in the general education requirements of the Faculty of Science and Engineering). For students whose home university is the University of L'Aquila, the specified general education requirement consists of: Lingua Inglese 1, 2 offered by the University of L'Aquila (six York credits) or equivalent; AS/HUMA 1220 9.00 or equivalent.

The teaching program is enriched by the participation of more than 40 part-time faculty, drawn from other disciplines and from the Bench and Bar, who contribute their specialized expertise and applied lawyering skills.

The Student Body

The law school attracts a large, diverse and exceptionally talented student body, not only from Ontario, but from all regions of Canada and beyond. Through its regular admissions program, the law school accepts students with excellent academic records, many of whom have graduate degrees in other disciplines. In recent years, this group of students has become increasingly diverse, reflecting the changing demographic makeup of Canadian society. In addition, the law school offers special admission programs, providing a more comprehensive assessment of an applicant's capability to benefit from a legal education. The law school's admissions programs, supported by substantial entrance scholarships and bursaries, ensure excellence and rich diversity among our student body and among our graduates, who bring their varied backgrounds and experience to diverse careers in the legal profession, government, business and academe.

The Curriculum

The law school's size enables it to offer an exceptionally rich and varied curriculum with opportunities to explore theoretical and policy perspectives integrated with substantive law, legal analysis and lawyering skills in a wide range of subject areas. With approximately one hundred and sixty courses, seminars and special programs available, students can select an academic program substantially tailored to their own academic interests and career aspirations. The law school offers a number of special academic programs. The Intensive Program in Poverty Law at Parkdale Community Legal Services enables students to spend a term studying and working under the supervision of a team of academics, practising lawyers and community workers within a community clinic oriented to law reform. The law school also offers advanced intensive programs with clinical placements in criminal law, in immigration and refugee law, and in lands, resources and First Nations governments. As well, the school offers the Advanced Business Law Workshop and clinical programs in Trial Advocacy, Appellate Mooting, Legal Drafting and Negotiation. Other clinical opportunities include the Small Business Law Clinic (providing advice and assistance to referred individuals who are establishing small businesses), the Innocence Project (providing assistance to the wrongfully convicted) and the Mediation Project (training students who provide mediation services at the Small Claims Court). Students who seek to study the law in action, to develop lawyering skills, to engage in law reform and to understand the law from a theoretical and policy perspective, will find unique learning opportunities at Osgoode Hall Law School.

Joint Programs and Exchanges

Osgoode offers joint degree programs with other Faculties at York University: the LLB/MBA with the Schulich School of Business and the LLB/MES with the Faculty of Environmental Studies. As of September 2006, Osgoode also offers a four year joint degree program with the New York University School of Law, leading to the degrees of LLB and JD. In 2007, the law school introduced a further program with NYU, allowing students to obtain the degrees of LLB (at Osgoode) and LLM (at NYU). In addition, an exchange program with the Faculté de droit, Université de Montréal enables Osgoode students to study at Montréal for one semester, which is credited to the student's program at Osgoode, or for one year, following graduation, to qualify for a civil law degree. Various international exchange programs, including with law schools in Australia, China, France, Japan, England, Ireland, Germany, Copenhagen and Italy, enable Osgoode faculty and students to study or visit abroad.

Research

Members of the Osgoode faculty are among the most productive and distinguished legal scholars in Canada, pursuing ambitious and diverse research programs. Students are instructed in the special techniques of legal research and writing which are essential to the educated lawyer. There are opportunities to undertake research in satisfaction of some course requirements as well as opportunities for qualified students to engage in intensive supervised research programs. Students also participate in the editing of the Osgoode Hall Law Journal and act as research assistants to members of faculty. The research enterprise of faculty and students is supported by the largest law library in the Commonwealth, equipped with two computer laboratories and drawing increasingly on new technology. A number of research centres and research initiatives at the law school provide a focus for collaborative research: the Institute for Feminist Legal Studies, the Jack and Mae Nathanson Centre on Transnational Human Rights, Crime and Security, <http://www.TheCourt.ca> (an online resource for debate and data about the Supreme Court of Canada), the Cities Research Laboratory for Multimedia Research on World Class Cities and Globalization, the Comparative Research in Law & Political Economy Network, NIHERNET (York-Nigerian Human Rights Educational and Research Network) and the Law Commission of Ontario.

Technology

Osgoode Hall Law School is at the leading edge in the development and use of technology in teaching, learning and researching the law. Osgoode has five large electronic classrooms, complete with video and audio conferencing capabilities. All students receive a personalized Osgoode e-mail address, which remains with them even after graduation. As well, students have access to the My Osgoode portal, which connects them to course Web sites, and makes course outlines, schedules and materials available electronically, together with chat rooms and workspace. A number of the Law School's administrative services, including Career Services, are available via the Web through the portal. The entire law school features wireless Internet connectivity for students with laptop computers. Two computer labs, with a total of 80 computer stations, are available to students in the Library. Students now have the option to participate in a comprehensive E-exam Program, in which students could elect to either handwrite or type their exams on their personal laptop computers or using one of the computers in Osgoode's computer labs. Technology is changing the way lawyers work. An Osgoode legal education prepares students to learn and work effectively in the information age.

Extracurricular Programs

Much of the life of the law school is focused on extra-curricular programs. Osgoode is fortunate each year to attract visitors distinguished in public, professional and academic life who address the law school community in endowed lectureships and in programs organized by student groups. There is substantial representation of students in the decision making processes of the law school through the Student Caucus, and an active student government known as the Legal and Literary Society. One third of the student body lives on campus, providing a strong base for participation in a broad range of extracurricular programs. More than 300 students contribute as volunteers in CLASP, the student-run legal aid clinic, operating at the school. Others speak to community groups and high school students on legal issues. The student newspaper, Obiter Dicta, is published weekly. Talented students write, perform and produce an annual musical review, the Mock Trial. Students assist in editing the Osgoode Hall Law Journal, a distinguished academic journal. Through competition, students are selected to represent Osgoode in interschool mooting competitions in which Osgoode students excel. Osgoode also offers undergraduate students the opportunity to participate in a mooting competition every March, through its Osgoode Cup National Undergraduate Mooting Competition. The 2005 Osgoode Cup winners were members of York's Pre-Law Society team!

There is a full range of athletic teams and activities including the Touch Football League which attracts broad participation. As well, there is a variety of organizations such as the Black Law Students Association, the Business Law Society, the Health Law Society, the Environmental Law Society, the First Nations Law Students Association, the Law Union, the International Law Society, Women's Caucus and a variety of political and other clubs. These varied activities enrich students' experience by providing opportunities for personal growth, community outreach and collegial activity. Osgoode Hall Law School thus provides a multi-faceted educational environment in which students with an aptitude for the study of law may test and develop their intellectual powers, their understanding and their skills to prepare for a broad range of stimulating careers, whether in private practice, policy development, public administration, business, government, politics, social activism, the judiciary or the university.

Schulich School of Business - Keele Campus

Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) / International Bachelor of Business Administration (iBBA)

Our two undergraduate programs offer students a challenging and rewarding full-time course of study. Our students develop critical and analytical skills and acquire a solid foundation in business concepts. Admission to the BBA and iBBA programs requires both high academic achievement and demonstrated leadership in extra-curricular activities.

BBA: A Business Degree with the Option to Specialize

At Schulich, the four-year Honours BBA degree involves an essential base of management studies that encompasses more than the traditional focus on commerce and economics. Students study business from day one with first-year courses in applied business ethics, business history, financial accounting, microeconomics, and macroeconomics. By carefully selecting management elective courses, you can specialize in one or more areas of business.

iBBA: A Business Degree with a Global Perspective

The iBBA lets you immerse yourself in international business studies and language skills. In addition to studying a broad base of business courses, iBBA students include three years of language study, globally-focused study courses, and an exchange term to their academic experience.

The Learning Environment

Our programs are limited in size so that you will receive the attention necessary to fully realize your potential. We use a variety of teaching methods including case studies, small group discussions, and lectures.

Study Abroad

In the BBA program you will have the option of studying on an international exchange for one or two semesters during your third or fourth year. For iBBA students, an international exchange is a required part of the program. All exchanges are at one of our partner institutions.

The Schulich Career Development Centre

The centre provides career days, workshops, and company information sessions. It also posts openings for part-time, summer and full-time employment on its Web site.

Careers

Schulich's Career Development Centre will assist you with career management training. Its industry-specific counsellors offer you services ranging from one-on-one advising to recorded mock interview sessions. You will increase your self-awareness in terms of your business interests, strengths and weaknesses. At the same time, you will learn how to research thoroughly your industry and companies of choice.

Supplementary Admission Information Form

All applicants must complete a supplementary admission information form, which is used to assist us in assessing your potential to benefit from and contribute to Schulich's programs. It is strongly encouraged that applicants visit the Schulich Web site <http://www.schulich.yorku.ca/newbbaibba> to download the supplementary form.

The interdisciplinary program in African Studies provides students with the opportunity to pursue their interest in Africa in conjunction with another discipline. Students can double major or minor in African studies and an Honours BA program in the Faculty of Arts, or they can take a series of courses that complement their specialization in another subject area.

Students in the program usually take an interest not only in the broad range of thematic academic issues of the program, but also in the wider issues which have an impact upon Africa and its peoples. This interest is represented through a newsletter, events mounted by the program in conjunction with students, faculty and often the community and outside institutions. Because African studies has a commitment to both the intrinsic benefits of academic inquiry and to the well being of the peoples of Africa, the program can therefore equip students seeking to do graduate work, work with African communities within Canada and work abroad.

The African Studies program is designed to give graduates a broad theoretical framework and a set of highly-developed analytical skills. The career and employment opportunities for our graduates are potentially excellent, in view of society's growing awareness of the importance of international, gender and equity issues. Prospective employers welcome employees who are sensitive to international issues and comfortable with the emerging diversity of Canadian society. Alumni from our program have found work in a wide range of fields, including government, education, law, social work, public service, business and media. A degree in African studies will offer you the challenge of personal and political insight, and it will encourage you to grow intellectually beyond the confines of traditional academic learning.

The Department of Anthropology concentrates on change in the contemporary world, especially in relation to new and emerging social challenges. Our courses deal with how people live their lives, as they do so often at the edge of political, social and cultural stability. As anthropologists, we are interested in exploring how people are subjected to, participate in and contest the processes of living in a world that is now interconnected by new and powerful economic, cultural and technological forces. Consideration is given to how class, race, gender and ethnic identity politics are produced and expressed in shifting local and global contexts of power. These themes are explored in a wide variety of courses that engage such topics as: development and the environment; media and popular culture; health, illness and disability; gender and sexualities; tourism, religion and science; diasporic communities and displaced peoples; violence and conflict; and the colonial process. Other courses focus on processes of change in the prehistoric and historic past. Our overall goal is to prepare students to ask critical questions about contemporary, past and future social life, and to provide students with the critical analytic tools required to understand our place in the social and cultural diversity of the world, past and present.

Biochemistry – Science and Engineering

Biochemistry, the chemistry of life, underpins much of biological, biotechnological and biomedical research today. As a biochemistry major, you will explore the structure and function of molecules in organisms, genomic research with cutting-edge DNA technology, and investigate the cell's proteomes. Biochemists are employed in the rapidly expanding biotechnology and pharmaceutical industries, in academic or hospital research centres, as well as in teaching at schools, colleges and universities. A biochemistry degree is also an entry into professional schools in medicine and other health professions, business and law.

Biology is the science of life. It is concerned with structure, function, evolution and distribution of all living organisms. The Department of Biology is sufficiently large and its faculty members sufficiently varied in research interests to offer undergraduate instruction in all the major areas of biology. It specializes, however, in four areas: physiology, cell biology, molecular biology and population biology. Specialized programs in biology (see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar) require completion of a prescribed core of courses which expose the student to general areas of biology, but also give the student wide flexibility in selecting courses.

Courses in Biology

Biology courses whose numbers begin with the digit 4 are normally offered in alternate years—with the exception of SC/BIOL 4000 3.00/SC/BIOL 4000 8.00, SC/BIOL 4040 3.00, SC/BIOL 4200 3.00, SC/BIOL 4290 4.00, SC/BIOL 4245 3.00, SC/BIOL 4255 3.00 and SC/BIOL 4370 3.00, which have been offered annually in recent years.

The contact hour information in the course outlines below specifies the number of hours per week when the course is taught in the daytime in a fall/winter session. If the course is offered in the evening and/or in a summer session, the format and scheduling may be different, though equivalent in credit value.

SC/BIOL 1010 6.00 Biological Science. A course for biology students examining unifying concepts and fundamental principles of biology. The course offers an introduction to cell and molecular biology, genetics, ecology and evolution. The laboratory exercises are an integral component, therefore, students must pass the laboratory section in order to pass the course. Three lecture hours, two lecture hours per week in alternate weeks; one tutorial hour per week; 12 three-hour laboratories. Two terms. Six credits. Prerequisite: OAC chemistry or 12U chemistry or SC/CHEM 1500 4.00. Course credit exclusion: SC/BIOL 1410 6.00.

Chemistry is the study of the structure and properties of matter including the energy changes that accompany chemical reactions. The understanding gained from these studies is applied in the prediction of the behaviour of matter and in the interpretation of a wide variety of phenomena. Chemistry is linked closely with a number of other subjects, ranging from astrophysics and earth science to the biological and medical sciences, which involve matter at various levels of complexity.

The Department of Chemistry offers undergraduate courses in all the major sub-disciplines of the subject, including physical, theoretical, analytical, inorganic, organic and biological chemistry. Specialized programs in Chemistry (see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar) include a required core of courses to ensure that the student acquires a broad knowledge of the subject, but also provide opportunities for the student to concentrate on areas of particular interest. In the applied chemistry area the Department of Chemistry also offers specialization in atmospheric chemistry (see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar).

The Children's Studies program explores the experiences of children and adult constructions of childhood throughout time and across cultures, adopting a "childist" (child-centred) and children's rights approach that recognizes children as subjects in their own culture. The program consists of core courses in humanities and additional child-related courses throughout the University. Finally, the program is a 120-credit, direct-entry, interdisciplinary Honours BA degree program, which also includes double major, major/minor and minor degree options.

Cognitive science is the scientific study of the mind and its processes. What is especially exciting about cognitive science is its nature of interdisciplinary cooperation involving psychologists, philosophers, computer scientists, neuroscientists, anthropologists, biologists and linguists. Though researchers from each of these fields have long been studying the nature of thought, emotion, perception, memory, language and other aspects of cognition, cognitive science allows them to take advantage of the strengths and research in other disciplines. Different methodologies, intellectual histories and disciplinary divisions often isolate those with similar goals, and cognitive science aims to bring researchers back together. By approaching questions from a variety of perspectives, the cognitive scientist has a greater chance of finding answers to questions about cognition.

Communication studies is offered as an Honours Double Major Interdisciplinary BA program and as a Specialized Honours BA program. The Specialized Honours BA program is a delayed-entry program; admission to the program requires that students achieve a 6.00 (B) average in AS/SOSC 1310 9.00 and at least six other communication studies credits and a cumulative grade point average of at least 5.00 (C+). For details, please consult the Faculty of Arts Programs of Study section of this calendar.

The communication studies curriculum consists of four sub-fields that are considered the main themes of the program: interpersonal and organizational communication; critical technology studies; politics and policy; and media, culture and society. The emphasis of the program is academic rather than technical; the aim of the program is to produce graduates who have acquired skills in communications analysis and a synthesis of knowledge in the increasingly complex field of communications.

Computer science is the study of processes involving the storage, transmission and transformation of information in the context of modern electronic technology. Both theoretical and applied areas of computer science are represented in the courses offered by the department. The introductory courses (two for majors, three for non-majors) are concerned largely with programming as the primary tool used for understanding and controlling computation. The higher-level courses deal with theoretical concerns, the practical design of hardware and software, and a variety of application areas.

For specific requirements of programs offered by this department, see the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar for BSc and BSc Honours programs and the Faculty of Arts Programs of Study section of this calendar for BA and BA Honours programs. For degree programs offered through the Atkinson Faculty of Liberal and Professional Studies, see the Atkinson Programs of Study section of this calendar.

Courses in Computer Science

A supplemental calendar detailing courses and topics to be offered in the next year is available from the department office in March.

For the purpose of satisfying departmental degree requirements, the number of computer science credits taken outside the Department of Computer Science and Engineering may not exceed six credits in core areas (here defined to be 1000- and 2000-level computer science courses, 3000-level computer science courses satisfying the breadth requirement and, for Specialized Honours students, any required 3000- and 4000-level computer science courses) and 12 credits in total.

Course numbering. Computer science courses with 5 as the second digit of the course number may be used to satisfy Faculty degree requirements but do not count as computer science major credits. 3000- and 4000-level computer science courses are divided by number into four areas as follows: theory and numerical computation (second digit is 1), systems (second digit is 2), software development (second digit is 3) and applications (second digit is 4).

Courses in computer science have three class hours a week for one term (three credits - course numbers end in 3.00), unless otherwise indicated.

The Department of Computer Science and Engineering will not permit any student to take more than 12 computer science credits per term in the fall and winter terms and six computer science credits in the summer term. Students who work full-time are strongly advised to take no more than six credits in any term.

For prerequisite purposes, AS/SC/MATH 1000 3.00 or AS/SC/MATH 1013 3.00 may be substituted in lieu of AK/AS/SC/MATH 1300 3.00; AS/SC/MATH 1010 3.00 or AS/SC/MATH 1014 3.00 in lieu of AK/AS/SC/MATH 1310 3.00; AK/AS/SC/MATH 1021 3.00 or AS/SC/MATH 2021 3.00 or AK/AS/SC/MATH 2221 3.00 in lieu of AS/SC/MATH 1025 3.00.

The interdisciplinary program in Criminology focuses on the analysis of crime, criminality, social control and regulation and the criminal justice system. As well as providing students with a thorough grounding in the history, debates, issues and critiques of the field, the program curriculum is intended to encourage a critical interdisciplinary analysis of how crime, criminality and the criminal justice system have been constructed, represented and administered legally, politically, economically and culturally.

Students in the program are required to complete a series of core program courses that focus on areas or topics central to criminology, such as criminal law and procedure, criminological theory, the criminal justice system, policing, the court system, penology, corrections and alternative forms of justice. In addition to the program core, criminology majors select courses from a variety of departments and disciplines which address topics, issues and concerns relevant to criminology, and which allow students to explore particular stands of criminology based on their individual interests.

For specific program requirements and the list of program courses, please consult the Faculty of Arts Programs of Study section of this calendar.

Programs of Study

The Department of Dance offers a comprehensive education in dance as a performing art leading to a BA (90 credits), BFA Honours (120 credits), or BA Honours (120 credits) degree. Throughout the program BFA students participate intensively in studio courses involving ballet and modern technique, conditioning for dancers, improvisation, music, composition/choreography, repertory, dance production, pedagogy and somatic education. Special performance opportunities are available through the York Dance Ensemble. Critical, analytical and writing skills are fully developed in the areas of dance studies and dance history, movement analysis, kinesiology and injury prevention, dance writing, dance ethnology and anthropology. BA Honours majors focus on dance studies, examining the role of dance in human societies, and in their final year undertake a capstone project. The BA Honours is particularly appropriate for those who wish to undertake a double major combining dance with another field. The program is enriched by distinguished guest lecturers, master teachers and choreographers, performances, films, workshops and the integration of new technologies. The emphasis in the department is to prepare people for careers and graduate work in dance and other fields.

A placement evaluation is required of all entering BFA students. Applicants for that degree must have had some training in either ballet or modern dance. See details in section on Faculty of Fine Arts evaluations. Advancement to second, third and fourth level dance technique courses is by juried audition only.

Through the joint five-year National Ballet School/York University diploma degree program students can combine study towards a BFA Honours in dance with the Teacher Training Program at the National Ballet School. Students interested in this joint program will be expected to declare their interest in the first year of study.

Dance majors are eligible to apply for the Concurrent program of the Faculty of Education at the end of the first year of study.

A dance minor program is available for students who are majoring in another discipline in the Faculties of Arts, Environmental Studies, Fine Arts, Health or Science and Engineering. The minor requires the equivalent of 30 credits in dance theory and practice.

Program of Study

The Honours bachelor of design program, which provides a professional education in a humanistic context, is jointly run by the design departments of York University and Sheridan College Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning. Students in the bachelor of design Honours program enrol in courses at both institutions. The bachelor of design program offers a comprehensive, intensive and professional education in communication design and a curriculum that reflects the distinct theoretical, research and practicum focus and needs of the design profession and the standards of the Registered Graphic Designers of Ontario. Students in the program benefit from small studio/practicum classes, design studies classes and an internship program. The design practicum courses focus on three major areas of design: communications, information and interactive/multimedia design; the design courses provide an integrated approach to design history, research, design management and critical issues in design.

For information on supplementary evaluation requirements and program requirements, please refer to the Faculty of Fine Arts section of this calendar.

The Department of Earth and Space Science and Engineering offers interdisciplinary instruction in applied science areas dealing with the solid Earth and the atmosphere. Several distinct streams of instruction are offered.

In the earth science stream, students obtain a strong background in the physics and chemistry of the solid Earth and the techniques of mineral and petroleum exploration. It is important for the earth science student planning a career in exploration to gain practical experience working in the area during summer periods prior to graduation.

In the atmospheric science stream, students obtain solid grounding in the physics, chemistry and dynamics of the atmosphere.

The department offers a Specialized Honours degree stream in space science, developed to meet the needs of rapidly expanding technologies in these fields.

In cooperation with the Chemistry Department, the department offers an Honours Double Major applied science degree stream in atmospheric chemistry that explores the interaction of chemistry and dynamics within the atmosphere and its impact on the global environment.

The course requirements of programs in Earth and Atmospheric Science are given in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar (for the atmospheric chemistry and space science streams, see separate entries in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Programs of Study section of this calendar).

The department also offers certificates in Geographic Information Systems and Remote Sensing and in Meteorology, which are described in the Faculty of Science and Engineering Undergraduate Degree and Certificate Programs section of this calendar.

Undergraduate training in economics is intended to familiarize students with the discipline of economic thinking, and so equip them for intelligent appraisal of contemporary economic problems. It is also intended to make students aware of the nature of economic science and of directions in which economic theory is currently moving. The discipline of economic thinking has three related parts: identifying specifically economic problems; developing and applying economic theory to improve our understanding and ability to solve the problems; evaluating the adequacy of our theoretical understanding through the use of data and empirical testing.

Specifically, economic problems arise out of the conflict between apparently limitless human demand for goods and services and a limited supply of resources for satisfying those demands. Courses in economics expose students both to the wide range of individual and social problems that arise from this conflict and to the distinctive economic approach to their solution. Economic theory provides students with the analytical framework necessary for understanding and solving economic problems. Empirical work provides a basis for improving existing theories and for distinguishing between competing theories.

An undergraduate degree in economics prepares students for careers in business and government, for graduate training in economics and for professional training in business, law, public administration and other disciplines.
